Pres. Harding Not Opposed to Reservations—Johnson In Favor—Debate Begins

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Indications are that the new treaties negotiated by the administration with Germany, Austria and Hungary will be speedily ratified by the senate, notwithstanding the opposition of Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, as a result of intimations from the White House that President Harding does not regard with disfavor the reservations recommended yesterday by the senate foreign relations committee and the statement of Senator Johnson, republican, California, that the treaties as reported out of committee sufficiently safeguard America from European entanglements and repudiate the League of Nations.

Although no program has been determined for consideration of the treaties in the senate, it is expected by leaders that they will be ratified within a week or ten days. Senator Lodge, the republican leader, stands ready to hold the senate in night sessions to accomplish speedy ratification. The debate, which is expected to begin today, will be in open session.

Man Who Stole Automobile in Lowell Has Long Prison Record—Prisoner Identified By Finger Prints

Lowest Mortality Rate In This City In Nearly Five Years Was Recorded This Week

The lowest mortality rate to be recorded in Lowell in nearly five years was credited to this city during the week ending today, according to the weekly report of the health department. There were only 16 deaths in the past seven days. No other week since the one ending July 14, 1917, has produced such a low mortality. In that week there were 15 deaths.

Infant mortality was also low this week. There were only three deaths of children under one. A year ago this week there was a total of 36 deaths and nine under one. Last week there were 24 deaths and the week before 29.

The excellent fall weather which the city has been enjoying lately is attributed as one of the big factors in the low mortality now prevailing here, health department officials say. Diphtheria caused two deaths this week. Among the infectious diseases reported were four cases of diphtheria, two of typhoid fever, eight of tuberculosis and one of sleeping sickness.

OMISSION OF STATE PRIMARIES PUTS QUIETUS ON POLITICS

Interest Now in Special Elections—Public Sentiment Favors Charter Change—Ward Representation Interests Young Men—The Mayoralty Candidates

The omission of primary and election contests for state offices this year, in accordance with the new biennial election law, has served to delay the local political season later than usual. Ordinarily, the state primaries would have come and gone by this time and the candidates for election in November would be engaged in their campaigns.

However, the impending elections on the acceptance or rejection of the proposed new charter and the question of municipal ownership of the gas plant are slowly but surely arousing the interest of Lowell voters, more especially the former referendum. The question of the gas plant is to be decided Tuesday, Oct. 11, two weeks from next Tuesday and then the charter question the following Tuesday, Oct. 15.

It is doubtful, even though a complete vote were registered at the gas plant election, that the project would go through. It seems to be the general sentiment that the undertaking is one too big for the municipality to handle and handle efficiently. Investigations in other cities where municipal ownership of gas plants has been attempted have not been successful.

BENJAMIN FINE IS OLD TIMER

Local Police Get Information From the State Department of Correction

Fine Was Once Granted a Governor's Pardon—Was Often Pardoned

Clothes Believed to Have Been Stolen Are Found In His Room

The belief of the local police that in the arrest of Benjamin Fine for the larceny of an automobile in this city last Monday they had apprehended a notorious character was sustained today when Deputy Superintendent of Police Downey received a communication from the state department of correction which told of Fine's record since he was first taken by the law, June 15, 1905. This information was sent the Lowell police at the deputy's request after a copy of the arrested man's finger prints had been forwarded to that department immediately following his arrest.

The investigation reveals that Fine served terms in state prison, the house of correction and in a reformatory in Indiana. That he also has an alias, having been arrested and convicted under the name "William A. Joyce," from 1905 to 1915, is shown by the letter.

Fine, who is now out on bail pending trial, is now out on bail pending trial.

QUILFORD AND GARDNER MEET IN TITLE ROUND

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Robert Gardner of Chicago, twice holder of the American amateur golf title and runner up in the British amateur championship, and Jesse Guilford, a Boston golfer who has been trying for the premier golf honors for 19 years or more, today played the final round of 36 holes for the national championship at the St. Louis Country club, having yesterday won their semi-finals matches in a driving rain.

Gardner defeated Willie Hunter 5 and 4, keeping the Briton down all the way after the fifth hole. He out-played Hunter from the tee and through the greens all the time and, after the first few holes, putted as well or better. Hunter showed his mastery of the rud up shot but it was used mostly in getting a half where the loss of a hole seemed imminent.

Guilford won his place in the final by defeating the present champion Chick Evans, 7 and 5. Finding Evans sadly off his game, especially on the greens, the Bostonians played good enough golf to win over a better variety than Evans displayed yesterday. Guilford made only two errors, toppling his brassie to a creek on the ninth, and heeling his mashie approach out of bounds on the 29th hole.

TO CONSULT LEAGUE MEMBERS

To Take Up Desire of U. S. on Mandates as Feature of Yap Settlement

Will Also Study American Claims to Landownership in Yap

OKIO, Sept. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Japan will consult with other members of the League of Nations relative to the desire of the United States to receive equal treatment in respect to mandated islands of the Pacific as a feature of the settlement of the Yap question. It is said by newspaper here. Japan will also study the American claim to land ownership in Yap, as foreigners do not have the right to land ownership in Japanese territory.

It is estimated that this country's experience at the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions will be about $2,000,000. Government leaders believe the conference will be in session for two months.

Definite decision has been reached that the chief of the Japanese delegation will sail for the United States on Oct. 15.

It is believed Japan is awaiting information regarding the character of the British and French delegations before finally deciding on the men who will act as chief at the Washington conference.

Another meeting of Japanese field marshals and the supreme war councilors has been held and the Yomiuri Shimbun declares the army's attitude on the limitation of armaments is as follows:

"Japan will maintain her already settled principle of national defense, and no change or alteration will be made until the services when international disputes and trouble can be settled without relying upon or resorting to armed force. This is because of Japan's particular national status and the situation which exists in surrounding states."

This will indicate a change from the previously announced decision of Japan which supported in principle the maintenance of 21 army divisions. It would seem she would be disposed to follow other nations in actual reductions. Leading newspapers declare that it is the intention of army and navy authorities to propose definitely the reduction or abolishment of fortifications in the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines and Guam in exchange for the dismantling of Japanese fortifications on Formosa and the Pescadores islands and at Port Arthur and Tsingtao. Confirmation of this report, however, cannot be secured.

DEFENDS FOREIGN BORN ARREST SLAYER OF FOREMAN

Taken Into Custody Found at Home of Sister While Poses Sought Him In Woods—Admits Murder

WINCHESTER, Sept. 24.—Wallace Dodge, a laborer who yesterday shot and killed Robert A. Walker, a road construction foreman at Dublin, N. H., was arrested here early today at the home of his sister, who poses sought him in the woods near the scene of the shooting. He admitted the murder, the police said, and offered no resistance.

Dodge asked about Walker's condition and when he was told of his death, he said: "That's too bad. But I didn't intend to kill him. But if I hadn't he would have done me. He threatened me and if he had stopped after I had shot the first shot, I would have quit firing."

The shooting followed a reprimand by Walker over Dodge's work. Dodge drew a revolver and when the foreman threatened to have him arrested, Dodge is alleged to have fired five shots, killing Walker almost instantly. Sheriff E. H. Lord of Keene and County Solicitor Roy M. Picard will take the prisoner to Keene, where he will be arraigned on a charge of murder.

Third Day of Hearing

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—The preliminary hearing of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle on a charge of murder, in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, entered its third day in the police court of Judge Sylvain J. Lazarus here today, with the prosecution still presenting its case against the film star.

Al Semmacher, business manager for Miss Rappe, and guest at Arbuckle's party at the Hotel St. Francis, at which the girl is said to have suffered fatal injury, was the principal witness at yesterday's court session. He had not concluded his testimony when the court adjourned for the day.

Received Guests in Pajamas

The party Semmacher testified, was by no means a dull affair. There was much lively, many women and considerable music from a phonograph rented by Arbuckle for his stay in San Francisco. Semmacher, while not absolutely sure, said that to the best of his recollection the pajama-clad celebrants at the party did some dancing.

Semmacher said that Arbuckle, Lowell Sherman, Mrs. Bessie Manito Delmont received guests at the affair while attired in pajamas and declared considerable liquor was drunk by the participants.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT ZERO TO APPEAL

Fine of $150 for Violation of Dry Law—Moonshine

Brought $1.50 a Pint

Unlawfully selling moonshine did not prove very profitable business with Joseph Ferrera after all, for before Judge Enright in the district court this morning he was fined $150. The police told the court that the defendant was selling the booze at $1.50 a pint, "a rather steep price for the stuff," commented Sgt. Winn. Ferrera had several pints on his person when arrested, police testified. The accused pleaded guilty and paid his fine.

After Judge Enright heard some of the testimony against John Scimolksi of Lakeview avenue, charged with drunkenness, related by his wife, he ordered her to go to the clerk's office and have a warrant charging her husband with assault and battery. Later the charge was heard and Scimolksi was sentenced to five months in the house of correction. The drunkenness charge was filed. Mrs. Scimolksi testified that her husband while under the influence of liquor assaulted her in his home. She showed the court bruises and cuts on her hands inflicted by her husband with his teeth and a pair of scissors, she testified. "He even threatened to run a knife through my heart," she said through an interpreter, "and then I sent for the police." The husband denied the charges made by the woman and said he struck her in self-defense. Scimolksi was in a very talkative mood, apparently, and took considerable vocal energy on the part of the judge to order him, through the interpreter to hold his tongue.

Police testimony had Jos. J. Burke, who was charged with drunkenness, "hanging around" the new high school building at 1 o'clock this morning, and when the court could resolve the question of his conduct in a room in Middlesex street, was announced by the prosecution to be serving a sentence in the house of correction at Cambridge for non-support.

Officer Cooney of the vice squad on the stand related the apprehension of the couple in a lodging room on the corner of the street. "On parting," the police officer testified, "the woman kissed Smith and told him to keep up his courage."

Joseph Tellier was ordered by the court to pay his wife $12 a week beginning the first of October and was put on probation for ninety days in a room in Middlesex street, was announced by the prosecution to be serving a sentence in the house of correction at Cambridge for non-support.

GOING TO WASHINGTON TO ASK PRESIDENT TO PUBLISH LIST OF WAR PROFITEERS

Wants Them to Split Their Earnings With Deserving War Veterans

This request will refer to those who made more than 100 per cent profit. Ladou said he would leave New York tomorrow night after a concert sing for unemployed at Central Park and would seek an interview with President Harding and Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

"I shall give each of them meal tickets," he added, "and I may also take some human documents along with the hope of procuring an interview in the White House, where the president can hear from the bottom of the men's misery, their story."

From Washington Ladou plans to go to Buffalo to help unemployed in the city and then visit Chicago and probably St. Louis.

ing a hearing in the local district court, was arrested eight times for offenses involving larceny, breaking and entering, unlawful train riding, drunkenness and profanity.

His areas of criminal operation covered Boston, Cambridge, Blackwells, N. Y., Jeffersonville, Indiana, and Cambridge. To that list he has now added Lowell.

He was paroled in several instances and once was granted a governor's pardon.

The correction department states that Fine has previously been at address at Corbett street, Charlestown.

Benjamin Fine is the man who was arrested last Monday afternoon after he had crashed into an automobile belonging to Edwin M. Fuller, through a fence in Chinatown, following a collision with a refuse wagon.

The auto had been taken from the Market street subway about half an hour before he was arrested by Officer Small in Charlestown.

When searched at the station Fine had a set of number plates owned by a Methuen auto dealer concealed between the back of his shirt and his coat, besides a large bunch of keys and blank operators' license applications.

The next day police inspectors working on the case located a room on Market street, where by time here they found a large assortment of men's clothes, chief among them about a dozen suits, some new, others second hand, which the police believe were stolen from clothing houses.

Some of the suits were still tagged and had the buttons usually left on the trousers bottoms to accommodate customers in shortening or lengthening the pant as required. None of the clothing could be identified by Lowell dealers. The police are of the opinion the clothes were stolen in Boston.

The official record of the prisoner as furnished the local police by the state correction department follows:

Arrested June 15, 1915, as William A. Joyce, sentenced to five years in the house of correction for breaking and entering. He was released on parole in 1919.

As William A. Joyce, in November, 1919, he was sentenced at Jeffersonville, Indiana, to serve ten to twenty years in the Indiana state reformatory for burglary. In 1915 he was pardoned by the governor.

He was sent to Deer Island for six months for larceny from the Suffolk superior court in 1917 again under the alias William A. Joyce, and in 1918, under the same name was sentenced to the state prison for two and a half to three years for larceny, the case being heard in the Middlesex superior court. Fine was released on parole from this sentence on last May 12.

The record shows arrests and convictions for minor offenses such as profanity, drunkenness, and unlawfully riding on trains in Boston, Cambridge, Buffalo and Blackwells, N. Y. What sentences he received in these cases is not told.

The police are of the opinion that "Benjamin Fine" is an alias, the accused man is going under and are making an effort to trace his real name. It may also be possible that his right name is William A. Joyce, by which he was known years ago, police authorities said today.

MUST SETTLE CENTRAL BRIDGE QUESTION

That is the question which must soon be decided by representatives of the Engineering Service and Construction Co. and the engineering and law departments of the city of Lowell. The construction company has practically completed about one-third of the roadway reconstruction of the bridge. It has notified Mayor Thompson that as soon as that part of the structure is thrown open, it will close the rest of the bridge until the entire job is completed. It insists that it has the right to do this under the terms of its contract.

That will mean that there will be considerable congestion when all traffic of a vehicular nature, including street cars, automobiles and trucks, will be forced to travel over a narrow passageway, ordinarily wide enough for but a single electric car. It will possibly necessitate the employment of several traffic officers, continually to keep traffic moving in but one direction at a time. Pedestrians will find no greater hardship awaiting them than that which they have encountered all summer, when but one sidewalk on the bridge has been open to them and that in deplorable condition. When the other part of the bridge is opened they will find a new concrete sidewalk there.

Mayor Thompson says that the city will refuse to allow the construction company to take such a step unless the city engineer and the consulting engineer, Prof. Lewis H. Moore, rule that it is absolutely necessary. The matter will probably come before the municipal council at its meeting Tuesday.

FRENCH DELEGATION TO ARMS CONFERENCE

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Premier Briand, Albert Sarraut, minister of colonies, and Jules J. Jusserand, French ambassador at Washington, will represent France at the conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions. It is declared by newspapers here. The French member of the delegation, it is said, will probably be either Rene Viviani, former premier, or Louis Leclercq, minister of the colonies. Premier Briand may remain at Washington only a few weeks.

NO KILUX KIAN HERE

There is no evidence of there being any branch of the Ku Klux Klan in Lowell. Inspector Mayor Percy D. Thompson is aware. Recent publicity given the organization has disclosed that it is not only not in the city, but it is not even in the vicinity of the city. The Klan is a secret self-appointed vigilance committee and has met with the disapproval of the governmental authorities.

determine the status of Major Walter H. Jones with reference to the position of physical supervisor. Maj. Jones has been three times elected to the position and is a veteran of three wars. He contends that he has certain rights in virtue of these two facts. His election for the fourth time, which would give him permanent tenure of office, has not been recommended by the superintendent of the city.

The next regular meeting of the school board is scheduled for Tuesday evening of next week and it was expected that the solicitor's opinion would be ready at that time. However, Mr. Regan said this noon that it would be out of the question to have an opinion ready at that time. It will be available later on in the week, he said.

The opinion of the solicitor with regard to the legality of the election of school teachers who have not been recommended by the superintendent of schools is likely to have a far-reaching effect, especially if he rules that such employment is illegal. It is known that there have been quite a few teachers elected without the recommendation of the superintendent and naturally they are a bit worried as to the outcome of the present investigation.

Mr. Regan has not yet had opportunity to give the matter close study and has given no intimation of what his opinion will be.

THE GAGNON COMPANY

"Home of the Greatest Values" Is Celebrating Its Second Anniversary

The Gagnon company, one of Lowell's most up-to-date department stores and known as "The Home of the Greatest Values," is today celebrating its second birthday as a mercantile establishment in the Spindle City, with a unique display of the latest fall and winter wearing apparel and wonderfully good values in new clothing and ready-to-wear lines. Styles are all late, goods sold as low as the market will allow, and for this second anniversary sale there are offered a large number of extra money-saving sales on both floors and in the basement, which are attracting increasing attention.

As a result of the interest displayed yesterday and today in the big "Anniversary Sale" announcements in The Sun, President Gagnon announced today that the celebration will be extended into next week, with a special sale all day Monday in the basement and upper floor departments. The three-day sale will close Monday night.

President Gagnon believes in regular advertising for thorough results when endeavoring to move large quantities of goods. His present campaign in the newspapers has been a generous one, and today he expressed himself as highly satisfied with the extensive work accomplished by displaying the store bargains far and wide through the columns of the press.

As a result of the interest aroused by the anniversary announcements, plans are under way to enlarge many of the important store departments on all floors. The children's department on the second floor will be greatly increased in size, giving the company more room for the display of certain goods that have heretofore been exhibited "by sample." There will be an increased assortment of goods in the men's and boys' furnishings departments. In the women's wear section and in the departments dealing exclusively in leather goods and toilet goods.

The shoe department is offering a surprisingly attractive display of winter footwear for all members of the family and at prices that attract wide attention considering the quality of the goods on the shelves.

The Gagnon company has begun extensive alterations on the third floor of the building it occupies at the corner of Merrimack and Palmer streets. Carpenters are busily making over the entire floor, installing the company offices in the new space and thus making more room downstairs for the display of new goods. President Gagnon intends to have all of his office work done on the third floor, and the extensive alterations now under way will give the company a long needed addition to its housing space that all growing stores need in times of reconstruction.

The Gagnon store is proud of its record made during its short existence in Lowell, and prouder still of its extensive clientele that has so faithfully supported this up-to-date store in its endeavor to supply values of the money saving kind in offering honest goods of the more attractive sort to its patrons.

HOPEFUL OUTLOOK FOR OUR EXPORT TRADE.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Emphatic denouncement of dismal stories from supposedly well informed business experts regarding the utter collapse of American export trade, and hopeless future prospects, particularly for infant manufacturers, because of domestic banking and transportation facilities, supplemented by strangling European competition, characterized the first public address of Dr. Julius Klein since his appointment by Herbert Hoover as director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, after speaking last night before about 1000 prominent exporters called together by the Boston Export Round Table.

He said: "The absurdity of these opinions is becoming more and more evident every day. They are simply one phase of the panic which has swept through some of our export communities, especially those in which the so-called war-baby houses had been flourishing." The director declared: "That the loudest complaints had emanated from the thousands of opportunistic speculators who appeared on all sides during the war boom and drifted into foreign trade as just one more field for chance enterprise. We can and will hold our own in those markets and trades in which we have a real abiding interest. The sober, substantial element among our exporters have not lost faith. They have cleared away the fantastic debris of the recent hectic past, and are now laying the foundation for a substantial and lasting structure. One thing is sure," said Dr. Klein, "and that is that the ground-work of our export interests has been laid here to rock-bottom. The past few months of anxiety have certainly been a trial by fire, but those months have emphatically not revealed any inherent weakness in our foreign trade efforts and ambitions, in spite of the rumors of export collapse and the many who unintentionally or otherwise are retarding our recovery from the present slump."

ANTI-BEER BILL AGAIN BLOCKED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The senate after a continuous session of nearly eight hours adjourned last night, with the prospect that further consideration of the anti-beer bill would go over for several weeks. Opponents of the measure in the face of a night session forced by dry leaders, were successful in their obstructive tactics. Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, in charge of the measure, finally moving an adjournment. The opposition was led by Senator Stanley, democrat, Kentucky, who in a speech of six hours argued for the maintenance of constitutional safeguards by requiring warrants for search and seizure under the prohibition enforcement act. Through a point of order made by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the effort of dry leaders to gain a recess for dinner was defeated, and after an hour and a half of attempts to muster the necessary majority in answer to quorum calls, the futile proponents of the bill surrendered.

NOT MAKING 300 PER CENT

Druggists Object to Statement By License Commissioner

McGrath Said That Druggists Make 300 Per Cent Profit On Whiskey

They Say Liquor Business Is a Bother-Objection Taken to Editorial

Members of the Lowell Pharmaceutical association, consisting of practically all the Lowell druggists, at a meeting held late yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the chamber of commerce took unanimous exception to the statement of License Commissioner Joseph P. McGrath, that the druggists are charging exorbitant prices for liquors which they dispense for medicinal purposes. They also took exception to the tone of editorial comment on the matter by a local morning paper. Before the meeting adjourned the following statement, signed by the officers of the association, was approved:

"With no desire on the part of the druggists of this city to enter into a controversy with the Lowell license commissioner or any member thereof, but with due regard for justice and fair play, we most emphatically desire to refute the statement made by Commissioner McGrath, in the local papers, pertaining to the dispensing of liquors, under the federal permit, and the prices charged therefor, and the tone of the editorial comment as printed in a local morning paper.

"Either through misinformation or mistaken impressions on their part, they would have it appear that the local dealers are charging exorbitant prices—to quote as purchasing liquor at $6 per gallon and selling at $3 per pint, or about 300 per cent profit.

"Nothing could be further from the truth; with an average price paid by the dealers of $10 to $15 a gallon (and not $6 as charged in the statement), or an average cost of $1.50 per pint, together with expenses of transportation, usually the most important item, as the supplies of bonded liquors are shipped at great distances—from New Jersey, Maryland, Kentucky, Ohio and other distant distilleries, and with other overhead expenses considered—the average retail price of $2.50 to $3, not only will not show 300 per cent profit, but will scarcely figure 1-10 of that amount, or not more than 30 to 35 per cent.

"In addition to this actual cost, a federal yearly tax of $25 is required for the privilege of dispensing liquors on a federal permit under the Volstead law, which, together with several state taxes, local licenses and other expenses, bring the yearly expense close to $100.

"The restrictions and regulations pertaining to the dispensing of liquors under the United States federal permit are burdensome, expensive and entail an endless amount of detail, and the diverting of valuable time from regular routine of business, in the keeping of voluminous records and the submission of intricate monthly reports. The violations of any of its provisions subject the dealer not only to a forfeiture of his permit but to the liability of heavy fines and imprisonment. Much capital is made in the commissioner's statement of the fact that the patient is required to pay the physician's fee for the liquor prescription, but this requirement of the Volstead law has nothing to do with the druggist's side of the question, and is in fact a requirement imposed upon the patient by the government regulations.

"This valuable (?) privilege enjoyed by the retail pharmacists has not only not been sought for but has been objected to, year after year, by the drug trade.

"The national association of 50,000 retail druggists has gone on record every year since the advent of prohibition as opposed to the saddling of the handling of liquors on the profession of pharmacy, and offered most strenuous objection thereto before the congressional committee when framing the present Volstead law, and advocated the establishment of national dispensaries under government control as the proper method of dispensing liquor medicinally.

"The Massachusetts State Pharmaceutical association of more than 2000 of the representative druggists of the state have also voted two years in succession at their annual mid-winter legislative meeting their opposition to the handing of liquor by retail druggists and the legislative committee representing the association voted their opposition for three consecutive years before the committee on public health of the Massachusetts legislature. Yet notwithstanding this attitude on this question, both the federal and the state governments have assigned this privilege (?) to the joint professions of medicine and pharmacy, no doubt as the most reliable, fair dealing and trustworthy method of handling a troublesome project.

"How desirable this privilege is considered is most clearly demonstrated by the fact that 27 months after the Volstead law became effective this privilege (?) is only now being sought by the applicants, being considered at the present time by the licensing board.

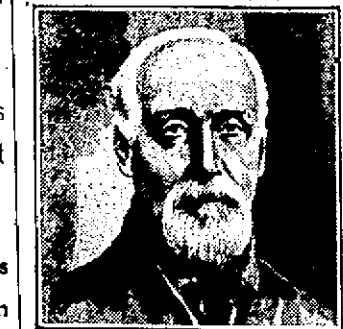

"The fact that the state board of pharmacy recently refused to grant the necessary certificate of fitness for a permit to dispense liquors to an applicant to whom the local licensing board was about to grant a license, because by the laws of the state board said applicant was not properly equipped or entitled thereto, surely can have nothing to do with this unwarranted tirade against the druggists of this city."

CHERRY AND WEBB STORE
Wonderful Garments Shown at Fall Opening Sale—Store Prettily Decorated

A large and varied assortment of fall models in women's suits, dresses, coats, skirts, waists and everything else in the feminine line marks the fall opening sale at Cherry and Webb, 12-15 John street. A ten per cent discount is offered on all purchases made during this sale. The elaborate displays show a varied collection of dresses, styles directly from Paris. In Canton Crepes and Tricelines, rich gowns, plain or handsomely embroidered, fall coats, kimono or Tollyana models, with luxurious fur collars, rich sweaters, and waists of every description. Included in the latter category are the latest cape styles from Paris, just now the rage with American women. A large variety of sport coats, polo, two tone woollens and chinchilla, is also on exhibition at the handsomely arranged store.

The store presents a very attractive appearance from the outside, the windows being tastefully decorated with models of the latest styles in all articles of feminine wear.

The low prices shown in the window displays are bound to bring many would-be purchasers inside the store as few similar establishments in the city are offering the line of fall wear that is before the public at Cherry and Webb's during this sale.

Mindful of the business depression and realizing that buyers of wearing apparel today are looking for those things that will set their pocketbook back, the least, the management of this store has chosen a varied selection of articles, to be placed before the public that is really worthy of the strictest examination by the person unable to spend much for autumn clothes, at the same time securing articles that are high in quality and characteristic of the reputable name of Cherry and Webb.

To combine quality with low prices has been the policy of this store and again during this sale it is the keynote sounded by the management.

In presenting to the critical army of Lowell women shoppers a large display of suits, dresses, coats and waists, in styles exclusively brought to this city from Paris, considerable expense has been encountered. However, as was stated at the store yesterday, that is of minimum importance in their mind if the shoppers of Lowell are as appreciative during this sale as they have been in the past and co-operate with the efforts and services given the public by this popular clothing house.

A general glance at the inside of the store, on the three spacious floors, will convince the most critical shopper that Cherry and Webb are striving to the fullest of their power to offer to Lowell women clothes of cut and class within a limited range of prices.

Besides reducing the prices on all goods offered, the ten per cent discount given on all purchases during the sale is a strong inducement to bargain hunters who are out to buy goods that are real goods at real reasonable prices.

HAVERRHILL BRIDGE WRECKED BY FIRE
HAVERRHILL, Sept. 24.—Fire which broke out at 2 o'clock yesterday, apparently due to defective wiring, destroyed the underwork and two spans of the Haverrhill bridge over the Merrimack river and put an important link in the state highway through this city out of commission. The damage was close to $50,000. Only foot passengers are being permitted to cross the bridge. Street cars are running only to each end of the structure and the passengers are walking across. Measures are being taken to make a long detour to the county bridge at the north end of the city in order to cross the Merrimack.

Chief John B. Gordon, veteran of the fire department, had a narrow escape through the flames. He was cut through the planking and ladders let down into the water 40 feet below. From the ladders firemen played the hose on the flames, which were eating the bridge from underneath. As Chief Gordon was making his way down one of the ladders, the bottom slipped on the pier on which it stood, and the hooks at the top caught the edge of the bridge just in time to save the chief from being precipitated into the rocky river bed.

SEN. HARRISON MAPPED OUT NEW PROGRAM FOR CONGRESS

"More Work and Less Talk, More Deeds and Fewer Promises"---Penrose Failed by Spirit Undaunted---Movement to Clean up the Movies

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24.—It was a case of "nobody home" when the Senate reconvened on Wednesday. Scarcely a baker's dozen members of Congress gathered in the big hall of the house when the clock struck 12. Speaker Gillett is extending his vacation until the first of October, when the "gentleman's agreement" not to transact business that calls for a quorum shall have expired. In his absence Congressman Walsh of the New Bedford district sat as speaker of the house, thus keeping the leadership within the borders of the state of Massachusetts. Mr. Walsh is an excellent presiding officer but today his duties did not extend beyond calling the house to order and adjourning it till Saturday, when the same performance will be repeated. Regular business of the house is first to begin some time between the first and sixth day of October, by which time the men will have reassembled here and committees now working on pending bills will be prepared to submit them to the house.

Senator Harrison's Onslaught

Over in the senate the scene of reconvening was a little more animated and the feature of the occasion was a snappy speech made by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who assailed the republican party as a whole, and the republican members of the senate in particular, for what he denounced as the most dilatory and inefficient methods ever known in congressional history. "The country wants more work and less talk—more deeds and fewer promises," roared the tall Mississippiian as he glared at Senator Lodge, who sat just across the aisle, his head resting on his hand and apparently lost in thought as to how he might hit back at Senator Pat when the time comes. The senior senator from Massachusetts squirmed in his seat as Mr. Harrison remarked he hoped the republican chairman of the senate committee would be as anxious to bring about good results from the so-called disarmament conference as is Senator Underwood, the democratic floor leader of the senate, and named by President Harding as a member of the American delegation. Then followed an eloquent eulogy of Mr. Underwood, who had up to that minute been sitting beside Mr. Harrison in the front row on the democratic side of the senate. But Mr. Underwood was evidently forewarned of what was coming for he slipped out of his seat and vanished through the door of the cloak room just as the Mississippi orator began to sing his praises. And as Mr. Underwood is a genuine favorite among republican leaders and enjoys their warm friendship, not one of the opposition party broke in to dispute the claims made for his ability, or tried to drag him down from the high pedestal on which Mr. Harrison had placed him.

Penrose Like a Shadow

AMERICAN HIERARCHY URGES IRISH PEACE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (by the Associated Press).—The letter sent by the Catholic hierarchy at its meeting here Thursday to Cardinal Logue at Belfast was made public yesterday as follows:

"Four Eminence; and portentous hour of Ireland's history, we, the bishops of the United States gathered in annual conference, feel it a duty incumbent on us to extend to Your Eminence and your brethren of the Irish hierarchy, the assurance of our sympathy, our prayers and our united goal wishes for the happy outcome of the ~~struggle~~ in which the representatives of your people are now engaged.

Particularly at this time we are not unmindful of the tremendous debt Ireland in this country owes to the Catholic hierarchy. For more than a century the millions of your race have come to our shores and by their strong faith and their loyal and generous help, they have built up a church which has become the pride of Christendom and the glory of the country in which we dwell.

"And even though they have become loyal Americans, faithful to the flag under which they dwell, time has never been able to extinguish in their souls the love they bore to the land of their fathers, to the little island from which they parted as exiles, destined never to return.

"And particularly during these recent years, with anxious and expectant hearts, they have watched the trend of events, ever hopeful that Providence, in his wisdom, might ordain that at last Ireland was to take its place among the nations of the earth.

"And indeed, during these latter weeks their hearts were filled with pride when they saw the representatives of their race conduct themselves with a statesmanship that has challenged the admiration of the world.

"Therefore, in this fateful hour when the future of Ireland trembles in the balance, it is not our desire to peril the outcome of these deliberations upon which a world waits with bated breath. Rather, in the true spirit of our holy faith, united with our people from every race and every station, our prayers ascend from this altar in the land that God in his wisdom has made the center of the most apostolic race among all of our peoples may receive the reward for what they have done for the church of America and elsewhere by obtaining the fulfillment of their national aspirations.

"And finally, that God may grant you and your colleagues to live to see Ireland's golden age, and that your people even more faithful to their church in the suburbs of their new freedom than ever they were in the years of their exile and expectancy, your devotion's devoted servants in Christ.

"The Archbishop and Bishops of the United States."

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Elmer C. Potter, federal prohibition director, has refused to obey an order of United States Commissioner Hayes to return 144 quarts of bottled-in-bond whiskey, according to a petition asking that he be adjudged in contempt filed in the federal court yesterday. Judge Morton is also asked to compel Director Potter to carry out the mandate of the commissioner.

The petition, which was filed by ex-Assistant United States Attorney Daniel A. Shea, as counsel for the Francis Drug company of Roxbury, recites that on August 29 a search warrant was granted by the commissioner to prohibition officers to enter the drugstore and search for certain liquors. The liquors were seized and Francis J. Coughlin, president of the company, and his brother, George F. Coughlin, were charged with having the liquors unlawfully in their possession. After a hearing, however, when it was shown the drug company had a government permit to hold the liquors, the defendants were discharged and an order signed directing the prohibition men to return the liquor.

The petition states further that Director Potter has refused to return the goods, on the ground that the commissioner has no power to order its return.

FINAL ARGUMENTS IN CHICAGO LIBEL SUIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The final arguments on the demurrer filed by the Chicago Tribune against the city of Chicago's $100,000 libel suit were to be heard before Judge Harry M. Fisher today in circuit court.

According to comment at the close of court yesterday by Judge Fisher, the outcome will hinge largely upon whether the city, in the present suit, is to be treated as acting in its governmental or corporate capacity.

The suit alleges damages of $100,000 because the Tribune in the campaign of 1920, stated that the city was "bankrupt." Attorneys for the paper filed a demurrer and argued that upholding of the suit would abridge the right of free speech. The city counsel have countered this with a declaration that the city of Chicago carries no right to tell malicious lies.

Governor Not Likely to Call Special Session of the Legislature

Special Session Suggested to Deal With the Unemployment Problem

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Governor Cox is not likely to accede to the suggestion, already made from several sources, that he call a special session of the legislature to deal with the "unemployment problem."

For just what respect the legislature must contribute to a solution of the problem has not yet been made to appear. Presumably those sponsoring the suggestion, contemplate a few millions of dollars to be expended for various public works, such as new roads, new buildings, etc. Perhaps some of those entertaining such notions sincerely believe the idea would add to the sum total of human happiness in Massachusetts, and while it might have a temporary tendency toward that end, it would soon be found to be in the nature of the proverbial remedy which is worse than the disease.

"The real, underlying cause of existing 'hard times' if such they may properly be called, is extravagance,—both private and public. Individuals find their bank accounts,—or in the case of the less fortunate, their cash in hand,—at low ebb because in the days of plenty during the war they failed to practice thrift, and even worse, acquired expensive tastes which they now find difficult to forego. Governments, also, both state and local, have for years gone on the policy that it was perfectly proper to spend every cent the taxpayers would contribute without rebelling to the extent of putting the opposing party in power.

Consequently we have tax rates far higher than are necessary to meet the real necessities of government, yet which almost annually amount to new heights. Now it is seriously suggested by some that the state should impose additional burdens upon its citizens in order to provide work for men who are unable, or unwilling, to find it for themselves.

A great many who have investigated the unemployment situation as far as it exists in Boston, at least, have come to the conclusion that in a vast number of cases the unemployed state of the individual is due to his unwillingness to take work that is offered him. Too many seek a position, rather than a job. Boston newspapers continue to carry columns of advertisements for help, offering employment attractive and comparatively lucrative, but because the applicant fails to meet the exaggerated ideas of some of the "unemployed," they prefer to walk the streets and demand aid from the legislature.

Happily, however, the governor is fully informed as to the real situation existing, and is not to be stampeded into calling a legislative session which would serve no permanently useful purpose. To be sure, it would afford the senators and representatives an opportunity to vote the additional salary, to the amount of probably $260 each, which with other expenses incidental to a legislative session would bring its aggregate cost to at least $100,000. The chief executive, however, realizes that this price is too great even for the temporary relief which might be afforded.

Edmund, S. C.—"I was run down with nervousness and female trouble and suffered every month. I was not able to do any work and tried a lot of medicine, but got no relief. I saw your medicine advertised in a little book that was thrown in my door, and I had not taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I could see it was helping me. I am keeping house now and am able to do all of my work. I cannot say enough for your medicine. It has done more for me than any doctor. I have not paper enough to tell you how much it has done for me and for my friends. You may print this letter if you wish."—ELIZABETH C. CORLEY, care of A. P. Corley, Edmund, S. C.

Ability to stand the strain of work is the privilege of the strong and healthy, but how our hearts ache for the weak and sickly women struggling with their daily rounds of household duties, with backaches, headaches, nervousness and almost every movement brings a new pain. Why will not the mass of letters from women all over this country, which have been publishing, convince such women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help them just as surely as it did Mrs. Corley?

Census Bureau Says 54,001 Over Ten Years Employed Here

Of Total 35,744 Were Males and 18,257 Females—Other Figures

The bureau of census, department of commerce, has issued preliminary general occupation statistics for Lowell, which, though subject to change, are probably approximately correct. The number of persons engaged in each particular occupation will probably not be announced until the tabulation of the occupation data, now in progress, has been completed. This will be about July 1, 1922.

According to the returns of the fourteenth census, there were 54,001 persons 10 years of age and over in Lowell engaged in gainful occupations in 1920, constituting 47.9 per cent. of the total population of the city (112,769) and 59.7 per cent. of the population 10 years of age and over. In 1910, the 63,695 gainful workers were 50.9 per cent. of the total population of the city and 61.4 per cent. of the population 10 years of age and over.

Of the gainful workers of Lowell in 1920, 35,744, or 66.2 per cent. were males and 18,257, or 33.8 per cent. were females. The male gainful workers constituted 52.5 per cent. of all males 10 years of age and over in 1920, as against 52.8 per cent. in 1910, while the female workers constituted 37.7 per cent. of all female 10 years of age and over in 1920, as against 41.5 per cent. in 1910.

Of the gainful workers of Lowell in 1920, 36,465, or 67.3 per cent. were engaged in manual, clerical and mechanical industries; 2,894, or 4.5 per cent. in transportation; 5,155, or 9.6 per cent. in trade; 10,531, or 20.0 per cent. in public service; 2,150, or 4.0 per cent. in professional service; 3,025, or 5.6 per cent. in domestic and personal service; 3,876, or 7.1 per cent. in clerical occupations; and 2,413, or 4.6 per cent. in all other occupations.

25 VESSELS IN PERIL BY FIRE AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—There was considerable excitement at the army supply base, South Boston, yesterday afternoon at 4:30, when a stubborn fire was discovered on the passenger steamer Lieut. William T. Brown, tied up at the base with more than 25 other craft of various sizes. The flames raged from wheelhouse to stern, endangering the other craft tied up there.

Practically all the boats have been tied up for more than a year and none had steam enough to be taken out of the danger zone.

A passerby on Summer street extension saw the flames shooting from the rear of the wheelhouse and sent an alarm from box 7121, outside the army supply base. This brought the Boston fire department. The army base fire department also responded.

Before either department arrived several persons jumped on the burning craft and cut her loose from the Gen. Robert E. Anderson, another boat of the same design.

The burning craft drifted toward the Edison Illuminating plant on Summer street extension, where thousands of tons of coal are stored.

This caused alarm at the Edison plant and plant box 7121 was sounded, acting as a second alarm. Engine 1 was sent from Summer street to the Edison plant.

The flames leaped high from the Lieut. Brown and the firemen were watching from the shore but could not reach the flames. Chief Calne ordered two fire boats to the scene.

Thousands of people watched the fire from the shore. The rumor that an extra supply of gasoline was aboard the burning boat added to the excitement. The craft did not sink.

The Lieut. Brown has been tied up at the base for more than a year, when last used, the craft carried supplies and troops to the harbor forts. The damage was placed at $15,000.

CONNOLLY BOY GAINING

The condition of John Connolly, 18 years old boy of 103 Agawam street, who is at St. John's hospital with a fractured skull the result of a collision with an automobile yesterday is reported as improving. While the boy put in a comfortable night his name is still on the dangerous list. Physicians are a bit more hopeful of his recovery as he seems to grow stronger each hour.

Denver Municipal Camp Ground Provides All Conveniences for Gypsies

BY N. E. A. SERVICE

DENVER, Sept. 24.—Modern motor gypsies find that life at the municipal camp ground here cannot be described as "roughing it."

The grounds are equipped with all conveniences of a first-class hotel. Here are some of the features which make camping in Denver a luxury:

A comfortable clubhouse, suggestive of a country club, with a restaurant, pool room, barber shop, soda fountain and hot and cold showers for men and women.

The largest dance hall in the west, with an 8-piece orchestra, where campers may dance for six cents a couple.

A steam table, where hot food to be eaten around the campfire may be bought.

An 8-tub electric laundry, electric irons, and 16 sanitary lavatories.

An automobile repair shop, a filling station, a vulcanizing shop and a battery service station.

Police guard is maintained day and night, attendants are on duty in the clubhouse, and a road information bureau has two experts at the visitors' service.

Ten thousand cars, bearing more than 37,000 passengers, visited the grounds this season. The grounds contain 160 acres and will accommodate twice as many persons as have used it yet.

Thomas Cox, lessee of the shops, is under heavy bond not to profane.

BEATING THE ENGINE TO THE CROSSING

Every few days we read of an auto driver who tries to beat a railroad engine to the crossing—the car is struck and a whole family is killed or injured.

The chances are always against the driver.

There is just one safe way: When you approach a crossing, where there is not an unobstructed view of the track in both directions, you should bring your car to a full stop and "look and listen." If no train is approaching, then hurry across.

When you have waited for a train to pass, do not cross until you make sure there is no train on the other track; many people have been killed because they did not take this precaution.

Remember it is impossible for an engineer to stop his train in time to prevent an accident. An automobile is involved in 70 per cent. of all accidents at railroad crossings.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Will Cressy and Blanche Dayne in "Without a Will There's a Way" Next Week—Good Sunday Bill

There's a splendid bill, with music and comedy and instrumental delights thrown in, at the B. F. Keith theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening.

P. Raymond Wylie and Marie Harmon are going to give their version of what happens before, and then contrast it with what sometimes comes afterwards. Foley and Leture will give their classic turn, and Helena Moretti, the little girl with the big voice, and Cooper and Lane, singers, will also be on the bill. Three new acts for the day only have also been engaged. They are: Mildred Parker, O'Neill and Earle and the Harmony Duo.

One of the best loved men in all vaudeville, incidentally one of the very cleverest, and a woman who has endeared herself to thousands through her playing of homely characters, will be the big double attraction at the theatre next week. They are Will M. Cressy and Blanche Dayne, and they are going to give Mr. Cressy's new playlet, "Without a Will There's a Way." Nobody could write a play like this but Will Cressy, and having written it, nobody could play the principal character but him. It's a tribute to the old "Cy Prime" of "The Old Homestead" to say that there isn't a humorist on the vaudeville boards of this town land who can command as great general attention as he can. It is true, because his characters are so deeply human, and yet tinged with a humorous philosophy that is simply irresistible. Miss Dayne is scarcely less known than Mr. Cressy. Together they make an unbeatable pair.

The remainder of the bill will be right up to snuff, with Joe Darcey, the singing song writer, lucking in some of his resplendent melodies. Darcey has a debt comedy touch to his work which is at once recognized, and few men are capable of switching from the grave to the gay with such grace as he.

An offering original in conception, novel in theme and most ably presented.

Detroit Pair Batting for .394
—Hornsby Leading Nat.
League With .405

Annual Debut of Eastern Colleges—Harvard Plays a Double Header

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Ty Cobb, pilot of the Detroit Tigers, has climbed into a tie with his teammate, Harry Heilmann for the batting honors of the American league. The Georgia peach who has been hitting with due regularity since entering the home stretch, is batting .394, a mark which he held a week ago, while Heilmann, who has been leading top place honors, hit a slight batting slump during the last week and dropped from .398 to a tie with his manager, Babe Ruth added a brace of home runs to his string and brought his season's record to .394. Cobb also is leading the two Detroit stars for the batting honors with a mark of .375, just four points in front of George Sisler of St. Louis, who is hitting .374. Ruth is far in front of his rivals as a run-getter, having registered 165 runs for the Yankees.

Sisler has taken the lead in the stolen base department by pilfering three bases during the past week and bringing his total to 27. St. Harris of Washington, who was leading a week ago, failed to add to his string of 26.

Other leading batting sluggers: Cleveland, 30; John St. Louis, .350; Williams, St. Louis, .345; Jacobson, St. Louis, .342; E. Collins, Chicago, .339; Strunk, Chicago, .335.

Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis has been hitting with telling effect, and has brought his average up to .405 for the leadership in the National league. The St. Louis star also increased his lead as a run-getter. He scored 127 times. Jack Fournier, a teammate of Hornsby's, retained his position as runner-up with a mark of .349. McHenry, another member of the Cardinals, is pushing the big Fenwick with a mark of .341.

George Kelly of the Giants brought his season's home run record up to 23 by cracking out another home run. Kelly also has a batting average of .340. Other leading sluggers: Pittsburgh, .316; Roush, Cincinnati, .310; Cruise, Boston, .305; Frisch, New York, .303; J. Smith, St. Louis, .302; McGee, New York, .305; Groh, Cincinnati, .305.

BOGASH WINS FROM JOE EAGAN AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Louis Bogash of Bridgeport, Conn., had too much aggressiveness and "pep" for Joe Eagan of Worcester in their 15-round fight at the Mechanic hall last night.

He won the decision by a wide margin, having about eight rounds of the 10.

Eagan made several rallies when his speed and cleverness gave him the lead, but a lot of his work was the half-hearted kind. He seldom used his right, seemingly fearing to take the chance of a left hook from the Italian in return.

Bogash got the jump on the Dorchester middleweight in the first round, crashing in left and right hooks to the head and body, with his few returns. He seemed bent on finishing the fray then and there. Few thought that it would go the distance.

The next five rounds were about the same, with Eagan now and then standing to face with his left. In the sixth, however, Joe got to work, shooting left to face and right to body, and the fans gave him round after round of cheers by way of encouragement.

Joseph continued his rally in the seventh, though the visitor had the margin. In the next session Eagan sent the color flowing from Bogash's nose and appeared to have a chance to win the mill. Bogash was firing, while Joe, encouraged by the fans, turned loose a lot of stuff and guined the Strangle.

But it gained him little, for in the ninth the Italian from the Nutmeg state tore loose and walloped his man all over the ring. Both put up a busy tenth frame with the shade going to Bogash. He was tired from his own exertions when the bell rang, while Joseph showed signs of wear and tear.

The semi-final was a 10-round slambang between Patsy Bogash, Louis Egan and Joe Eagan of Worcester. Bogash was the winner.

Barney Rivers of Woonsocket won the award over Billy Gustin of South Boston in the 10-round bout. He was too fast and rangy for the Pennsylvania boy though the latter put up a game, hard fight. In the eighth round, however, the victory of Woburn was the victor over Young Danabue of the South End. It was a rugged affair with both taking considerable punishment.

NO INDICTMENT IN FIGHT FILM CASE

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Taddy Hayes, Jack Dempsey's trainer, will not be prosecuted in the federal courts for his technical violation of law in transporting films of the Carpentier-Dempsey championship fight for exhibition on Aug. 3 last before wounded victims in the Harbor. The federal grand jury returned no bill against Hayes for violation of the Interstate commerce laws in transporting the pictures.

A startling increase in the normal number of persons indicted by the federal grand jury was noted in the first federal district court yesterday, when 17 persons were named as indicted for various violations of the narcotic laws. The number exceeds by two to one any previous similar return.

Most of the indictments alleged either possession or sale of cocaine or morphine. In several instances, both possession and sale were charged.

One of those indicted, Abraham Hagan, who pleaded guilty to both possession and sale is an addict himself, according to the statement of Asst. United States Atty. Keith. He was given a 30-day sentence in Plymouth jail.

It'd like to be a box-fighter, I would, if I could talk to you. They say they make a lotta Jack. And don't work hard to win it.

Every time the ball flew down from pitcher's box to plate. He swung with all his might, might. Too soon or else too late.

He was a famous quarterback. His fame lay in his head. He never used it for his brains. He buckled the time instead.

Pinch Hitters Due to Shatter Records

OLAF HENRIKSEN

TYING THE SCORE

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Eastern college football makes its annual debut today with almost a score of games in which some of the larger institutions eleven meet rivals of minor strength. Harvard and Yale are the only teams of the so-called "big three" opening the season today. While Yale is limbering up at New Haven against Bates the crimson will uncover something of a gridiron novelty, a doubleheader in which the teams of Middlebury college and Boston university will be played.

The leading games, together with the scores of last season, where the same teams met, follow:

1920 scores:
Middlebury college at Harvard university—did not meet.
Boston university at Harvard university—did not meet.
Rhode Island State at Brown university—0 to 25.

BUFF HOLDS TWO TITLES

Last Night's Victory Over Herman Gives Him Distinction of Two Crowns

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Johnny Buff of Jersey City, American lightweight champion, won the world's bantamweight title last night when he received the judge's decision over Pete Herman of Baltimore in a 15-round bout. Buff weighed 113½ pounds and Herman 117½ pounds.

Buff brought the crowd to its feet time and again by his lightning-like work and aggressiveness. He had the better of 10 rounds, four were Herman's and one was even.

The New Orleans boy appeared unable to use his right effectively, and while Buff missed offener, his blows were clean and hard and worried Herman.

Herman showed best in the fourth round when on the offensive to the jaw, upsetting him. Buff was up immediately, however.

Herman, who won the bantamweight championship from Kid Williams of Baltimore in a 20-round fight at New Orleans in 1917, lost it on a decision last December in a 15-round contest with Joe Lynch of New York, but won it back again when he received the judge's decision over Lynch in a 15-round bout in Brooklyn a few weeks ago.

GEORGE WASHINGTON LEE, IN FIGHTING TRIM AND IN CHINESE COSTUME. BELOW: HIS SIO.

By N.E.A. Service.
SACRAMENTO, Calif., Sept. 24.—George Washington Lee has never chopped down any cherry trees, but he has battered down a lot of promising lightweight fighters.

He claims the Chinese bantamweight championship of the world, and if there's any slant-eyed sweat-suit who thinks he can wrestle it away from him, let him speak up now.

Lee was born in San Francisco 21 years ago and shortly afterward the family moved to Sacramento, into a quarter of the city where George had to learn to use his fists in order to get an even break with the kids in the neighborhood.

Good Start
How well he succeeded was illustrated on the night he walked up to Anell Hoffman's fight arena and asked permission to get into the ring with somebody. Hoffman gave him a chance—and George showed him up as speedily and handsily as his countrymen clean up your shirt. Faster still, he knocked out a fellow opponent followed—and went it same way.

Hoffman then took Lee to New Orleans, where he knocked out a tough egg named Hafferty in one round, and returned to the Queen City later and fought a draw with Red Watson. The only training he had for remembered miff, made it possible for Engle to win. Engle battled for Wood and hit the high one that Snodgrass let tri through his fingers. Snodgrass then scored Engle with the firing run, and the whining run came in on Gardner's sacrifice fly.

Substitutes played an important role in the second game of the 1918 Red Sox-Brooklyn series at Boston. Boston evened up Brooklyn's one run in the third inning and the game dragged on with neither team scoring until the 11th. Dick Hohlitzel then drew a pass, and Lewis sacrificed. Manager Carrigan sent McNally to second to run for the big first baseman, pulled Gardner out of the lineup and sent in Del Gainer to bat for him. Gainer connected with a vicious liner that went for a single, and McNally, the other substitute, brought home the run that won the game.

Ten times 1903 pinch hitters have bridged the danger gap successfully for their teams. Murphy of the White Sox got a life in the 1919 series with the Reds when he went in to pinch hit and got one of Jim Miller's offerings in the middle of the back.

Real Estate Transactions—Building Notes and Permits Issued

This Home of Many Porches Will Serve to Keep You Close to Nature

No steps to climb in this model home plan, furnished The Sun by the Curtis Service Bureau of Clinton, Ia., experts in interior and exterior woodwork.

The American passion for porches is exemplified in this pretty cottage, for it has four—two front porches, a rear porch and a sleeping porch. The porch roofs have a pergola-effect, which is carried out in exposed rafters and around the main roof. Dainty trellises screen the front porches, and half hide the cottage itself.

The type of house of which this one is an example has been called southern, because spread out on one story, close to the ground, with porches, overhanging eaves to shade the walls, many openings for sun and breeze, trellises for vines, and a full-room in the house instead of a full basement.

Can Have Basement
These all suggest the great outdoors of the sunny south land. Of course, a basement can be provided without losing the desirable low-lying effect, by the use of cellar sash in excavated airways.

The floor plan of this charming house is a perfect rectangle, 25 feet deep by 51 feet wide, though its interesting exterior is very unlike the usual economically rectangular house. The six rooms are well arranged, and the sleeping quarters are effectively isolated from the living portion of the house.

The living room, extending out between the front porches, has French doors opening to both of them, so that it has light from three sides, opposite the windows is the hearth, the centre of the home circle.

The wing of the house on the left of the living room is taken up by the dining room and the service portion of the house. There is a built-in cupboard in the dining room for china. The kitchen is only 10 feet square, but its fixtures are so compactly arranged that it is efficient.

Fuel Room Handy
The little rear porch is a handy place to have stationary tubs, or the refrigerator. Adjoining it is the fuel room that supplies the fireplace without necessitating going out of the house.

The bedrooms are to the right and rear of the living room. They are con-ord in the transfer of a residence at 34 Ludlum street. The house is of cottage type with seven rooms. Land to the amount of 3880 square feet is conveyed in the transfer which is effected on behalf of Dr. James H. Rooney. The purchaser is Frank R. Wilder, who buys for personal occupancy.

Also the sale of an extensive market garden farm situated at 288 Middle street. The property totals 10 acres of high grade land. The buildings are thoroughly modern. The sale is negotiated on behalf of Frank J. Wade, the grantee being Anthony C. Bantas, who purchases for personal occupancy. The stock and a large amount of farm equipment were conveyed together with the real estate.

Sales by Lane & Wood
Lane and Wood, real estate brokers, at 53 Central street, room 96, report the following sales:

The sale of a lot of land situated on Sayles street with a total area of five thousand square feet. The grantor in this transaction is Gertrude H. Giger, the grantee being Eliza L. Smith.

CUBA'S FATE HANGS IN THE BALANCE

By N.E.A. Service
HAVANA, Sept. 24.—Upon the success of the Cuban mission now in Washington to obtain a loan of $50,000,000 nullification of the duty of two cents a pound on sugar going to America and modification of the proposed increased tariff on tobacco, depends the return of normalcy for the island.

The commission will attempt to show that unless there is a continuance of unshackled trade between the United States and the island republic, American investments of over $700,000,000 will be jeopardized. The industrial life of Cuba hinged and the country thrown into bankruptcy.

Cuba, like many other countries, is suffering from the aftermath of the world war.

The United States exports to Cuba increased under the reciprocity treaty from about $250,000,000 before the war to over $420,000,000 in 1920.

Cuba not only exports the money she receives from her sugar sales in the United States markets, but she spends in the United States her entire income from all of her foreign trade.

commissioner of corporations and taxation and formerly private secretary to Calvin Coolidge when the latter was governor, seems to be in full accord with his former chief in respect to the financial end of governmental administration.

It is related of Coolidge that during his first term as governor, a prominent republican legislator, member of the ways and means committee, went to his office one day with cheerful tidings. "Governor," he said, "we have succeeded in fixing it so the state tax will be just the same as last year. What do you think of that?"

Because of expenditures incidental to the war and other extraordinary causes it had been expected that the state tax would jump at least two millions of dollars, and this legislator fully expected that the efforts of his committee would be rewarded with a "well done, good and faithful servant." His surprise may well be imagined when Coolidge replied, so it was said: "Don't care nuthin' about the state tax. How much have we spent? That's the real test of an administration."

He was told that the appropriations authorized were approximately three million dollars more than in the preceding year. "Then what's the use of talking about the state tax bein' the same," he demanded; "the people have got to pay that three million, haven't they?"

Commissioner Long has taken occasion recently in two public utterances to sound the same idea. Tax rates, he points out, merely represent the gauge by which there is raised the money needed to meet municipal expenditures. They are not conclusive, because they indicate merely the ratio of valuations to expenditures, and by manipulating valuations the tax rate may be lowered to suit the fancy of those responsible for municipal government. The constant factor, incapable of manipulation, is the aggregate of expenditures, and Commissioner Long makes it plain that citizens who are anxious to reduce their tax bills should give careful and constant attention to the purposes for which money is extracted from their municipal treasury.

Government "Profoundly Disappointed by Rejection of Dominion Rule"

DUNDEE, Scotland, Sept. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for the colonies, in an address here today expressed himself as very much in favor of a conference on the Irish question. He felt there was a much better chance of an agreement being reached by personal interviews than by correspondence, he said, and it was because of this he was anxious for a conference—the only thing, he declared, which stood between the government and complete rupture of the Irish negotiations.

Eamon de Valera, Mr. Churchill said, had made it very doubtful whether there was a chance of a successful conference. "Willfully or else under duress," Mr. Churchill declared, Mr. de Valera had proclaimed that his delegates would attend as the representatives of a foreign state.

The government, the colonial secretary asserted, would not allow predatory, hair-splitting or quibbling to stand in the way of peace, but when its fundamental principles were challenged, he declared, it was well to make it quite clear there could be no further concession on the part of the government.

Mr. Churchill warned his hearers that if the true cause of a war more serious than heretofore, faced them in Ireland.

An attempt was made to break up the meeting before Mr. Churchill spoke. Anticipating trouble, mounted police were on duty all night. All the streets leading to the hall were guarded, but a procession of unemployed tried to rush the hall.

The police precautions, however, were too much for them and order was restored quickly.

Mr. Churchill said the British government had gone to the utmost limit possible in its offer to the Sinn Fein and that if it was rejected the government had nothing else to give. "We have reached the end of ST. Gardner missed a half dozen putts. Gardner missed a half dozen putts of three and four feet largely accounting for the difference in standing at the end of the round. Gardner outdrove Guilford on the outward half, but Guilford had the advantage of distance from the tee coming home.

Hole 1, 390 yards, par four—Guilford drove close to the road for 220 yards, while Gardner hooked to deep rough and pushed his iron 10 yards short of the flag. Guilford pulled to a vane below the green and pitched over the cup 15 feet, while Gardner also went down and halved.

Man Who Stole Automobile in Lowell Has Long Prison Record—Prisoner Identified By Finger Prints

Lowest Mortality Rate In This City In Nearly Five Years Was Recorded This Week

The lowest mortality rate to be recorded in Lowell in nearly five years was credited to this city during the week ending today, according to the weekly report of the health department. There were only 16 deaths in the past seven days. No other week since the one ending July 14, 1917, has produced such a low mortality. In that week there were 15 deaths.

Infant mortality was also low this week. There were only three deaths of children under one. A year ago this week there was a total of 36 deaths and nine under one. Last week there were 24 deaths and the week before 29.

The excellent fall weather which the city has been enjoying lately is attributed as one of the big factors in the low mortality now prevailing here, health department officials say. Diphtheria caused two deaths this week. Among the infectious diseases reported were four cases of diphtheria, two of typhoid fever, eight of tuberculosis and one of sleeping sickness.

OMISSION OF STATE PRIMARIES PUTS QUIETUS ON POLITICS

Interest Now in Special Elections—Public Sentiment Favors Charter Change—
Ward Representation Interests Young Men—The Mayoralty Candidates

The omission of primary and election contests for state officers this year, in accordance with the new biennial election law, has served to delay the local political season later than usual. Ordinarily, the state primaries would have come and gone by this time and the candidates for election in November would be engaged in their campaigns.

However, the impending elections on the acceptance or rejection of the proposed new charter and the question of municipal ownership of the gas plant are clamorous but surely arousing the interest of Lowell voters.

The first game between the teams played in Lawrence two weeks ago resulted in a walk-away for Lawrence, when Pitcher Maloney held the Lowell "wrecking crew" to three hits, and the visitors entered today's battle confident of repeating their success.

Clothes Believed to Have

The belief of the local police that in the arrest of Benjamin Fine for the larceny of an automobile in this city last Monday they had apprehended a notorious character was sustained today when Deputy Superintendent of Police Downey received a communication from the state department of correction which told of Fine's record since he was first taken by the law, June 15, 1905. This information was sent the Lowell police at the deputy's request after a copy of the arrested man's finger prints had been forwarded to that department immediately following his arrest.

The investigation reveals that Fine served terms in state prison, the house of correction and in a reformatory in Indiana. That he also has an alias, having been arrested and convicted under the name "William A. Joyce," from 1905 to 1918, is shown by the letter.

THE GAGNON COMPANY

"Home of the Greatest Values" Is Celebrating Its Second Anniversary

The Gagnon company, one of Lowell's most up-to-date department stores and known as "The Home of the Greatest Values," is today celebrating its second birthday as a mercantile establishment in the Spindle City, with a unique display of the latest fall and winter wearing apparel and wonderfully easy-to-wear fashions. Styles are all late, goods sold at low prices as the market will allow, and for this second anniversary sale there are offered a large number of extra money-saving sales on both floors and in the basement, which are attracting increasing attention.

As a result of the interest displayed yesterday and today in the big "Anniversary Sale" announcement in The Sun, President Gagnon announced today that the celebration will be extended into next week, with a special sale all day Monday in the basement and upper floor departments. The three-day sale will close Monday night.

President Gagnon believes in regular advertising for thorough results when endeavoring to move large quantities of goods. His present campaign in the newspapers has been a generous one, and today he expressed himself as highly satisfied with the extensive work accomplished by displaying the store bargains far and wide through the columns of the press.

As a result of the interest aroused by the anniversary announcements, plans are under way to enlarge many of the important store departments on all floors. The children's department on the second floor will be greatly increased in size, giving the company more room for the display of certain goods that have heretofore been exhibited "by sample." There will be an increased assortment of goods in the men's and boys' furnishing departments, in the women's wear section and in the departments dealing exclusively in leather goods and toilet goods.

The shoe department is offering a surprisingly attractive display of winter footwear for all members of the family and at prices that attract wide attention considering the quality of the goods on the shelves.

The Gagnon company has begun extensive alterations on the third floor of the building it occupies at the corner of Merrimack and Palmer streets. Carpenters are busily making over the entire floor, installing the company offices in the new space and thus making more room downstairs for the display of new goods. President Gagnon intends to have all of his office work done on the third floor, and the extensive alterations now under way will give the company a long needed addition to its housing space that all growing stores need in times of reconstruction.

The Gagnon store is proud of its record made during its short existence in Lowell, and prouder still of its extensive clientele that has so faithfully supported this up-to-date store in its endeavor to supply values of the money saving kind in offering honest goods of the more attractive sort to its patrons.

HOPEFUL OUTLOOK FOR OUR EXPORT TRADE

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Enthusiastic denouncement of dismal stories from supposedly well informed business experts regarding the utter collapse of American export trade, and hopeless future prospects, particularly for inland manufacturers, because of demoralized banking and transportation facilities, supplemented by strangling European competition, characterized the first public address of Dr. Julius Klein since his appointment by Herbert Hoover as director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. He spoke last night before about 1000 prominent exporters called together by the Boston Export Round Table.

He said: "The absurdity of these opinions is becoming more and more evident every day. They are simply one phase of the panic which has swept through some of our export communities, especially those in which the so-called war-baby houses had been flourishing." The director declared: "That the loudest complaints had emanated from the thousands of opportunistic manufacturers who appeared on all sides during the war boom and drifted into foreign trade as just one more field for chance enterprise. We can and will hold our own in those markets and trades in which we have a real abiding interest. The sober, substantial elements among our exporters have not lost faith. They have cleared away the fantastic debris of the recent hectic past, and are now laying the foundation for a substantial and lasting structure. One thing is sure," said Dr. Klein, "and that is that the ground work of our export interests is now being laid bare to rock-bottom. The past few months of anxiety have certainly been a trial by fire, but those months have emphatically not revealed any inherent weakness in our foreign trade efforts and ambitions. The efforts of our exporters and propagandists of many who unintentionally or otherwise are retarding our recovery from the present slump."

ANTI-BEER BILL AGAIN BLOCKED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The senate after a continuous session of nearly eight hours adjourned last night, with the prospect that further consideration of the anti-beer bill would go over for several weeks. Opponents of the measure in the face of a night session forced by dry leaders, were successful in their obstructive tactics. Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, in charge of the measure, finally moving an adjournment.

The opposition was led by Senator Stanley, democrat, Kentucky, who in a speech of six hours argued for the maintenance of constitutional safeguards by requiring warrants for search and seizure under the prohibition enforcement act. Through a point of order made by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the effort of dry leaders to gain a recess for dinner was defeated, and after an hour and a half of attempts to muster the necessary majority in answer to quorum calls, the futile proponents of the bill surrendered.

NOT MAKING 300 PER CENT

Druggists Object to Statement By License Commissioner

McGrath Said That Druggists Make 300 Per Cent Profit On Whiskey

They Say Liquor Business Is a Bother-Objection Taken to Editorial

Members of the Lowell Pharmaceutical association, consisting of practically all the Lowell druggists, at a meeting held late yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the chamber of commerce took unanimous exception to the statement of License Commissioner Joseph F. McGrath, that the druggists are charging exorbitant prices for liquors which they dispense for medicinal purposes. They also took exception to the tone of editorial comment on the matter by a local morning paper. Before the meeting adjourned the following statement, signed by the officers of the association, was approved:

"With no desire on the part of the druggists of this city to enter into a controversy with the Lowell license commission, or with any member thereof, but with due regard for justice and fair play, we most emphatically desire to refute the statement made by Commissioner McGrath, in the local papers, pertaining to the dispensing of liquors, under the federal permit, and the prices charged therefor, and the tone of the editorial comment as printed in a local morning paper."

"Either through misinformation or mistaken impressions on their part, they would have it appear that Lowell dealers are charging exorbitant prices—to quote one purchasing liquor at $6 per gallon and selling at $3 per pint, or about 300 per cent profit. "Nothing could be farther from the truth; with an average price paid by the dealers of $10 to $15 a gallon (and not 18 as charged in the statement, or an average retail price of $2.50 to $3, not only will not show 300 per cent profit, but will scarcely figure 1-10 of that amount, or not more than 30 to 35 per cent.

"In addition to this actual cost, a federal yearly tax of $25 is required for the privilege of dispensing liquors on a federal permit under the Volstead law; which, together with several state taxes, local licenses and other expenses, bring the yearly expense close to $100.

"The restrictions and regulations pertaining to the dispensing of liquors under the United States federal permit are burdensome, expensive and entail an endless amount of detail, and the diverting of much valuable time from regular routine of business, in the keeping of voluminous records and the submission of intricate monthly reports. The violations of any of its provisions subject the dealer not only to a forfeiture of his permit but to the liability of heavy fines and imprisonment. Much capital is made in the commissioner's statement of the fact that the patient is required to pay the physician's fee for the liquor prescription, but this requirement of the Volstead law has nothing to do with the druggist's side of the question, and is in fact a requirement imposed upon the patient by the government regulations.

"This valuable (?) privilege enjoyed by the retail pharmacist has not only not been sought for but has been objected to, year after year, by the drug trade.

"The national association of 50,000 retail druggists has gone on record every year since the advent of prohibition as opposed to the saddling of the handling of liquors on the profession of pharmacy, and offered most strenuous opposition thereto before the congressional committee on the framing of the present Volstead law, and advocated the establishment of national dispensaries under government control as the proper method of dispensing liquor medicinally.

"The Massachusetts State Pharmaceutical association of more than 2000 of the representative druggists of the state have also voted two years in succession at their annual mid-winter legislative meeting their opposition to the handling of liquor by retail druggists and the legislative committee representing the association voted their opposition for three consecutive years before the committee on public health of the Massachusetts legislature. Yet, notwithstanding this attitude on this question, both the federal and the state governments have assigned this privilege (?) to the joint professions of medicine and pharmacy, no doubt as the most reliable, fair dealing and trustworthy method of handling a troublesome project.

"How desirable this privilege is considered is most clearly demonstrated by the fact that 27 months after the Volstead law became effective this privilege (?) is only now being sought by the applicants, being considered at the present time by the licensing board.

"The fact that the state board of pharmacy recently refused to grant the necessary certificate of fitness for a permit to dispense liquors to an applicant to whom the local licensing board was about to grant a license, because by the laws of the state board said applicant was not properly equipped or entitled thereto, surely can have nothing to do with this unwarranted tirade against the druggists of this city."

'Fruit-a-tives' was the only remedy to help me. They strengthened the kidneys, made my bowels move regularly and freed me of all the distress caused from the kidney trouble, constipation and indigestion.

CHERRY AND WEBB STORE

Wonderful Garments Shown

at Fall Opening Sale—

Store Prettily Decorated

A large and varied assortment of fall models in women's suits, dresses, coats, skirts, waists and everything else in the feminine line marks the fall opening sale at Cherry and Webb, 12-18 John street. A ten per cent discount is offered on all purchases made during this sale. The elaborate displays show a varied collection of dresses, styles directly from Paris, in Canton Crepes and Tricotines, rich gowns, plain or handsomely embroidered, fall coats, Ermine or Polyantha models, with luxurious fur collars, rich sweaters, and waists of every description. Included in the latter category are the latest cape styles from Paris, just now the rage with American women. A large variety of sport coats, polo, two tone woollens and chinchilla, is also on exhibition at the handsomely arranged store.

The store presents a very attractive appearance from the outside, the windows being prettily decorated with models of the latest styles in all articles of feminine wear.

The low prices shown in the window displays are bound to bring many would-be purchasers inside the store as few similar establishments in the city are offering the line of fall wear that is offered the public at Cherry and Webb's during this sale.

Mindful of the business depression and realizing that buyers of wearing apparel today are looking for those things that will set their pocketbook back, the least, the management of this store has chosen a varied selection of articles to be placed before the public that is really worthy of the strictest examination by the person unable to spend much for autumn clothes, at the same time receiving articles that are high in quality and characteristic of the reputable name of Cherry and Webb.

To combine quality with low prices has been the policy of this store and again during this sale it is the keynote sounded by the management.

In presenting to the critical army of Lowell women shoppers a large display of suits, dresses, coats and waists, in styles exclusively brought to this city from Paris, considerable expense has been encountered. However, as was stated at the store yesterday, that is of minimum importance in their mind if the shoppers of Lowell are as appreciative during this sale as they have been in the past and co-operate with the efforts and services given the public by this popular clothing house.

A general glance at the inside of the store, on the three spacious floors, will convince the most critical shopper that Cherry and Webb are striving to the fullest of their power to offer to Lowell women clothes of cut and class within a limited range of prices.

Besides reducing the prices on all goods offered, the ten per cent discount given on all purchases during the sale is a strong inducement to bargain hunters who are out to buy goods that are real goods at real reasonable prices.

HAVERHILL BRIDGE

WRECKED BY FIRE

HAVERHILL, Sept. 24.—Fire which broke out at 2 o'clock yesterday, apparently due to defective wiring, destroyed the underwork and two spans of the Haverhill bridge over the Merrimack river and put an important link in the state highway through this city out of commission. The damage was close to $50,000. Only foot passengers are being permitted to cross the bridge. Street cars are running only to each end of the structure and the passengers are waiting across. Pleasure cars as well as trucks will be obliged to make a long detour to the county bridge at the north end of the city in order to cross the Merrimack.

Chief John B. Gordon, veteran of the fire department, had a narrow escape through the flames. He was cut through the plank and ladders and down into the water 45 feet below. From the ladders firemen played the hose on the flames, which were eating the bridge from underneath. As Chief Gordon was making his way down one of the ladders, the bottom slipped on the pier on which it stood, and the hooks at the top caught the edge of the bridge just in time to save the chief from being precipitated into the rocky river bed.

SEN. HARRISON MAPPED OUT NEW PROGRAM FOR CONGRESS

"More Work and Less Talk, More Deeds and Fewer Promises"—Penrose Failed by Spirit Undaunted—Movement to Clean up the Movies

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24.—It was a case of "body home" when congress reconvened on Wednesday. Scarcely a dozen members of congress gathered in the big hall of the house when the clock struck 12. Speaker Gillett is extending his vacation until the first of October, when the "gentleman's agreement" not to transact business that calls for a quorum shall have expired. In his absence, Congressman Walsh of the New Bedford district sat as speaker of the house, thus keeping the leadership within the borders of the state of Massachusetts. Mr. Walsh is an excellent presiding officer but today his duties did not extend beyond calling the house to order and adjourning it till Saturday, when the same performance will be repeated. Recent business of the house is few and far between. The first and sixth day of October, by which time the men will have reassembled here and committees now working on pending bills will be prepared to submit them to the house.

Senator Harrison's Onslaught
Over in the senate the scene of reconvening was a little more animated and the feature of the occasion was a snappy speech made by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who assailed the republican party as a whole, and the republican members of the senate in particular, for what he denounced as the most dilatory and inefficient methods ever known in congressional history. "The country wants more work and less talk—more deeds and fewer promises," roared the tall Mississippiian as he glared at Senator Lodge, who sat just across the aisle from him. In thought as to how he might hit back at Senator Pat when the time comes. The senator from Massachusetts squirmed in his seat as Mr. Harrison remarked he hoped the republican chairman of the senate committee would be as anxious to bring about good results from the so-called disarmament conference as is Senator Underwood, the democratic floor leader of the senate, and named by President Harding as a member of the American delegation. Then followed an eloquent eulogy of Mr. Underwood, who had up to that minute been sitting beside Mr. Harrison in the front row on the democratic side of the senate. But Mr. Underwood was evidently forewarned of what was coming for he slipped out of his seat and vanished through the door of the cloak room just as the Mississippi orator began to sing his praises. And as Mr. Underwood is a genuine favorite among republican leaders and enjoys their warm friendship, not one of the opposition party broke in to dispute the claims made for his ability, or tried to drag him down from the high pedestal on which Mr. Harrison had placed him.

Penrose Like a Shadow
Senator Penrose looked like a shadow of his former self, as he rose to announce the filing of the taxation bill. His huge frame is now covered with sagging flesh; his face is pale and drawn, but the old spirit of defiance and the determination to retain leadership is not one bit abated. Pennsylvania's republican boss won't yield to anyone, as long as he has a leg to stand on. If his method and manners of today are anything to judge by.

Senator Walsh at Home
Senator Walsh of Massachusetts is in his home state campaigning for the congressman from the sixth district. And the word has gone forth here that if the seat left vacant by Mr. Larkin is to be filled by a republican, it will be only after one of the hardest fought battles in the Bay state. Democrats are very hopeful that they will gain a seat in the house through the appointment of Mr. Larkin as collector of the port of Boston. Several of the best speakers obtainable from republican ranks in the house have been commandeered into service and will speak from Washington this week to elect him in the sixth district.

Armistice Day
Women connected with various organizations are jubilant over the decision of President Harding to set apart as a holiday Nov. 11 of this year, when the conference on limitation of armament opens. The women believe that it was owing to their untiring efforts that the president decided to advise the churches of the country to throw open their doors on that day and have read a message calling attention to the importance and significance of the conference.

Had a Hot Summer
With the mercury still running high in the 80s straw hats and white woollens have not been called in, and the opening of the senate found many men in white duck or woaden vests and wearing white canvas shoes. The summer has been one of such excessive heat and humidity that even Washingtonians, who can usually hold their own in a debate as to the "glorious climate," etc., with a typical Californian, now wag their heads and reluctantly admit the heat was intolerable and of a quality that admitted no excuse.

Want Movies Cleaned Up
The National Catholic Welfare council has come out forcefully during its session here for a clean-up of movie films.

Mr. McMahon, editor of the Bulletin, stated that Catholics are taking a lead in the effort to make the movies clean and attractive. "We are not in sympathy with red laws or blue laws," said he, "but we want observance of the white law of decency." Mr. McMahon went on to say that while he does not believe the Americanization process should be compulsory, he believes that the motion pictures can do much in the way of education and patriotic stimulus.

The only action taken by a Massachusetts member of congress on the opening day was that of Congressman Peter Taggart, Boston, democrat, who introduced a bill urging congress to investigate the Ku Klux Klan activities.

AMERICAN HIERARCHY URGES IRISH PEACE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (by the Associated Press).—The hierarchy of the Catholic church in Ireland, met here Thursday to Cardinal Logue at Belfast was made public yesterday as follows:
Your Eminence:
In this solemn and portentous hour of Irish history, we the bishops of the United States gathered in annual conference, feel it a duty incumbent on us to extend to Your Eminence and your brethren of the Irish hierarchy, the assurance of our sympathy, our prayers and our united good wishes for the happy outcome of the conference in which the representatives of your people are now engaged.

Particularly at this time we are not unmindful of the tremendous debt the church in this country owes to Ireland, and the millions of your race here who are the happy outcome of the conference in which the representatives of your people are now engaged.

And even though they have become loyal Americans, faithful to the flag under which they dwell, time has never been able to extinguish in their souls the love they bore to the land of their fathers, to the little island from which they parted as exiles, destined never to return.

And particularly during these recent years, with anxious and expectant hearts, they have watched the trend of events, ever hopeful that Providence, in his wisdom, might ordain that at last Ireland was to take its place among the nations of the earth.

And indeed, during these latter weeks their hearts were filled with pride when they saw the representatives of their race conduct themselves with a statesmanship that has challenged the admiration of the world.

Therefore, in this fateful hour when the future of Ireland trembles in the balance, it is not our desire to speak by any word of ours to perturb the outcome of those deliberations upon which a world waits with bated breath. Rather, in the true spirit of our holy faith, united with our people from every race and every station, our prayers ascend from every altar in the land that God in His infinite wisdom, and that this most apostolic race among all peoples may receive the reward for what they have done for the church of America and elsewhere by obtaining the fulfillment of their national aspirations.

And finally, that God may grant you and your colleagues to live to see Ireland's golden age and find your people even more faithful to their church in the sublimity of their new freedom than ever they were in the years of their exile and expectancy.

Your Eminence's devoted servants in Christ,
The Bishops and Bishops of the United States.

DRY CHIEF REFUSES TO RETURN LIQUOR

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Elmer C. Potter, federal prohibition director, has refused to obey an order of United States Commissioner Hayes to return 144 quarts of bottled-in-bond whiskey, according to a petition filed that he be adjudged in contempt of the federal court yesterday. Judge Morton also asked to compel Director Potter to carry out the mandate of the commissioner.
The petition, which was filed by ex-Assistant United States Attorney Daniel A. Shea, as counsel for the Francis Drug company of Roxbury, relates that on August 20 a search warrant to prohibition officers to enter the drugstore and search for certain liquors. The liquors were seized and Francis J. Coughlin, president of the company, and his brother, George F. Coughlin, were charged with having the liquors unlawfully in their possession.
After a hearing, however, when it was shown the drug company had a government permit to hold the liquors, the defendants were discharged and an order signed directing the prohibition men to return the liquor.
The petition states further that Director Potter has refused to return the goods, on the ground that the commissioner has no power to order its return.

FINAL ARGUMENTS IN CHICAGO LIBEL SUIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The final arguments on the demurrer filed by the Chicago Tribune against the city of Chicago's $10,000,000 libel suit were to be heard before Judge Harry M. Fisher today in circuit court.
According to a comment at the close of court yesterday by Judge Fisher, the outcome will hinge largely upon whether the city, in the present suit, is to be treated as acting in its governmental or corporate capacity.
The suit alleges damages of $10,000,000 because the Tribune in the campaign of 1920, stated that the city was "broke." Attorneys for the paper filed a demurrer and argued that upholding of the suit would abridge the right of free speech. The city counsel have countered this with a declaration that the right of free speech carries no right to libel malicious lies.

FROM THE SUN CORRESPONDENT

Governor Not Likely to Call Special Session of the Legislature

Special Session Suggested to Deal With the Unemployment Problem

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Governor Cox is not likely to accede to the suggestion, already made from several sources, that he call a special session of the legislature to deal with the "unemployment problem."
In just what respect the legislature might contribute to a solution of the problem has not yet been made to appear. Presumably those sponsoring the suggestion contemplate that the legislature might appropriate a few millions of dollars to be expended for various public works, such as new roads, new buildings, etc. Perhaps some of those entertaining such notions sincerely believe the idea would add to the sum total of human happiness in Massachusetts, and while it might have a temporary tendency toward that end, it would soon be found to be in the nature of the proverbial remedy which is worse than the disease.

The real, underlying cause of existing "hard times," if such they may properly be called, is extravagance,—both private and public. Individuals find their bank accounts,—or in the case of the less fortunate, their cash in hand,—at low ebb because in the days of plenty during the war they failed to practice thrift, and even worse, acquired expensive tastes which they now find difficult to forego. Governments, also, both state and local, have for years gone on the policy that it was perfectly proper to spend every cent the taxpayers would contribute without rebelling to the extent of putting the opposing party in power.

Consequently we have tax rates far higher than are necessary to meet the real necessities of government, yet which almost annually mount to new heights. Now it is seriously suggested by some that the state should impose additional burdens upon its citizens in order to provide work for men who are unable, or unwilling, to find it for themselves.

A great many who have investigated the unemployment situation so far as it exists in Boston, at least, have come to the conclusion that in a vast number of cases the unemployed state of the individual is due to his unwillingness to take work that is offered him. Too many seek a position, rather than a job. Boston newspapers continue to carry columns of advertisements for help, offering employment attractive and comparatively lucrative, but because the stipend fails to meet the exaggerated ideas of some of the "unemployed," they prefer to walk the streets and demand aid from the legislature.

Happily, however, the governor is fully informed as to the real situation existing, and is not to be stampeded into calling a legislative session which would serve no permanently useful purpose. To be sure, it would afford the senators and representatives an opportunity to vote themselves additional salary, but the amount of probably $200 each, which with other expenses incidental to a legislative session would bring its aggregate cost to at least $100,000. The chief executive, however, realizes that this price is too great even for the temporary relief which might be afforded.

Henry F. Long of Topsfield, now continued to make tea.

LAKELAND CHAPEL
The final services of the present season will be held at the Catholic chapel in Lakeland tomorrow at 10 o'clock. The mass will be celebrated by Rev. Michael Gilbride. The musical program will be given by the following singers: Miss St. Peter's choir, Miss Mary Ryan, Miss Florence Harry, Miss Sadie Sheehan and James E. Donnelly. Miss Gertrude Quigley will be the organist.

Y.M.C.A. NIGHT
The annual "opening night" of the Y.M.C.A. fall and winter season, is to be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 27. The committee in charge of the affair has made arrangements for a most enjoyable program of dancing and entertainment for young and old. Members of the institute are invited to bring their friends.

WOMEN WHO CANNOT WORK

Read Mrs. Corley's Letter and Benefit by Her Experience

Edmund, S.C.—"I was run down with nervousness and I was unable to do any work and tried a lot of medicine, but got no relief. I saw your medicine advertised in a little book that was thrown in my door, and I had not taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I could see it was helping me. I am keeping house now and am able to do all of my work. I cannot say enough for your medicine. It has done more for me than any doctor. I have more power enough to tell you how much it has done for me and for my friends. You may print this letter if you wish."
—ELIZABETH C. CORLEY, care of A. P. Corley, Edmund, S.C.

Ability to stand the strain of work is the privilege of the strong and healthy, but how our hearts ache for the weak and sickly women struggling with their daily rounds of household duties, with backaches, headaches, nervousness and almost every movement brings a new pain. Why will not the mass of letters from women all over this country, which we have been publishing, convince such women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help them just as surely as it did Mrs. Corley?

THE TOILERS IN LOWELL

Census Bureau Says 54,001 Over Ten Years Employed Here

Of Total 35,744 Were Males and 18,257 Females—Other Figures

The bureau of census, department of commerce, has issued preliminary general occupation statistics for Lowell, which though subject to change, are probably approximately correct. The number of persons engaged in each particular occupation will probably not be announced until the tabulation of the occupation data, now in progress, has been completed. This will be about July 1, 1922.

According to the returns of the fourteenth census, there were 54,001 persons 10 years of age and over in Lowell engaged in gainful occupations in 1920, constituting 47.9 per cent. of the total population of the city (112,769) and 65.7 per cent. of the population 10 years of age and over. In 1910, the 55,995 gainful workers were 50.9 per cent. of the total population of the city and 64.4 per cent. of the population 10 years of age and over.

Of the gainful workers of Lowell in 1920, 35,741, or 66.2 per cent. were males and 18,257, or 33.8 per cent. were females. The male gainful workers constituted 82.5 per cent. of all males 10 years of age and over in 1920, as against 82.8 per cent. in 1910, while the female workers constituted 33.7 per cent. of all female 10 years of age and over in 1920, as against 33.6 per cent. in 1910.

Of the gainful workers of Lowell in 1920, 36,385, or 67.3 per cent. were engaged in manufacturing and mechanical industries; 25,741, or 47.4 per cent. in transportation; 5,155, or 9.6 per cent. in trade; 1,035, or 2.0 per cent. in public service; 2,150, or 4.0 per cent. in professional service; 300, or 0.5 per cent. in domestic and personal service; 337, or 0.6 per cent. in clerical occupations; and 235, or 0.4 per cent. in all other occupations.

25 VESSELS IN PERIL BY FIRE AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—There was considerable excitement at the army supply base, South Boston, yesterday afternoon at 4:30, when a subsidiary fire was discovered on the passenger steamer Lieut. William T. Brown, tied up at the base with more than 25 other craft of various sizes. The flames raged from the wheelhouse, endangering the other craft tied up there.

Practically all the boats have been tied up for more than a year and none had steam enough to be taken out of the danger zone.

A passerby on Summer street extension saw the flames shooting from the rear of the wheelhouse and sent an alarm from box 7423, outside the army supply base. This brought the Boston fire department. The army base fire department also responded.

Before either department arrived several persons jumped on the burning craft and cut her loose from the Gen. Robert E. Anderson, another boat of the same design.

The burning craft drifted toward the Edison Illuminating plant on Summer street extension, where thousands of tons of coal are stored. This caused alarm at the Edison plant and plant box 7221 was sounded, acting as a second alarm. Engine 1 was sent from Summer street to the Edison plant.

The flames leaped high from the Lieut. Brown and the firemen were watching from the shore but could not reach the James. Chief Calne ordered two fire boats to the scene. Thousands of people watched the firemen subdue the flames. The rumor that an extra supply of gasoline was aboard the burning boat added to the excitement. The craft did not sink.

The Lieut. Brown has been tied up at the base for more than a year. When last used, the craft carried supplies and troops to the harbor forts. The damage was placed at $15,000.

CONNOLLY BOY GAINING

The condition of John Connolly, 15 years old boy of 108 Agawam street who is at St. John's hospital with a fractured skull the result of a collision with an automobile yesterday is reported as improving. While the boy put in a comfortable night his name is still on the dangerous list. Physicians are a bit more hopeful of his recovery as he seems to grow stronger each hour.

Denver Municipal Camp Ground Provides All Conveniences for Gypsies

BY N. E. A. SERVICE
DENVER, Sept. 24.—Modern motor gypsies find that life at the municipal camp ground here cannot be described as "roughing it."

"The grounds are equipped with all conveniences of a first-class hotel. Here are some of the features which make camping in Denver a luxury: A modern clubhouse, suggestive of a country club with a restaurant, pool room, barbers shop, and fountain, and hot and cold showers for men and women.

The largest dance hall in the west, with an 8-piece orchestra, where campers may dance for six cents a couple. A steam table, where hot food to be eaten around the campfire may be bought.

An 8-tub electric laundry, electric irons, and 45 sanitary lavatories. A completely equipped children's playground, a tennis court, a race track and three baseball diamonds. An automobile repair shop, a filling station, a vulcanizing shop and a battery service station.

Police guard is maintained day and night, attendants are on duty in the clubhouse, and a road information bureau has two experts at the visitors' service.

Ten thousand cars, bearing more than 37,000 passengers, visited the grounds this season. The grounds contain 160 acres and will accommodate twice as many persons as have used it yet.

Thomas Cox, lessee of the shops, is under heavy bond not to profiteer.

BEATING THE ENGINE TO THE CROSSING

Every few days we read of an auto driver who tries to beat a railroad engine to the crossing—the car is struck and a whole family is killed or injured.

The chances are always against the driver. There is just one safe way: When you approach a crossing where there is not an unobstructed view of the track in both directions, you should bring your car to a full stop and "look and listen." If no train is approaching, then hurry across.

When you have waited for a train to pass, do not cross until you make sure there is no train on the other track; many people have been killed because they did not take this precaution.

Remember it is impossible for an engineer to stop his train in time to prevent an accident. An automobile is involved in 70 per cent. of all accidents at railroad crossings.

PALE WOMEN NEED A BLOOD BUILDER TO REGAIN COLOR

"My sallow, wax-like complexion has become clear and bright," states Mrs. Stella Shaw, of No. 805 Columbia st., Hudson, N. Y., who had suffered for years for anemia until she found the right tonic.

"I hadn't been well for six years," she says, "following an attack of jaundice. I was tired and without ambition all the time. Whenever I would lie down I had several dizzy spells and seemed to fill up and choke. My appetite was poor and I had pains across my shoulders."

"I had heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills several years ago and when I saw them mentioned in a newspaper I procured a box and began treatment with them. My condition improved so much after the first box that I continued taking the pills until I had regained my strength. I no longer become exhausted easily and have plenty of ambition for my work. My appetite is excellent and the pain across my shoulders has gone. I not only feel like myself again but my color no longer causes people to think I am seriously ill. I can't speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., 60 cents per box. Write for the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood."—Adv.

BIG REDUCTION IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Reduction of more than 10,000 in the number of persons hurt by automobile accidents in Massachusetts in the year the safe roads federation has been in existence was officially cited yesterday by Frank A. Goodwin, state registrar of motor vehicles, as a lesson in what can be done for "no accident week" which begins Sunday.

"The federation was organized a little more than a year ago," said Mr. Goodwin, "and as a result we gained the co-operation of a strong group of organizations and of several thousand automobile drivers in an effort to check the increase in automobile accidents that had risen without interruption since 1915."

"Widespread public interest was aroused in the fundamental causes of these accidents, and through the joint co-operation of the state department of public works, the traffic police of the state, pedestrians and drivers of cars, the number of persons reported injured by motor vehicles in this state for the 12 months ending last September 1 was 10,195 less than the number reported injured during the 12 months reported Sept. 1, 1920."

Nevada has the fewest women, in proportion to total population, of any of the states.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents.)

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Will Cressy and Blanche Dayne in "Without a Will There's a Way." Next Week—Good Sunday Bill.

There's a splendid bill, with music and comedy and instrumental delights thrown in, at the B. F. Keith theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening. F. Raymond Wylie and Marie Hurman are going to give their version of what happens before, and then contrast it with what sometimes comes afterwards. Foley and Letour will give their classic turn, and Helena Moretti, the little girl with the big voice, and Cooper and Lane, singers, will also be on the bill. Three new acts for the day only have also been engaged. They are: Mildred Parker, O'Neill and Earle and the Harmony Duo.

One of the best loved men in all vaudeville, incidentally one of the very cleverest, and a woman who has endeared herself to thousands through her playing of honest characters, will be the big double attraction at the theatre, next week. They are Will Cressy and Blanche Dayne, and they are going to give Mr. Cressy's new playlet, "Without a Will There's a Way." Nobody could write a play like this but Will Cressy, and having written it, nobody could play the principal character but him. It's a tribute to the old "Cy Prime" of "The Old Homestead" to say that there isn't a man on the vaudeville boards of this broad land who can command as great general attention as he can. It is true, because his characters are decidedly human, and yet tinged with a humorous philosophy that is simply irresistible. Miss Dayne is scarcely less known than Mr. Cressy. Together they make an unbeatable pair.

The remainder of the bill will be right up to snuff with Joe Daresy, the singing song writer, tucking in some of his resplendent melodies. Daresy has a deft comedy touch to his work which is at once recognized, and few men are capable of switching from the grave to the gay with such grace as he.

An offering original in conception, novel in theme and most ably presented.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING PLANTS

With the special election on the municipal gas petition but a couple of weeks away, very little interest is manifested in the proposition. Nevertheless, the friends of the change will go to the polls in force and those who are opposed to granting the petition will have to get out in numbers if they expect to bury the proposition and thus save the city from additional trouble and expense.

The Merchants' Association of New York in 1919 published a list of 275 cities and towns which after a trial of municipal ownership and operation of electric lighting plants had ceased in whole or in part to operate the plants. In practically all of these cases municipal operation was undertaken so that the community might obtain electric service at a lower cost than it could obtain from private companies.

Experience has demonstrated that in this they were mistaken. The Sun a few days ago gave a list of a dozen municipalities which undertook to manufacture gas for local consumers. Their experiences were equally expensive and the enterprises for that reason were abandoned.

Some people may wonder why this should be so. But it is an ineradicable difference between the methods of conducting a city's business and that of a private concern. The principles that govern political action and those that govern economic action are fundamentally different and cannot be reconciled. The private corporation is controlled by an executive who has large authority, whereas in a municipality the power of the executive is limited and politics thwarts the course of business. That is practically the explanation of the numerous failures of municipal ownership of public utilities.

It applies equally to gas plants, electric lighting plants and street railway service.

HARRISON IS RIGHT

We rise to remark that Senator Harrison was fully justified in criticizing the republicans of congress for delay in the transaction of business when he found but a handful of members present on the date of reassembling last Wednesday. He voiced some solid and sensible advice which, if followed by the republicans, will help them overcome the present business depression. "More work and less talk, more deeds and fewer empty promises" was the plan of action laid down by Senator Harrison. Of course it wasn't pleasant to the republicans to hear their failures exposed in a manner that was all the more severe because unanswerable as to the facts.

It is certainly true that the republicans have wasted a great deal of time and accomplished very little in dealing with the great questions of reconstruction.

Senator Harrison is right; it is time for the republicans to get down to business and settle the vital questions on which hangs the return of better times.

Nero fiddled while Rome burned; and while we do not want to be ultra critical, yet it must be said that the republican party seems to have lost its old-time capacity for business. It has wrangled while the country idly waited.

Every good citizen, of course, wants to give President Harding a chance to study out the great questions before him; but he is woefully slow in reaching conclusions, and as a result his executive ability is below par.

The president has recently spoken in favor of the Penrose bill to give Secretary Mellon arbitrary power in dealing as he pleases with the refunding of the $10,000,000 of foreign loans, of which the interest has long since been defaulted. He has also praised the "War Finance Corporation," a measure intended to help revive business but which disappointed the farmers and threw $500,000,000 to the railroads. This and the budget bill practically sums up the work accomplished by the administration in the first six months of its effort. Is it any wonder that Senator Harrison let go his pent-up wrath?

CIVIL WAR VETERANS

The Grand Army of the Republic holds its annual reunion in Indianapolis, Sept. 25 to 29.

Later, in October, the United Confederate Veterans gather at Chattanooga.

It is tragic that these people will be the last remnant of the Boys in Blue and Boys in Gray. Old age is sounding taps.

The average age of the soldiers of the northern army during the Civil war was 23. In the south it was lower. Fifty-six years have passed since Lee surrendered at Appomattox. So the age of Civil war veterans must average 80 years.

The G.A.R. was organized in 1866, with all the vigor and enthusiasm of the American Legion in 1919. It reached its peak membership of 400,000. In 1917 only 185,000 members remained alive. Now they have dwindled to less than 50,000.

The Boys in Blue are passing on their march into eternity at so rapid a pace that nine years hence the last one may be gone. That will be a pity for a mighty army that had 2,000,000 enlistments and 700,000 deaths.

The United Confederate Veterans have dwindled to a membership of only 45,000—all that is left of the Confederate army of 400,000, an army so valorous and efficient that it succumbed to superior forces only after four years of conflict and starvation.

As the nation honors the Boys in Blue and the Boys in Gray, it must be a comforting satisfaction for the old soldiers to look about at the powerful

Mr. Featherly weighs over 200 pounds and is sensitive about it. "Certainly," replied Featherly, as he changed from one chair to the other, with your head, eh?"

His "Week-End"

"The late Champ Clark," said a Chicagoan, "was an out-and-out American. He hated all kinds of affectations and fads. He wouldn't let you call a sitting room a living room, or a silk hat a top hat, or a shoe store a boot shop. One day I was on a train across Champ Clark one Sunday afternoon on the boardwalk at Atlantic City. 'Hello, boy, what you doing down here?' he asked me in his hearty way. 'I'm down here for my week-end,' said I. Champ gave a snort. 'O,' he said, 'something wrong with your head, eh?'"

Lawyer Hauled

A railway employee was in the witness box, and was being cross-examined by a very self-important young lawyer about a case which had resulted in a damage suit as the consequence of an accident on the railroad. "You say that you saw this man fall from the train?" said the lawyer. "I saw him fall, yes," replied the railway man. "Yet it was night time," insisted the lawyer. "And you were at one end of the train and the man was at the other. Do you expect an intelligent jury to believe such a yarn? How far can you see at night?" "About a million miles, I think," replied the railway man. "I can see the moon. How far is that?" The lawyer retired.

When to Breathe

The modern ideas on education are all very well so far as they go, but there is an old and well-known proverb which says that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. Perhaps that is why Johnny Jones' essay on air ran like this: "Breath is made of air. We breathe always with our lungs, except at night, when our breath keeps life going through our throats while we are asleep. If it was not for our breath we should die whenever we slept. Boys that stay in a room all day should not breathe. They should wait until they get outdoors. A lot of boys staying in a room make carbonic acid, and carbonic acid is more poisonous than mad dogs, though not just in the same way. It does not bite, but that's no matter so long as it kills you."

AN ATTRACTIVE DISPLAY

Windows of Chalifoux Store

Autumn

One of the prettiest displays of the many prepared by Lowell merchants to mark the coming of the fall season is that on exhibition in the windows of the J. L. Chalifoux Co. at the corner of Merrimack and Central streets. The spirit of autumn is admirably depicted in the artistic blending of color and the pleasing arrangement of accessories at this well known department store. During the past few days it has proved a eyecatcher for the eyes of hundreds of passers-by, all of whom have been lavish in their expressions of admiration and praise.

The Halloween colors, orange and black, have been used to excellent advantage by Joseph H. Martin, display manager, and Alvin Johnston, his assistant, in their decoration of the many windows which go to make up the spirit of autumn in color and costume.

Chalifoux store front. The two colors, orange and black, are used to excellent advantage in the color scheme with a variety of orange tending a lighter touch at regular intervals. Black runners with thin stripes of yellow, make up the floor covering.

The decorators have made no attempt to vary the general appearance of the several windows which go to make up the spirit of autumn in color and costume. The same theme runs through them all, with a large cut-out figure in the center of the Merrimack display the only distinctive deviation of the entire exhibition. Fall foliage is used to good advantage.

The windows in Merrimack street, nearest Central are given over to a display of women's suits and coats designed for fall wear. These are the very latest and newest models and include many other stunning wraps within. There are waists in the window just below and the window over to the left of the Chalifoux display is given over to millinery. Exceptionally attractive will be the woman who will not be able to find at least one hat to appeal to her in the wonderful display shown in this window.

The central street windows are given over to a display of men's and boys' wear, together with accessories and articles. The orange and black scheme has not been continued on this side of the building but the lighter background here is pleasingly artistic.

All in all, the Chalifoux fall opening display ranks high with any in Lowell or in Boston for its artistic and store management is to be congratulated on the excellent showing made by its artists.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

I overheard a couple of men talking yesterday. One was a newcomer to the city. He said he thought it was a shame that streets were not properly marked with good clean signs. This may interest merchants of the street department and the chamber of commerce. This man said, "The indicators on the streets here are a disgrace to any city of Lowell's size. I have to stop and yap all around looking for certain streets. And then I generally wind up by asking a policeman or passerby. The few signs there are are dirty and improperly located. Take any other city and you will find markers at each intersection of streets. It's bad enough to walk up from the station and stomach the sight of a poor entrance to the city without being compelled to grope around the streets after you reach the business section."

Among the hardest workers for the Mardi Gras being held at the Casino in aid of St. Anthony's church are the Bettsworth sisters, Misses Margaret and Jennie. These two young ladies are always active in affairs of the parish and deserve much credit for the success of many social events undertaken by the church.

Lowell automobilists who may be contemplating week-end trips out of this city to other places, principally Boston, will be interested in the bulletin issued yesterday by the state department of public works.

About the Lowell-Boston route the bulletin says:

"Woburn-Winchester: Construction three miles. One mile in Winchester open to travel, being built one-half at a time. Remains of road closed to travel with good datum."

Concerning the route Lexington-Lowell it has to say: "Bedford North road: Construction a half mile, open to travel."

For the trip Boston to Bedford, to Nashua, the bulletin says: "Chelmsford-North and Boston roads, construction about one-quarter mile in length, in good condition."

Judging by what I hear from some local newspaper scribes I think the following news item published in a Boston paper yesterday will interest some people in Lowell.

"Lynn, Sept. 23.—Today Mayor Creamer ordered Chief of Police Burckes, in the future, to require the policemen to make a report of all accidents as soon as they occur.

The mayor said that it had been brought to his attention that frequent policemen had attempted to withhold records of such accidents from the police reporters, and for this reason he was ordering that all such reports be made immediately in order that they might be available to the newspaper men."

At the present time there is opening an opportunity in Lowell which very few of our young people who are daily employed should overlook. I refer to the registration sessions for admittance to the evening high school now going on. Here is a chance for any Lowell boy or girl who has not had the benefit of a high school education to improve himself vastly. Discussing the matter the other day, Henry H. Harris, who is principal of both the day and evening high schools, said that there was no reason for young people in Lowell spending all their evenings with movie theatres, pool rooms and the like. The evening high school will give them any kind of instruction they wish. The same high calibre of teachers who instruct those who attend the day school are at the evening school so that the best possible sort of instruction is obtainable. Mr. Harris has enlarged the scope of the high school curriculum this year so that even those who have not had the advantage of a grammar school education may take up a preparatory course which will enable them to pursue the regular courses later on.

Quarter Century Ago

From the old Sun I take the following article relative to visits of presidents of the United States and presidential candidates to this city:

"The probable visit of Mr. Bryan, the presidential candidate, to Lowell next week, recalls to mind the visits of presidents and presidential candidates who have been to this city the hour or of having visited it and inspected its far famed mills, its wonderful water power and remarkable business achievements.

Andrew Jackson

"The first president who visited Lowell was Andrew Jackson, on June 26 and 27, 1832. Lowell was then a bustling mill town, with healthy looking mill girls, neat little buildings and endowed with a surprising capacity for business. The presidential party came over the road from Andover, as railroads then were far and few between. The distinguished guests entered the city on horses, and were met on Nesmith street by a large cavalcade of citizens and companies of militia on foot. These were followed by children from the public schools who turned out in great numbers. But the mill girls, nearly 3000 in number, all robed out in attractive white dresses, took President Jackson's eye at once.

"The imposing procession proceeded down into the city amid the cries of crowds of people along the route and cannons boomed from Chamber hill at intervals during the march. During his stay here the president was shown the sights of the town, including the mills in operation and the great water power that ran them. An account of the president's visit said that during his short stay here, Old Hickory walked through 3500 mill girls all in white.

Henry Clay

"The next president, or defeated candidate for the presidency, who might call him, or visit Lowell, was Henry Clay, the renowned American statesman, who in 1832 ran for president and was beaten by General Jackson. He received a great reception during his visit here and those who had upheld his policies in the election the previous year, turned out to do him homage.

President Tyler

"This city was in gala attire when President Tyler visited it on June 13, 1843. He arrived at the Northern depot, which had been completed but a few years before, and was met by an imposing array of citizens.

"The streets around the depot were packed with humanity, all anxious to get a view of the head of this country. A platform was erected not far from the depot on which was the committee of arrangements, headed by Dr. Huntington, one of Lowell's famous mayors, who delivered a speech of welcome.

"The president responded and the immense crowd enthusiastically applauded. Two of Lowell's old-time military organizations were present together with a company from Manchester. After the speech making the presidential party was driven in a procession by six black horses, accompanied by the militia, the school children, and a cavalcade of citizens, and the line of march was taken through the principal streets of the city. The mills and places of interest were visited.

President Polk

"The next presidential visit was that of President Polk. President Tyler's successor, who came to Lowell on June 30, 1845. He was met on his arrival by the mayor and a committee of prominent citizens who were all proud in welcoming him to the Spindle city. The mills were visited and the operatives filled the streets during the president's tour of the city. The militia companies from Lowell and Westford turned out in large numbers. There was also a large company of mounted citizens who did escort duty to the presidential party. A public supper was served in Mechanics hall in the evening at noon of the guests.

"The president and his party visited the mills the next day and inspected the places of interest in and around the city. After their visit here they left for Concord, N. H.

General Grant

"On December 4, 1865, General Grant visited Lowell. The distinguished military president was stopping at Boston at the time, and recognizing this fact and thinking the people of Lowell were anxious to see him, our city government sent a special invitation to the general to visit this city. General Grant heeded the request and a committee was sent to Boston to escort him to Lowell. The general, at that time, esteemed it best to avoid any display on his account, and mainly for that reason only three car-

Berton Braley's Daily Poem UNDOMESTICATED ANIMALS

THEY cost a lot, they're a heap of bother,
They're mostly hungry and hard to fill;
They trouble mother and worry father,
They're rough and noisy enough, but still—

THEY leave disorder the whole house over,
and oh how frowny and grimed they get;
They're always bringing some canine rover
and wanting to keep the cur. And yet—

THEY wear out clothes in a frightful fashion
They haven't a bit of respect for dress;
For gathering junk they've an inborn passion,
They clutter the house; but, nevertheless—

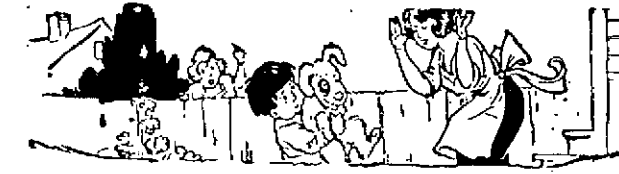

OF order and duty they're little notion,
The walk's unswept and the grass uncut;
For books or school they show scant devotion,
They're always getting in trouble, but—

THE neighbors' windows they're always breaking
In clubs and gangs they are always banding,
Their wild stunts keep us forever quaking,
They're tough to handle; yet, notwithstanding—

BOYS are a nuisance, there's no denying—
They're mostly lawless and rarely tame,
Their ways are savage, their manners trying,
They're restless creatures; but, just the same

WE wouldn't care for the house without them,
Dear God, how empty and bleak 'twould be;
So, though we constantly groan about them, flages were provided for the accommodations of himself and his party when he arrived in this city at the Northern depot. There were big crowds on the streets, but it seemed the people wished to adhere to General Grant's desire, for general enthusiasm was quite lacking. The flags were flown from the public buildings and some of the people carried small flags on the streets, but these were the only manifestations of patriotism that greeted the general's eyes.
We're glad we've got them, because, you see.

"The only other president who stopped at Lowell was President Harrison, who stepped on the rear platform of his train a few years ago to have pleasantly to a big crowd of people who were packed around the depot to catch a glimpse of him."

Mr. Bryan did not come to Lowell as was expected. He visited Boston and was invited to Lowell but was unable to come owing to other engagements.

Taft and Roosevelt

In 1912, the year of the Bull Moose break, Roosevelt came to Lowell and spoke on the South common, coming directly from the depot. It was on that occasion he complimented the police arrangements for controlling the crowd. Some time later, President Taft, then seeking a re-election, visited Lowell and spoke in the Opera house. His voice was in bad shape, and he was so hoarse his speech could scarcely be heard. Even then he realized that he was a beaten man.

Detroit Pair Batting for .394 Annual Debut of Eastern College—Hornsby Leading Nat. League With .405

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Ty Cobb, pilot of the Detroit Tigers, has climbed into a tie with his teammate, Harry Heilmann, for the batting honors of the American league. The Georgia peach who has been hitting with due regularity since entering the home stretch, is batting .394, a mark which he held a week ago, while Heilmann, who has been holding top place honors, hit a night batting slump during the last week and dropped from .395 to .394. Cobb is far in front of his rivals as a run-getter, having registered 165 runs for the Yankees.

Sister has taken the lead in the stolen base department by pilfering three bases during the past week and bringing his total to 27. Harry of Washington, who was leading a week ago, failed to add to his string of 26. Other leading batters: Speaker, Cleveland, .392; Kelly, Boston, .389; Williams, St. Louis, .345; Jacobson, St. Louis, .342; Collins, Chicago, .339; Strunk, Chicago, .338. Rogers, pitcher of St. Louis has been hitting with telling effect, and has brought his average up to .405 for the leadership in the National league. The St. Louis star also increased his lead as a run-getter. He scored 127 times. Jack Pomeroy, a teammate of Hornsby's, retained his position as runner-up with a mark of .342. McInerney, another member of the Cardinals, is pushing the big Frenchman with an average of .340. George Kelly, Chicago, .339; Burch, St. Louis, .338; Pyle, New York, .336; J. Smith, St. Louis, .335; Messel, New York, .335; Groh, Cincinnati, .332.

BOGASH WINS FROM JOE EAGAN AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Louis Bogash of Worcester, Conn., had too much aggressiveness and "pep" for Joe Eagan of Worcester in their 10-round fight at the Mechanic hall. Eagan won the decision by a wide margin, having about eight rounds of the 10.

Eagan made several rallies when his speed and cleverness gave him the lead, but a lot of his work was half-hearted. He seldom used the head-butting tactic which he had learned from the Italian in return.

Bogash got the jump on the Worcester middleweight in the first round, crashing in left and right hooks to the head and body, with few returns. He seemed bent on punishing the fray then and there. Few thought that it would go the distance.

The next five rounds were about the same, with Eagan now and then stabbing to face with his left. In the sixth, however, Joe got to work, shooting left to face and right to body, and the fans gave him round after round of cheers by way of encouragement. Joseph continued his rally in the seventh, though the visitor had the margin. In the next session Eagan sent the color flowing from Bogash's nose and appeared to have a bad case of the mill. Bogash was dazed, while Joe, encouraged by the fans, turned loose a lot of stuff and gained the round.

But it gained him little, for in the ninth the Italian from the Nutmeg state tore loose and walloped his man all over the ring. He had a right to a big margin. Both put up a busy tenth frame with the shade going to Bogash. He was tired from his own exertions when the bell rang, while Joseph showed signs of wear and tear.

The semi-final was a 10-round slambang between Patsey Bogash, Worcester, and Joe Gibbs of New Rochelle. Bogash was the winner. Barney Rivers of Woonsocket won the award over Billy Gastin of South Boston in the final. The fight was too fast and rangy for the Peninsula boy though the latter put up a game, hard fight. In the eighth round, however, John Simpson of Auburn was the victor over Young Donahue of the South End. It was a rugged affair with both taking considerable punishment.

NO INDICTMENT IN FIGHT FILM CASE

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Teddy Hayes, Jack Dempsey's trainer, will not be prosecuted in the federal courts for his technical violation of law in transporting films of the Carpenter-Dempsey championship fight for exhibition on Aug. 3 last before wounded men in Parker hall hospital. The federal grand jury returned no bill against Hayes for violation of the interstate commerce laws in transporting the pictures.

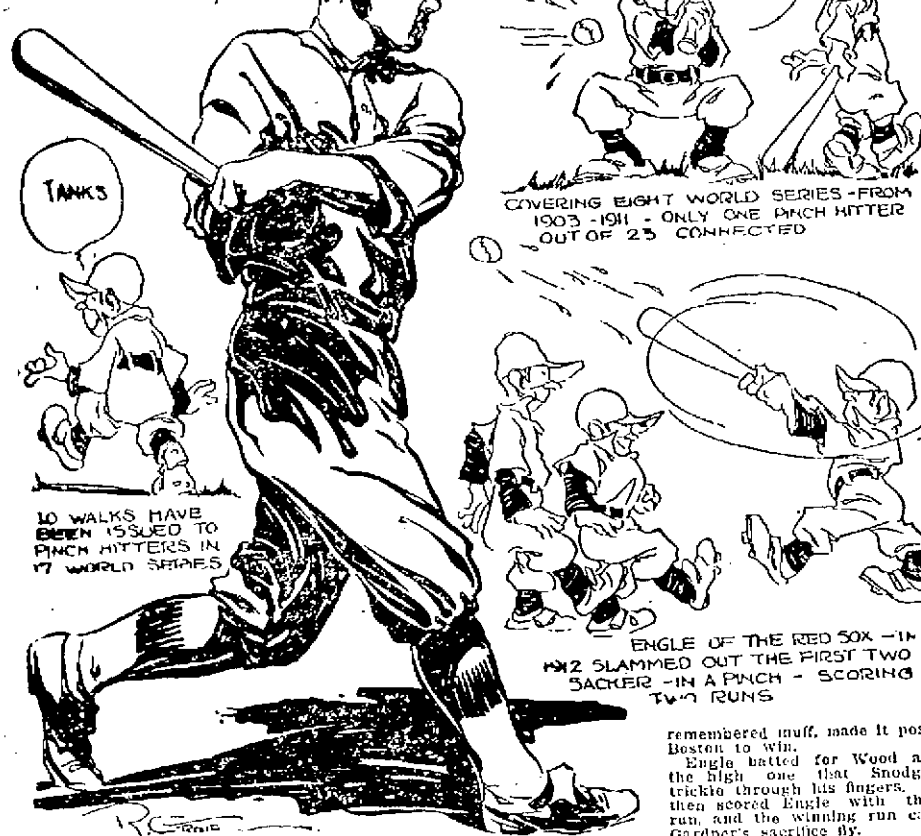

A startling increase in the normal number of persons indicted by the federal grand jury was noted in the United States district court yesterday, when 17 persons were named as indicted for various violations of the narcotic laws. The number exceeds by two to one any previous similar return.

Most of the indictments alleged either possession or sale of cocaine or morphine. In several instances both possession and sale were charged. One of those indicted, Abraham Hsany, who pleaded guilty to both possession and sale is an addict himself, according to the statement of Asst. United States Atty. Keith. He was given a 30-day sentence in Plymouth jail.

It'd like to be a box-fighter, I would, if I could join it. They say they make a lotta jack. And don't work hard to clin it. Every time the ball flew down from pitcher's box to plate. He swung with all his might, might. Too soon or else too late. He was a famous quarterback. His fame lay in his brain. He never used it for his brains. He backed the line instead.

remembered inuff, made it possible for Boston to win. The high one that Snodgrass let trickle through his fingers. Speaker then scored single with the winning run, and the winning run came in on Gardner's sacrifice fly.

Substitutes played an important role in the second game of the 1916 Red Sox-Brooklyn series at Boston. Boston's pinch hitter, one run in the third inning and the game dragged on with neither team scoring until the 14th. Dick Hoblitzel then drew a pass, and Lewis sacrificed. Manager Carrigan sent McNally to second to run for the big first baseman, pulled Red Gardner out of the lineup and sent in Del Gainer to bat for him. Gainer connected with a vicious line drive that went for a single and McNally, who other substitutes brought home the run that won the game.

Ten times 1903 pinch hitters have worked the pitchers for passes, thus bridging the danger gap successfully for their teams. Murphy of the White Sox got a life in the 1915 series with the Reds when he went in to pinch hit and got one of Bud Eiler's offerings in the middle of the back.

BY ROY GROVE

Pinch hitters have been called upon 63 times in World Series games dating back as far as 1903, the real beginning of the interleague postseason clashes. And only 12 times have the men thus jammed into the breach put over the old wallops in quest of which they were introduced into the lineup. Will pinch hitters in the series now coming up be able to better this record?

Abolition of freak pitching and inability to use his right effectively, and while Buff missed opener, his blows were hard and worried Herman. Herman showed best in the fourth round when he landed a left jab, upsetting him. Buff was up immediately, however.

Herman won the bantamweight championship from Kid Williams of Baltimore in a 20-round fight at New Orleans in 1917. It was a decision which Joe Lynch of New York, but won it back again when he received the judge's decision over Lynch in a 15-round bout in Brooklyn a few weeks ago.

Holds Two Titles

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Victor over Pete Herman, world's bantamweight champion, in a 15-round bout here last night, Johnny Buff, the veteran Jersey City boxer, today enjoyed the distinction of being the only boxer in the country to hold two titles. In addition to the bantamweight crown, Buff holds the American flyweight championship.

When George Washington Lee Fights, All Chop Sueys Close

By N.E.A. Service.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 24.—George Washington Lee has never chopped down any cherry trees, but he has battered down a lot of promising bantamweights.

He claims the Chinese bantamweight championship of the world, and if there's any slant-eyed swat-smith who thinks he can wrestle it away from him, let him speak up now.

Lee was born in San Francisco 21 years ago and shortly afterward the family moved to Sacramento, into a quarter of the city where George had to learn to use his fists in order to get an even break with the kids in the neighborhood.

Good Start

How well he succeeded was illustrated on the night he walked up to Mel Hoffman's fight arena and asked permission to get into the ring with somebody. Hoffman gave him a chance, and George cleaned him up as speedily and handily as his countrymen clean up your shirt. Faster still, George cleaned up a fellow named Gledhill, who went to the same way.

Hoffman then took Lee to New Orleans, where he knocked out a tough one named Jeffery in one round. He returned to the Queen City later and fought a draw with Red Watson. The only training he had for this fight was during stopovers en route from the coast.

Meets Herman

In August, 1919, Lee again met Watson and beat him. On Sept. 10, he fought Pete Herman, a tough fight. Later he beat Archie Simpson, lost a 15-round decision to Johnny Buff, beat Young Dempsey in Memphis and lost to Midget Smith at Hickard's Madison Square Garden.

When Lee fights in most towns, all the chop suey restaurants close for the evening.

Indians Must Win Three Straight To Wrest First Place From Yanks

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Defeated in the opening game of the "little world's series" the Cleveland Americans now face the task of taking three straight from New York in order to wrest first place from the Yankees. today's battle is an important one. A victory for the Yankees would mean that even if they lost four of their final eight games, the Indians would have to win all their six in order to finish first. A victory today for the Indians would bring about a virtual tie, with New York leading by less than two points. Waite Hoyt's splendid pitching against the Indians yesterday increased the confidence of the New York followers as he will be available again in the final game, Monday. The young twirler struck out seven men and was steady except in the fourth inning when two runs were scored. In the first inning he fanned Jameson, Wood and Smith. Babe Ruth, whose three two-base hits figured prominently in the victory scored three of the four New York runs. First Baseman Johnston of Cleveland had only four putouts while Centerfielder Wood of the same club made five, three of them in one inning. Manager Speaker of the visitors still is troubled with his leg, recently injured. He batted for Coveleski in the ninth inning, and raised a pop fly to Peckinpaugh. Speaker limped in running to first. Gardner and Sewell were the only Indians to get more than one hit, the former making two singles and the latter a triple and a single.

Pittsburgh Still Has A Chance

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Pittsburgh still retains a mathematical possibility of overtaking New York for leadership in the National League, although 23 points behind the pacemakers. Pitcher Hamilton of the Pirates kept his team in the running by splendid pitching against Philadelphia yesterday, blanking them and allowing only four hits, which were evenly divided between two outfielders, Lee and King. The Chicago Cubs with a team made up of several recruits, including a pitcher, defeated the Boston Braves in a game marked by each Chicago man making one or more hits. Heimack, another recruit pitcher helped the Philadelphia Athletics win a double header from the Chicago White Sox, after he had won nine straight games. Pitcher Bush of the Boston Red Sox was stopped by St. Louis in the first game of a double header. Shocker was the winning pitcher. In the second contest won by Boston, Centerfielder Leibold of the winners hit safely in four times at bat. Yesterday's victory for the Yankees over Cleveland was the 12th the world's champions have lost to the New Yorkers this year.

Real Estate Transactions—Building Notes and Permits Issued

Serve to Keep You Close to Nature

No steps to climb in this model home plan, furnished The Sun by the Curtis Service Bureau of Clinton, Mass. Experts in interior and exterior woodwork.

The American passion for porches is exemplified in this pretty cottage, for it has four-two front porches, a rear porch and a sleeping porch. The porch roofs have a pergola-effect, which is carried out in exposed rafter ends across the main roof. Delicate trellises screen the front porch, and half hide the cottage itself.

The type of house of which this one is an example has been called southern, because spread out on one story, close to the ground, with porches, overhanging eaves to shade the walls, many openings for sun and breeze, trellises for vines, and a full basement.

Can Have Basement
These all suggest the great outdoors of the sunny south land. Of course, a basement can be provided without losing the desirable low-lying effect, by the use of cellar sash in excavated areas.

The floor plan of this charming house is a perfect rectangle, 35 feet deep by 51 feet wide, though its interesting exterior is very unlike the usual conventionally rectangular house. The rooms are well arranged, and the sleeping quarters are effectively isolated from the living portion of the house. The living room, extending out between the front porches, has French doors opening to both of them, so that it has light from three sides. Opposite the windows is the hearth, the centre of the home circle.

The wing of the house on the left of the living room is taken up by the dining room and the service portion of the house. There is a built-in cupboard in the dining room for china. The kitchen is only 10 feet square, but its fixtures are so compactly arranged that it is efficient.

Fuel Room Handy
The little rear porch is a handy place to have stationary tubs, or the refrigerator. Adjoining it is the fuel room that supplies the fireplace without necessitating going out of the house. The bedrooms are to the right and rear of the living room. They are connected with the bathroom by a hall. One of the bedrooms opens directly into the kitchen, and might be used as a maid's room. All three bedrooms have ample closets, and are well lighted and ventilated. The main bedroom opens to the sleeping porch, through a little passage formed by the clothes closet and a built-in case of drawers that admirably serves as a chiffonier. Provision is made for a linen case in the hall, which will also gladden the homemaker's heart.

The main hip roof of this cottage ends in a gable, which permits the use of a lattice to ventilate the attic, making the rooms cooler. One of the porches might be glazed for use on chilly days.

Needs 60-Foot Front

The layout of the plan is such that this house may be built on a lot varying in any direction and still have bright rooms, an advantage may be taken of local conditions and of prevailing breezes. A 60-foot frontage is necessary.

The white-painted woodwork of colonial design, this little southern cottage will be a joy for all time.

RUSSIA DRAFTS REPLY TO POLISH ULTIMATUM

MOSCOW, Sept. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Russia's reply to the Polish ultimatum of Monday last was agreed upon today and will be forwarded immediately. In it the Soviet government states that while Poland insists upon compliance by Russia with the first three sections of the peace treaty, Russia likewise insists on Poland's compliance with articles five, under which both states mutually guarantee to respect the sovereignty of each other and agree not to interfere with domestic affairs by supporting organizations fighting against the respective governments.

This article refers especially to General Petlura, the Ukrainian anti-Bolshevik leader and General Boris Savinkoff, the anti-Bolshevik leader whose expulsion from Poland the Soviet government recently demanded.

The reply says that failure to reach an agreement before Oct. 1, which Poland fixed as the date when it will break off diplomatic relations if Russia fails to comply with the ultimatum, will also be regarded by the Soviet government as cause for the recall from Warsaw of M. Karakhan, the Soviet representative in Poland.

From The Sun Correspondent

commissioners of corporations and taxation and formerly private secretary to Calvin Coolidge when the latter was governor, seems to be in full accord with his former chief in respect to the financial end of governmental administration.

It is related of Coolidge that during his first term as governor, a prominent republican legislator, member of the ways and means committee, went to his office one day with cheerful tidings. "Governor," he said, "the legislature has passed the state tax bill just the same as last year. What do you think of that?"

Because of expenditures incidental to the war and other extraordinary causes it had been expected that the state tax would jump at least two millions of dollars, and the legislator fully expected that the effects of his committee would be somewhat different.

DUELISTS EMPTY GUNS, FIGHT WITH SWORDS

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Count de Poret and Camille de Farce, according to La Liberté, fought a duel today in the Parc des Princes, using both pistols and swords. The count is said to have sustained a sword wound through his right arm which forced him, in tears, to give up the combat.

The duel was started with the men using pistols. Four shots were fired by each man at a distance of 20 metres. All the bullets went wild.

Then the combatants faced each other with duelling swords. La Farce twice was touched on the right shoulder by the count's sword, but he continued the fray and thrice punctured de Poret's right arm.

In the final passage at arms La Farce's sword passed through the count's arm, causing paralysis and forcing de Poret to retire. The duel lasted an hour and a half.

SAILING REGULATIONS

Rules of the Road at Sea to Govern Race to Select Defender Off Gloucester

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 24.—The rules of the road at sea will be the only sailing regulations in the race off this port Oct. 12 to select a defender for the international fishing vessel championship trophy, won last fall at Halifax, N. S., by the Esperanza. The committee in charge announced this decision today stipulating at the same time, that competing craft shall carry only workaday sails and that only men regularly engaged in the fisheries shall steer the vessels or shift their sails.

The usual suit of eight sails carried by fishermen, including the fisherman's staysail, will be allowed, and only a minor portion of the sail area may be new. Crews will be limited to 25 men each. Ballast may not be shifted after the start of the race.

Although only one race is planned, the committee decided to hold further competition, if necessary, to determine the best boat. The course will be approximately 40 miles in length, starting from the whistling buoy off Eastern Point. It will be windward and leeward, or triangular, dependent on weather conditions. The start will be made at 9 a. m. Vessels must finish within nine hours. Entries will close at noon on Oct. 10.

The committee received today the entry of the Boston schooner Mayflower, which, after being selected originally as the American defender, was disbarred by the Canadian trustees of the championship trophy on the ground that she was an extreme type of vessel and as such was ineligible to compete. The application will be considered by the committee next week.

The committee chose as its chairman Captain George Peoples, president of the Master Mariners' association.

STOCK MARKET

The following is a complete report, giving high, low and closing quotations:

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Popular stocks, especially rails, were inclined to make further upward progress today, but the usual closing of weekly accounts together with heaviness of foreign oils exerted a restraining influence.

Royal Dutch declined almost 5 points, Mexican Petroleum 3 1/2 and General Asphalt 1 1/2. Sumatra Tobacco continued to weaken on its unfavorable financial showing. Rails were one to three points higher at their best but yielded generally all the gains in the final dealings. The Chicago domestic oil and obscure specialties made irregular gains. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 250,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $21,568,930 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $21,568,930 from last week.

FOR COMPLETE RETURN OF PEACE

Pres. Harding Discusses

Treaties In Letter to Sen. Lodge, Read Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—President Harding in a letter to Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, republican leader, read in the senate today when consideration of the treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary was begun, said the pact would put aside the last remnant of war relationship and bring a complete return to peace.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Indications are that the new treaties negotiated by the administration with Germany, Austria and Hungary will be speedily ratified by the senate, notwithstanding the opposition of Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, as a result of intimations from the White House.

NO FURTHER CONCESSIONS

British Minister Declares Government Has Nothing Else to Give Sinn Fein

"We Have Reached the End of Our Tether," He Says at Dundee, Scotland

Government "Profoundly Disappointed by Rejection of Dominion Rule"

DUNDEE, Scotland, Sept. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Winston Churchill, secretary for the colonies, in an address here today expressed himself as very much in favor of a conference on the Irish question. He felt there was a much better chance of an agreement being reached by personal interviews than by correspondence, he said, and it was because of this he was anxious for a conference, the only thing, he declared, which stood between the government and complete rupture of the Irish negotiations.

Eamon de Valera, Mr. Churchill said, had made it very doubtful whether there was a chance of a successful conference. "Willfully or else under duress," Mr. Churchill declared, Mr. de Valera had proclaimed that his delegates would attend as the representatives of a foreign state.

The government, the colonial secretary asserted, would not allow pedantry, hair-splitting or quibbling to stand in the way of peace, but when its fundamental principles were challenged, he declared, it was well to make it quite clear there could be no further concession on the part of the government.

Mr. Churchill warned his hearers that if the truce came to an end a war, more serious than heretofore, faced them in Ireland.

An attempt was made to break up the meeting before Mr. Churchill spoke. Anticipating trouble, mounted police were on duty all night. All the streets leading to the hall were guarded, but a procession of unemployed tried to break through the police line.

Mr. Churchill said the British government had gone to the utmost limit possible in its offer to the Sinn Fein and that if it was rejected the government had nothing else to give. "We have reached the end of our tether," he declared.

Mr. Churchill said the government was "profoundly disappointed by de Valera's rejection of the offer of Dominion home rule."

"Although Great Britain could unquestionably enforce the existing law upon Ireland," Mr. Churchill continued, "she none the less, is called upon to lay away the conviction that our countrymen will support the empire, as will the opinion of the civilized world."

The colonial secretary said the British government's offer was generous, sincere and unanimous and could be carried into effect immediately. Allegiance to the king, whether as king of Great Britain or of Ireland, must, however, be insisted upon, he declared.

Under Mr. Churchill's said, had made a real sacrifice and no longer was a stumbling block to the rest of Ireland.

DEFENDS FOREIGN BORN

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24.—Defending the Americanism of the foreign-born citizen, denouncing religious intolerance and pleading for help for an oppressed people of America, the senator said today that the use of English was not essential to Americanism.

The idea that a citizen could not be a good American because he could not speak English was attacked by Senator Walsh, who said: "A man who cannot speak a word of English can serve the American flag and die for it as well as the best English scholar in the country."

Senator Walsh dwelt at length on the benefits made by Catholics during the war, and referring to the idea that there is a relationship between a man's religion and his patriotism, said: "I cannot understand how there can be one relation of doubt about the loyalty of the Catholic American or of any other race, who is here and who worships God according to the dictates of his conscience. After men of all races and religions fought together and died together, I cannot understand how any man can dare ask another what his religion or race is."

Referring to the American negroes as "oppressed people," Senator Walsh made a strong appeal to members of the National Council of Catholic Men to do all in their power to befriend and aid the colored race.

He blamed the modern drift of education toward materialism as the fundamental cause of the present unrest.

BENJAMIN FINE IS OLD TIMER

Local Police Get Information From the State Department of Correction

Fine Was Once Granted a Governor's Pardon—Was Often Pardoned

Clothes Believed to Have Been Stolen Are Found In His Room

The belief of the local police that in the arrest of Benjamin Fine for the larceny of an automobile in this city last Monday they had apprehended a notorious character was sustained today when Deputy Superintendent of Police Downey received a communication from the state department of correction which told of Fine's record since he was first taken by the law, June 15, 1905. This information was the Lowell police at the deputy's request after a copy of the arrested man's finger prints had been forwarded to that department immediately following his arrest.

The investigation reveals that Fine served terms in state prison, the house of correction, and in a reformatory in Indiana. He also has an arrest having been arrested and convicted under the name "William A. Joyce" from 1905 to 1915, is shown by the letter.

Fine, who is now out on bail pending a hearing in the local district court, has served eight times for offenses involving larceny, breaking and entering, unlawful train riding, drunkenness and profanity.

His areas of criminal operation covered Boston, Buffalo, Blackwell, N. Y., Jeffersonville, Indiana, and Cambridge. To that list he has now added Lowell.

He was paroled in several instances and once was granted a governor's pardon. The correction department states that Fine had previously given his address as 4 Cordis street, Charlestown.

After being released on bail, he was arrested last Monday afternoon after he had crashed into an automobile belonging to Edwin M. Fuller, through a fence in Chelmsford, following a collision with a refuse wagon.

The auto had been taken from the market street station by Officer Small in Chelmsford.

When searched at the station Fine had a set of number plates owned by a Methuen auto dealer concealed beneath the back of his shirt and his coat, besides a large bunch of keys and blank operators' license applications. The next day police inspectors working on the case located a room on Market street occupied by Fine. Here they found a large assortment of men's clothes, chief among them about a dozen suits, several pairs of shoes, and which the police believe were stolen from clothing houses.

Some of the suits were still tagged and had the hangings usually left on the trousers bottoms to accommodate customers in shortening or lengthening the pants. The police are of the opinion the clothes were stolen in Boston.

The official record of the prisoner as furnished the local police by the state correction department follows:

Arrested June 15, 1905, as William A. Joyce, sentenced to five years in the house of correction from the superior court at Cambridge for breaking and entering. He was released on parole in 1905.

As William A. Joyce in November, 1905, he was sentenced at Jeffersonville, Indiana, to serve two years in the Indiana state reformatory for burglary. In 1915 he was pardoned by the governor.

He was sent to prison for six months for larceny from the Suffolk superior court in 1917 again under the alias William A. Joyce, and in 1918, under the same name was sentenced to the state prison for two and a half to three years for larceny, the case heard in the Middlesex superior court. Fine was released on parole from this sentence on last May 12.

The record shows arrests and convictions for minor offenses such as profanity, drunkenness and unlawfully riding on trains in Boston, Cambridge, Buffalo and Blackwell, N. Y. What offenses he received in these cases is not told.

THE POLICE are of the opinion that "Benjamin Fine" is an alias the accused man is going under and are making an effort to trace his real name. It may also be possible that his right name is William A. Joyce, by which he was known years ago, police authorities said today.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Fine of $150 for Violation of Dry Law—Moonshine Brought $1.50 a Pint

Unlawfully selling moonshine did not prove very profitable business with Joseph Ferreira, after all, for before Judge Enright in the district court this morning he was fined $150. The judge told the court that the defendant was selling the booze at $1.50 a pint, "a rather steep price for the stuff," commented Sergt. Winn. Ferreira had several plants on his person when arrested, police testified. The accused pleaded guilty and paid his fine.

After Judge Enright heard some of the testimony against Jean Scimoski of Lakeview avenue, charged with drunkenness, related by his wife, he ordered her to go to the clerk's office and have a warrant issued charging her husband with assault and battery. Later the charges against Scimoski were dropped and he was released.

Police testimony had Jos. J. Burke, who was charged with drunkenness, "hanging around" the new high school building at 1 o'clock this morning, and when the court could receive no good reason for Joseph's presence in the locality at that time gave him a three month suspended sentence to the house of correction, the probation officer to look after his welfare for a term of six months.

Dominick Gorzyka was also charged with drunkenness, but his case was filed.

Hessie Kenney, charged with a statutory offense, had to pay a $15 fine. Arthur Smith, who was charged with the same offense and who, according to testimony by the police vice squad, was arrested in the woman's company in a room in Middlesex street, was announced by the prosecution to be a young man, and the court session was adjourned for non-support.

Officer Conroy of the vice squad on the stand related the apprehension of the couple in a lodging room and of their removal to the station. "On parting," the police officer testified, "the woman kissed me and told him to keep up his courage."

Joseph Teller was ordered by the court to pay his wife $12 a week beginning the first of October and was put on probation for six months.

George F. Pearson was fined $10 for unlawfully fishing, on complaint of fish and game wardens. He was arrested at Chelmsford Sept. 17.

A number of old cases were continued again. A statutory offense against Alfred Chaput was put over until Nov. 24, a manslaughter charge against Frank W. Gilman to Oct. 11 and a charge of assault on a woman was continued to Sept. 23.

GUNMAN TOOK $4100 PAYROLL
Entered Express Office at Concord, N. H. and Forced Watchman to Open Safe

Police Report Several Companions Waited Outside Building In Auto

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 24.—An armed man took $4100 from the office of the American Express Co. early today after compelling the night watchman to open the safe. The police report that several companions waited outside the building in an automobile. The car was used to effect their escape. The money represented the payroll of local employees.

The local police were notified of the robbery by the Concord officials this morning. The New Hampshire authorities asked the local officers to be on the lookout for the bandit car.

RED FLAG OUT AT THE POLICE STATION
The red flag was up at the police station today for the first time in the history of the Market street building. The reason for the red flag was an auction and it was probably the most unique auction ever held in Lowell.

The auctioneer was Cornelius J. Quinn and he sold everything imaginable from empty bottles to dress suit cases, the contents of which were unknown. At least that's what Count said. "Don't open it here," said the lady auctioneer to a fellow who had purchased a dress suit case for $50.

TREATED RAPPE GIRL FOR INJURY

Hotel Doctor Says Actress Showed Symptoms of Internal Injury

Witness Says Arbuckle, Sherman and Mrs. Delmont Received Guests in Pajamas

Says There Was Much Liquor, Many Women and Considerable Music at Party

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Miss Virginia Rappe showed symptoms of an internal injury immediately after she was stricken, following the party in Roscoe Arbuckle's rooms, and whatever evidence there may have been of alcoholism was overshadowed by her injuries, declared Dr. Arthur Beardslee, house physician of the Hotel St. Francis in a statement made to Assistant District Attorney Milton U'Ren today. Dr. Beardslee treated Miss Rappe in the early stages of her illness.

Dr. Beardslee returned today from a hunting trip on which he started the day after the Arbuckle affair.

Third Day of Hearing
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—The preliminary hearing of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle on a charge of murdering Miss Virginia Rappe, entered its third day in the police court of Judge Sylvain J. Lazarus here today, with the prosecution still presenting its case against the film star.

Al Semmacher, business manager for Miss Rappe and guest at Arbuckle's party at the Hotel St. Francis, at which the girl is said to have suffered a fatal injury, was the principal witness at yesterday's court session. He had not concluded his testimony when the court adjourned for the day.

The party, Semmacher testified, was by no means a dull affair. There was much liquor, many women and considerable music from a phonograph rented by Arbuckle for his stay in San Francisco. Semmacher, while not absolutely sure, said that to the best of his recollection the pajama-clad celebrants at the party did some dancing.

Semmacher said that Arbuckle, Lowell Sherman and Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont received guests at the affair while attired in pajamas and declared considerable liquor was drunk by the participants.

Mrs. Delmont swore out the complaint charging murder.

The hearing today was scheduled to begin at 10:30 a. m.

ZERO TO APPEAL TO HARDING
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Urbain Ledoux, "Mr. Zero of the auction block," today announced he would go to Washington and appeal to President Harding to publish a list of war profiteers with the hope that they would split half of their earnings with destitute and unemployed war veterans.

The request will refer to those who made more than 100 per cent. profit. Ledoux said he would leave New York tomorrow night after a community sing for unemployed at Central Park and would seek an interview with President Harding and Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

"I shall give each of them meat tickets," he added, "and I may also take some human documents along with the hope of procuring an interview in the White House, where the president can hear from the bottom of the men's hearts, their story."

From Washington Ledoux plans to go to Buffalo to help unemployed lake seamen and then visit Chicago and probably St. Louis.

New York's unemployed women were summoned today to an afternoon mass meeting in Union square, at which plans will be discussed to relieve their hardships. The meeting is sponsored by a committee headed by Miss Jeannette Rankin of the Consumers' league, who insist all the concern for jobless persons should not be directed toward men.

Lowest Mortality Rate In This City In Nearly Five Years Was Recorded This Week

The lowest mortality rate to be recorded in Lowell in nearly five years was credited to this city during the week ending today, according to the weekly report of the health department. There were only 16 deaths in the past seven days. No other week since the one ending July 14, 1917, has produced such a low mortality. In that week there were 15 deaths.

Infant mortality was also low this week. There were only three deaths of children under one. A year ago this week there was a total of 36 deaths and 29 under one. Last week there were 24 deaths and the week before 29.

The excellent fall weather which the city has been enjoying lately is attributed as one of the big factors in the low mortality now prevailing here, health department officials say. Diphtheria caused two deaths this week. Among the infectious diseases reported were four cases of diphtheria, two of typhoid fever, eight of tuberculosis and one of sleeping sickness.

OMISSION OF STATE PRIMARIES PUTS QUIETUS ON POLITICS
Interest Now in Special Elections—Public Sentiment Favors Charter Change—Ward Representation Interests Young Men—The Mayorality Candidates

The omission of primary and election contests for state offices this year, in accordance with the new biennial election law, has served to delay the local political season later than usual. Ordinarily the state primaries would have come and gone by this time and the candidates for election in November would be engaged in their campaigns.

However, the impending elections on the acceptance or rejection of the proposed new charter and the question of municipal ownership of the gas plant are slowly but surely arousing the interest of Lowell voters, more especially the former referendum. The question of the gas plant is to be decided Tuesday, Oct. 11, two weeks from next Tuesday and then the charter question the following Tuesday, Oct. 18.

It is doubtful, even though a complete vote were registered at the gas plant election, that the project would go through to the voters. The general sentiment that the "undertaking is one too big for the municipality" to handle and handle efficiently. Investigations in other cities where municipal ownership of gas plants has been the rule have indicated failure in a majority of cases. There is little doubt but that the movement will result in an overwhelming vote favoring private ownership.

On the question of the new charter a much more lively and interesting battle will in all probability result, with the odds in favor of the adoption of the new document as prepared by the Lowell charter commission with amendments by the legislature. The demand for a change seems to be widespread. The "happy family" atmosphere, while pleasant enough for those within its charmed circle, most notably fails short of ideal municipal management. There is too much currying for one another's favor among the members of the municipal council too much cut and dried procedure at council meetings a la the days of the school committee before the war.

The adoption of the new charter will mean a revival of the lively ward fights of old times. One member of the municipal council is to be selected from each ward and six from the city at large. The new system will undoubtedly stir up interest among the younger voters of the city and will result in the injection of a lot of new blood into the city council.

IMPORTANT QUESTION MUST SETTLE CENTRAL BRIDGE QUESTION
City Solicitor to Decide Status of Teachers Elected Without Recommendation

That is the question which must soon be decided by representatives of the Engineering Service & Construction Co. and the engineering and law departments of the city of Lowell. The construction company has practically completed about one-third of the roadway reconstruction of the bridge. It has notified Mayor Thompson that as soon as that part of the structure is thrown open, it will close the rest of the bridge until the entire job is completed. It insists that it has the right to do this under the terms of its contract.

That will mean that there will be considerable congestion when all traffic of a vehicular nature, including street cars, automobiles and trucks, will be forced to travel over a narrow passageway ordinarily wide enough for but a single electric car.

It will possibly necessitate the employment of several traffic officers continually to keep traffic moving in but one direction at a time. Pedestrians will find no greater hardship awaiting them than that which they have endured all summer, when but one sidewalk was open to them and that in a deplorable condition. When the other part of the bridge is opened they will find a new concrete sidewalk there.

Mayor Thompson says that the city will refuse to allow the construction company to take such a step unless such employment is illegal. It is known that there have been quite a few teachers elected without the recommendation of the superintendent and naturally they are a bit worried about the outcome of the present investigation.

Mr. Regan has not yet had opportunity to give the matter close study and has given no intimation of what his opinion will be.

JAPANESE PROTEST TO CHINA ON CONTRACT
TOKYO, Sept. 24.—Japan will protest to China against the signing of a contract with the Federal Radio Co. of America for a wireless telegraph station at Shanghai. It is declared by Japanese papers here. This country will hold, it is said, that signing the contract would be in violation of a previous agreement between China and the Mitsui company, a Japanese concern.

THE GAGNON COMPANY

"Home of the Greatest Values" Is Celebrating Its Second Anniversary

The Gagnon company, one of Lowell's most up-to-date departments stores and known as "The Home of the Greatest Values," is today celebrating its second birthday as a mercantile establishment in the Spindle City, with a unique display of the latest fall and winter wearing apparel and wonderfully good values in the new clothing and ready-to-wear line. Styles are all late goods sold as low as the market will allow, and for this second anniversary sale there are offered a large number of extra money-saving sales on both floors and in the basement, which are attracting increasing attention.

As a result of the interest displayed yesterday and today in the big "Anniversary Sale" announcements in The Sun, President Gagnon announced today that the celebration will be extended into next week, with a special sale all day Monday in the basement and upper floor departments. The three-day sale will close Monday night.

President Gagnon believes in regular advertising for thorough results when endeavoring to move large quantities of goods. His present campaign in the newspapers has been a generous one, and today he expressed himself as highly satisfied with the extensive work accomplished by displaying the store bargains far and wide through the columns of the press.

As a result of the interest aroused by the anniversary announcements, plans are under way to enlarge many of the important store departments on all floors. The children's department on the second floor will be greatly increased in size, giving the company more room for the display of certain goods that have heretofore been exhibited "by sample." There will be an increased assortment of goods in the men's and boys' furnishings departments. In the women's wear section and in the departments dealing exclusively in leather goods and toilet goods.

The shoe department is offering a surprisingly attractive display of winter footwear for all members of the family and in ways that attract wide attention considering the quality of the goods on the shelves. The Gagnon company has begun extensive operations on the third floor of the building it occupies at the corner of Merrimack and Palmer streets. Carpenters are busily making over the entire floor, installing the company offices in the new space and thus making more room downstairs for the display of new goods. President Gagnon intends to have all of his office work done on the third floor, and the extensive alterations now under way will give the company a long needed addition to its housing space that all growing stores need in times of reconstruction.

The Gagnon store is proud of its record made during its short existence in Lowell, and prouder still of its extensive clientele that has so faithfully supported this up-to-date store in its endeavor to supply values of the money saving kind in offering honest goods of the more attractive sort to its patrons.

HOPEFUL OUTLOOK FOR NOT MAKING OUR EXPORT TRADE

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Emphatic denunciation of dismal stories from supposedly well informed business experts regarding the utter collapse of American export trade, and hopeless future of the industry, particularly for manufacturers, because of demoralized banking and transportation facilities, supplemented by strangling European competition, characterized the first public address of Dr. Julius Klein since his appointment by Herbert Hoover as director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. He spoke last night before about 1000 prominent exporters called together by the Boston Export Round Table.

He said: "The absurdity of these opinions is becoming more and more evident every day. They are simply one phase of the panic which has swept through some of our export communities, especially those in which the so-called war-baby houses had been flourishing." The director declared: "That the loudest complaints had emanated from the thousands of opportunistic adventurers who appeared on all sides during the war boom and drifted into foreign trade as just one more field for chance enterprise. We can and will hold our own in these markets and trades in which we have a real abiding interest. The sober, substantial elements among our exporters have never lost faith. They have cleared away the fantastic debris of the recent hectic past, and are now laying the foundation for a substantial and lasting structure. One thing is sure," said Dr. Klein, "and that is that the ground-work of our export interests has not been laid bare to rock-bottom. The past few months of anxiety have certainly been a trial by fire, but these months have emphatically not revealed any inherent weakness in our foreign trade efforts and ambitions. In spite of the alarmist reports and propaganda of many who unintentionally or otherwise are retarding our recovery from the present slump."

ANTI-BEER BILL AGAIN BLOCKED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The senate after a continuous session of nearly eight hours adjourned last night, with the prospect that further consideration of the anti-beer bill would go over for several weeks. Opponents of the measure in the face of a night session forced by dry leaders, were successful in their obstructive tactics. Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, in charge of the measure, finally moving an adjournment. The opposition was led by Senator Stanley, democrat, Kentucky, who in a speech of six hours argued for the maintenance of constitutional safeguards by requiring warrants for search and seizure under the prohibition enforcement act. Through a point of order made by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the effort of dry leaders to gain a recess for dinner was defeated, and after an hour and a half of attempts to muster the necessary majority in answer to quorum calls, the futile proponents of the bill surrendered.

NOT MAKING 300 PER CENT

Druggists Object to Statement By License Commissioner

McGrath Said That Druggists Make 300 Per Cent Profit On Whiskey

They Say Liquor Business Is a Bother-Objection Taken to Editorial

Members of the Lowell Pharmaceutical association, consisting of practically all the Lowell druggists, at a meeting held late yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the chamber of commerce took unanimous exception to the statement of License Commissioner Joseph F. McGrath, that the druggists are charging exorbitant prices for liquors which they dispense for medicinal purposes. They also took exception to the tone of editorial comment on the matter by a local morning paper. Before the meeting adjourned the following statement, signed by the officers of the association, was approved:

"With no desire on the part of the druggists of this city to enter into a controversy with the Lowell license commission, or with any member thereof, but with due regard for justice and fair play, we most emphatically desire to refute the statement made by Commissioner McGrath, in the local papers, pertaining to the dispensing of liquors, under the federal permit, and the prices charged therefor, and the tone of the editorial comment as printed in a local morning paper."

"Either through misinformation or mistaken impressions on their part, they would have it appear that the local dealers are charging exorbitant prices—in quotes are purchasing liquor at $6 per gallon and selling at $3 per pint, or about 300 per cent profit. 'Nothing could be farther from the truth; with an average price paid by the dealers of $10 to $15 a gallon (and not $6 as charged in the statement), or an average cost of $1.50 per pint, together with expenses of transportation, usually the most important item, as the supplies of bonded liquors are shipped at great distances—from New Jersey, Maryland, Kentucky, Ohio and other distant distilleries, and with other overhead expenses considered—the average retail price of $3.50 to $4, not only will not show 300 per cent profit, but will severely figure 1-10 of that amount, or not more than 30 to 35 per cent."

"In addition to this actual cost, a federal yearly tax of $25 is required for the privilege of dispensing liquors on a federal permit under the Volstead law, which, together with several state taxes, local licenses and other expenses, bring the yearly expense close to $100."

"The restrictions and regulations pertaining to the dispensing of liquors under the United States federal permit are burdensome, expensive and entail an endless amount of detail, and the diverting of much valuable time from regular routine of business, in the keeping of voluminous records and the submission of intricate monthly reports. The violations of any of its provisions subject the dealer not only to a forfeiture of his permit but to the liability of heavy fines and imprisonment. Much capital is made in the commissioner's statement of the fact that the patient is required to pay the physician's fee for the liquor prescription, but this requirement of the Volstead law has nothing to do with the druggist's side of the question, and is in fact a requirement imposed upon the patient by the government regulations."

"This valuable (?) privilege enjoyed by the retail pharmacists has not only not been sought for but has been objected to, year after year, by the drug trade."

"The national association of 50,000 retail druggists has gone on record every year since the advent of prohibition as opposed to the saddling of the handling of liquors on the profession of pharmacy, and offered 'most strenuous objection thereto before the congressional committee examining the present Volstead law, and advocating the establishment of national dispensaries under government control as the proper method of dispensing liquor medicinally."

"The Massachusetts State Pharmaceutical association of more than 2000 of the representative druggists of this state have also voted two years in succession at their annual mid-winter legislative meeting their opposition to the handling of liquor by retail druggists and the legislative committee representing the association voiced their opposition for three consecutive years before the committee on public health of the Massachusetts legislature. Yet, notwithstanding this attitude on this question, both the federal and the state governments have assigned this privilege (?) to the joint professions of medicine and pharmacy, no doubt as the most reliable, fair dealing and trustworthy method of handling a troublesome problem."

"How desirable this privilege is considered is most clearly demonstrated by the fact that 27 months after the Volstead law became effective this privilege (?) is only now being sought by the applicants, being considered at the present time by the licensing board."

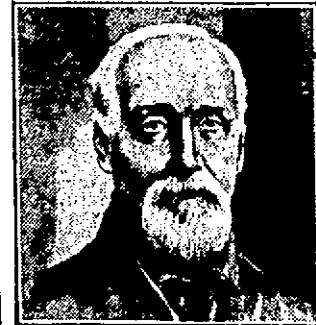

"The fact that the state board of pharmacy recently refused to grant the necessary certificate of fitness for a permit to dispense liquors to an applicant to whom the local licensing board was about to grant a license, because by the laws of the state board said applicant was not properly equipped or entitled thereto, surely can have nothing to do with this unwarranted tirade against the druggists of this city."

CHERRY AND WEBB STORE

A large and varied assortment of fall models in women's suits, dresses, coats, skirts, waists and everything else in the feminine line marks the fall opening sale at Cherry and Webb, 12-18 John street. A ten per cent discount is offered on all purchases made during this sale. The elaborate displays show a varied collection of dresses, styles directly from Paris in Canton Crepes and Tricotees, rich gowns, plain or handsomely embroidered, fall coats, Ermine or Polyanas models, with luxurious fur collars, rich sweaters, and waists of every description. Included in the latter category are the latest cap styles from Paris, just now the rage with American women. A large variety of sport coats, polo, two-tone woollens and chinchilla, is also on exhibition at the handsomely arranged store.

The store presents a very attractive appearance from the outside, the windows being tastefully decorated with models of the latest styles in all articles of feminine wear.

The low prices shown in the window displays are bound to bring many would-be purchasers inside the store as few similar establishments in the city are offering the line of fall wear that is before the public at Cherry and Webb's during this sale.

Mindful of the business depression and realizing that buyers of wearing apparel today are looking for those things that will set their pocketbook back, the least, the management of this store has chosen a varied selection of articles to be placed before the public that is really worthy of the strictest examination by the person unable to spend much for autumn clothes, at the same time receiving articles that are high in quality and characteristic of the reputable name of Cherry and Webb.

To combine quality with low prices has been the policy of this store and again during this sale it is the keynote sounded by the management.

In presenting to the critical army of Lowell women shoppers a large display of suits, dresses, coats and waists, in styles exclusively brought to this city from Paris, considerable expense has been encountered. However, as was stated at the store yesterday, that is of minimum importance in their mind if the shoppers of Lowell are as appreciative during this sale as they have been in the past and co-operate with the efforts and services given the public by this popular clothing house.

A general glance at the inside of the store, on the three spacious floors, will convince the most critical shopper that Cherry and Webb are striving to the fullest of their power to offer to Lowell women clothes of cut and class within a limited range of prices.

Besides reducing the prices on all goods offered, the ten per cent discount given on all purchases during the sale is a strong inducement to bargain hunters who are out to buy goods that are real goods at real reasonable prices.

SEN. HARRISON MAPPED OUT NEW PROGRAM FOR CONGRESS

"More Work and Less Talk, More Deeds and Fewer Promises"—Penrose Failed by Spirit Undaunted—Movement to Clean up the Movies

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24.—It was a case of "body home" when Congress reconvened on Wednesday. Scarcely a dozen members of Congress gathered in the big hall of the house when the clock struck 11. Speaker Gillett is extending his vacation until the first of October when the "gentleman's agreement" not to transact business that calls for a quorum shall have expired. In his absence Congressman Walsh of the New Bedford district sat as speaker of the house, thus keeping the leadership within the borders of the state of Massachusetts. Mr. Walsh is an excellent presiding officer but today his duties did not extend beyond calling the house to order and adjourning it until Saturday, when the same performance will be repeated. Regular business of the house is fixed to begin some time between the first and sixth day of October, by which time the men will have reassembled here and committees now working on pending bills will be prepared to submit them to the house.

Senator Harrison's Onslaught

Over in the senate the scene of reconvening was a little more animated and the feature of the occasion was a snappy speech made by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who assailed the republican party as a whole, and the republican members of the senate in particular, for what he deemed as the most dilatory and inefficient methods ever known in congressional history. "The country wants more work and less talk—more deeds and fewer promises," roared the tall Mississippiian as he glared at Senator Lodge, who sat just across the aisle, his head resting on his hand and apparently lost in thought as to how he might hit back at Senator Pat when the time comes. The senior senator from Massachusetts squirmed in his seat as Mr. Harrison remarked he hoped the republican chairman of the senate committee would be as anxious to bring about good results from the so-called disarmament conference as is Senator Underwood, the democratic floor leader of the senate, and named by President Harding as a member of the American delegation. Then followed an eloquent eulogy of Mr. Underwood, who had up to that minute been sitting beside Mr. Harrison in the front row on the democratic side of the senate. But Mr. Underwood was evidently forewarned of what was coming for he slipped out of his seat and vanished through the door of the cloak room just as the Mississippi orator began to sing his praises. As Mr. Underwood is a genuine favorite among republican leaders and enjoys their warm friendship, not one of the opposition party broke in to dispute the claims made for his ability, or tried to drag him down from the high pedestal on which Mr. Harrison had placed him.

Penrose Like a Shadow

Senator Penrose looked like a shadow of his former self, as he rose to announce the filing of the taxation bill. His huge frame is now covered with sagging flesh; his face is pale and drawn, but the old spirit of defiance and the determination to retain leadership is not one bit abated. Pennsylvania's republican boss won't yield to anyone, as long as he has a leg to stand on. If his method and manners of today are anything to judge by.

Senator Walsh at Home

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts in his home state campaigning for the congressional for the sixth district, and the word has gone forth here that if the seat left vacant by Mr. Lusk is to be filled by a republican, it will be only after one of the hardest fought battles in the Bay state. Democrats are very hopeful that they will gain a seat in the house through the appointment of Mr. Lusk as collector of the port of Boston. Several of the best speakers obtainable from republican ranks in the house have been commended into service and will rush from Washington this week to speak in the sixth district.

Armistice Day

Women connected with various organizations are jubilant over the decision of President Harding to set apart as a holiday Nov. 11 of this year, when the conference on limitation of armament opens. The women believe that it was owing to their untiring efforts that the president decided to advise the churches of the country to throw open their doors on that day and have read a message calling attention to the importance and significance of the conference.

Had a Hot Summer

With the mercury still running high in the thermometer and while women have not been called in, and the opening of the senate found many men in white duck or woolen, vestless and wearing white canvas shoes. The summer has been one of such excessive heat and humidity that even Washingtonians, who can usually hold their own in a debate as to the "hellish climate," etc., with a typical Californian, now wag their heads and reluctantly admit the heat was intolerable and of a quality that admitted no excuse.

Want Movies Cleaned Up

The National Catholic Welfare council has come out forcefully during its session here for a clean-up of movie films. Mr. McMahon, editor of the Bulletin, stated that Catholics are taking a lead in the effort to make the movies clean and attractive. "We are not in sympathy with red laws or blue laws," said he, "but we want observance of the white law of decency." Mr. McMahon went on to say that while he does not believe the Americanization process should be compulsory, he believes that the motion pictures can do much in the way of education and patriotic stimulus.

The only action taken by a Massachusetts member of congress on the opening day was that of Congressman Peter Taggart, Boston, democrat, who introduced a bill urging congress to investigate the Ku Klux Klan activities.

AMERICAN HIERARCHY URGES IRISH PEACE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (by the Associated Press).—The letter sent by the Catholic hierarchy at its meeting here Thursday to Cardinal Maguire at Belfast was made public yesterday as follows:

"Your Eminence: In this solemn and portentous hour of Ireland's history, we, the bishops of the United States gathered in annual conference, feel it a duty incumbent on us to extend to Your Eminence and your brethren of the Irish hierarchy, the assurance of our sympathy, our prayers and our united good wishes for the happy outcome of the conference in which the representatives of your people are now engaged.

"Particularly at this time we are not unmindful of the tremendous debt the church in this country owes to Ireland and its people. For more than a century the millions of your race have labored in the shores and by their strong faith and their loyal and generous help, they have built up a church which has become the pride of Christendom and the glory of the country in which we dwell.

"And even though they have become Americans, faithful to the flag under which they dwell, time has never been able to extinguish in their souls the love they bore to the land of their fathers, to the little island from which they parted as exiles, destined never to return.

"And particularly during these recent years, with anxious and expectant hearts, we have watched the trend of events, and hoped that Providence, in its wisdom, might ordain that at last Ireland was to take its place among the nations of the earth.

"And indeed, during these latter weeks their hearts were filled with pride when they saw the representatives of their race conducting with a statesmanship that has challenged the admiration of the world.

"Therefore, in this fateful hour when the future of Ireland trembles in the balance, it is not our desire Your Eminence, by any word of ours to part with the outcome of those deliberations upon which a world waits with bated breath. Rather, in the true spirit of our holy faith, united with our people from every race and every station, our prayers ascend from every altar in the land that God in His wisdom may bring Ireland's misery or gloom to an end, that this most apostolic race among all of God's peoples may receive the reward for what they have done for the church of America, and elsewhere by obtaining the fulfillment of their national aspirations.

"And finally, that God may grant you and your colleagues to live to see their golden age, and find your people even more faithful to their church in the suburbs of their freedom than ever they were in the years of their exile and expectancy.

"Your Eminence's devoted servants in Christ.

The Archbishops and Bishops of the United States."

DRY CHIEF REFUSES TO RETURN LIQUOR

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Elmer C. Potter, federal prohibition director, has refused to obey an order of United States Commissioner in Boston, according to a petition asking that he be adjudged in contempt filed in the federal court yesterday. Judge Morton is also asked to compel Director Potter to carry out the mandate of the commission.

The petition, which was filed by ex-Assistant United States Attorney Daniel A. Shea, as counsel for the Federal Drug company of Roxbury, recites that on August 20 a search warrant was granted by the commissioner to prohibition officers to enter the drug store and search for certain liquors. The liquor was seized and Francis J. Connelley, president of the company, and his brother, George P. Connelley, were charged with having the liquors unlawfully in their possession. After a hearing, however, when it was shown the drug company had a government permit to hold the liquors, the defendants were discharged and an order signed directing the prohibition men to return the liquor.

The petition states further that Director Potter has refused to return the goods, on the ground that the commissioner has no power to order its return.

FINAL ARGUMENTS IN CHICAGO LIBEL SUIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The final arguments on the matter filed by the Chicago Tribune against the city of Chicago's $10,000,000 libel suit were to be heard before Judge Harry M. Fisher today in circuit court.

According to a comment at the close of court yesterday by Judge Fisher, the outcome will hinge largely upon whether the city, in the present suit, is to be treated as acting in its governmental or corporate capacity.

The suit alleges damages of $10,000,000 because the Tribune in its campaign of 1920, stated that the city was "broken." Attorneys for the paper filed a demurrer and argued that upholding of the suit would abridge the right of free speech. The city counsel have countered this with a declaration that the right of free speech carries no right to tell malicious lies.

Governor Not Likely to Call Special Session of the Legislature

Special Session Suggested to Deal With the Unemployment Problem

(Special to The Sun) BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Governor Cox is not likely to accede to the suggestion, already made from several sources, that he call a special session of the legislature to deal with the "unemployment problem."

In just what respect the legislature might contribute to a solution of the problem has not yet been made to appear. Presumably those sponsoring the suggestion contemplate that the legislature might appropriate a few millions of dollars to be expended for various public works, such as new roads, new buildings, etc. Perhaps some of those entertaining such notions sincerely believe the idea would add to the sum total of human happiness in Massachusetts, and while it might have a temporary tendency to ease the situation, it would soon be found to be in the nature of the proverbial remedy which is worse than the disease.

The real, underlying cause of existing "hard times," if such they may properly be called, is extravagance, both private and public. Individuals find their bank accounts—or in the case of the less fortunate, their cash in hand—at low ebb because in the days of plenty during the war they failed to practice thrift, and even worse, acquired expensive tastes which they now find difficult to forego. Governments, also, both state and local, have for years gone on the policy that it was perfectly proper to spend every cent the taxpayers would contribute without rebelling to the extent of putting the opposing party in power.

Consequently we have tax rates far higher than are necessary to meet the real necessities of government, yet which almost annually mount to new heights. Now it is seriously suggested by some that the state should impose additional burdens upon its citizens in order to provide work for men who are unable, or unwilling, to find it for themselves.

A great many who have investigated the unemployment situation so far as it exists in Boston, at least, have come to the conclusion that in a vast number of cases the unemployed state of the individual is due to his unwillingness to take work that is offered him. Too many seek a position, rather than a job. Boston newspapers continue to carry columns of advertisements for help, offering employment attractive and comparatively lucrative, but because the stipend fails to meet the exaggerated ideas of some of the "unemployed," they prefer to walk the streets and demand aid from the legislature.

Happily, however, the governor is fully informed as to the real situation existing, and is not to be stampeded into calling a legislative session which would serve no permanently useful purpose. To be sure, it would afford the senators and representatives an opportunity to vote themselves additional salaries, to the amount of probably $300 each, which with other expenses incidental to a legislative session would bring its aggregate cost to at least $100,000. The chief executive, however, realizes that this price is too great even for the temporary relief which might be afforded.

WOMEN WHO CANNOT WORK

Read Mrs. Corley's Letter and Benefit by Her Experience

Edmund, S.C.—"I was run down with nervousness and male trouble and suffered every month. I was not able to do any work and tried a lot of medicine, but got no relief. I saw your medicine advertised in a little book that was thrown in my door, and I had not taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I could see it was helping me. I am keeping house now and am able to do all my work. I cannot say enough for your medicine. It has done more for me than any doctor. I have not paper enough to tell you how much it has done for me and for my friends. You may print this letter if you wish."

ELIZABETH C. CORLEY, care of A. P. Corley, Edmund, S.C. Ability to stand the strain of work is the privilege of the strong and healthy, but how our hearts ache for the weak and sickly women struggling with their daily rounds of household duties, with backaches, headaches, nervousness and almost every movement brings a new pain. Why will not the mass of letters from women all over this country, which we have been publishing, convince such women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help them just as surely as it did Mrs. Corley?

THE TOILERS IN LOWELL

Of Total 35,744 Were Males and 18,257 Females—Other Figures

The bureau of census, department of commerce, has issued preliminary general occupation statistics for Lowell, which, though subject to change, are probably approximately correct. The number of persons engaged in each particular occupation will probably not be announced until the tabulation of the occupation data, now in progress, has been completed. This will be about July 1, 1922.

According to the returns of the fourteenth census, there were 54,001 persons 10 years of age and over in Lowell engaged in gainful occupations in 1920, constituting 47.9 per cent. of the total population of the city (112,769) and 67.7 per cent. of the population 10 years of age and over. In 1910, the 53,093 gainful workers were 50.0 per cent. of the total population of the city and 64.4 per cent. of the population 10 years of age and over.

Of the gainful workers of Lowell in 1920, 35,744, or 66.3 per cent. were males and 18,257, or 33.7 per cent. were females. The male gainful workers constituted 52.5 per cent. of all males 10 years of age and over in 1920, as against 52.3 per cent. in 1910, while the female workers constituted 35.7 per cent. of all female 10 years of age and over in 1920, as against 35.6 per cent. in 1910.

Of the gainful workers of Lowell in 1920, 36,365, or 67.3 per cent. were engaged in manufacturing and mechanical industries; 55.9, or 4.3 per cent. in transportation; 51.8, or 0.6 per cent. in trade; 105.3, or 0.2 per cent. in public service; 215.0, or 0.4 per cent. in professional service; 300.2, or 0.5 per cent. in domestic and personal service; 337.6, or 0.6 per cent. in clerical occupations; and 295, or 0.6 per cent. in all other occupations.

25. VESSELS IN PERIL BY FIRE AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—There was considerable excitement at the army supply base, South Boston, yesterday afternoon at 4:30, when a stubborn fire broke out on a passenger steamer, the William T. Brown, tied up at the base with more than 25 other craft of various sizes. The flames raged from wheelhouse to stern, endangering the other craft tied up there.

Practically all the boats have been tied up for more than a year and none had steam enough to be taken out of the danger zone.

A passerby on Summer street extension saw the flames shooting from the rear of the wheelhouse and sent an alarm from box 7123, outside the army supply base. This brought the Boston fire department. The army base fire department also responded.

Before either department arrived several persons jumped on the burning craft and cut her loose from the Gen. Robert E. Anderson, another boat of the same design.

The burning craft drifted toward the Edison Illuminating plant on Summer street extension, where thousands of tons of coal are stored.

This caused alarm at the Edison plant and plant box 7234 was sounded, acting as a second alarm. Engine 1 was sent from Summer street to the Edison plant.

The flames leaped high from the Gen. Brown, and the firemen were watching from the shore but could not reach the flames. Chief Calne ordered two fire boats to the scene.

Thousands of people watched the firemen subdue the flames. The rumor that an extra supply of gasoline was aboard the burning boat added to the excitement. The craft did not sink.

The Gen. Brown has been tied up at the base for more than a year. When last used, the craft carried supplies and troops to the harbor forts. The damage was placed at $15,000.

CONNOLLY BOY GAINING The condition of John Connolly, 15 years old boy of 181 Agawam street who is in St. John's hospital with a fractured skull the result of a collision with an automobile yesterday is reported as improving. While the boy put in a comfortable night his name is still on the dangerous list. Physicians are a bit more hopeful of his recovery as he seems to grow stronger each hour.

Denver Municipal Camp Ground Provides All Conveniences for Gypsies

BY N. E. A. SERVICE

DENVER, Sept. 24.—Modern motor gypsies find that life at the municipal camp ground here cannot be described as "roughing it."

The grounds are equipped with all conveniences of a first-class hotel. Here are some of the features which make camping in Denver a luxury: A mammoth clubhouse, suggestive of a country club, with a restaurant, pool room, barber shop, soda fountain and hot and cold showers for men and women.

The largest dance hall in the west, with an 8-piece orchestra, where campers may dance for six cents a couple.

A steam table, where hot food to be eaten around the campfire may be bought.

An 8-tub electric laundry, electric irons, and 42 sanitary lavatories.

A completely equipped children's playground, a tennis court, a race track and three baseball diamonds.

An automobile repair shop, a filling station, a vulcanizing shop and a battery service station.

Police guard is maintained day and night, attendants are on duty in the clubhouse, and a road information bureau has two experts at the visitors' service.

Ten thousand cars, bearing more than 37,000 passengers, visited the grounds this season. The grounds contain 160 acres and will accommodate twice as many persons as have used it yet.

Thomas Cox, lessee of the shops, is under heavy bond not to profane.

BEATING THE ENGINE TO THE CROSSING

Every few days we read of an auto driver who tries to beat a railroad engine to the crossing—the car is struck and a whole family is killed or injured.

The chances are always against the driver.

There is just one safe way: When you approach a crossing where there is not an unobstructed view of the track in both directions, you should bring your car to a full stop and "look and listen." If no train is approaching, then hurry across.

When you have waited for a train to pass, do not cross until you make sure there is no train on the other track; many people have been killed because they did not take this precaution.

Remember it is impossible for an engineer to stop his train in time to prevent an accident. An automobile is involved in 70 per cent. of all accidents at railroad crossings.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents.)

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Will Cressy and Blanche Dayne in "Without a Will There's a Way." Next Week—Good Sunday Bill.

There's a splendid bill, with music and comedy and instrumental delights thrown in, at the B. F. Keith theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening. The new Raymond Wylie and Marie Hartman are going to give their version of what happens before, and then contrast it with what sometimes comes afterwards. Foley and Leture will give their classy turn, and Helena Moretti, the little girl with the big voice, and Cooper and Lane, singers, will also be on the bill. Three new acts for the day only have also been engaged. They are: Mildred Parker, O'Neill and Earle and the Harmony Duo.

One of the best loved men in all vaudeville, incidentally one of the very cleverest, and a woman who has endeared herself to thousands through her playing of homely characters, will be the big double attraction at the theatre, next week. They are Will Cressy and Blanche Dayne, and they are going to give Mr. Cressy's new playlet, "Without a Will There's a Way." Nobody could write a play like this but Will Cressy, and having written it, nobody could play the principal character but him. It's a tribute to the old "Cy Prime" of "The Old Homestead" to say that there isn't a man on the vaudeville boards of this broad land who can command as great general attention as he can. It is true, because his characters are decidedly human, and yet tinged with a humorous philosophy that is simply irresistible. Miss Dayne is scarcely less known than Mr. Cressy. Together they make an unbeatable pair.

The remainder of the bill will be right up to snuff, with Joe Darcey, the singing song writer, tucking in some of his resplendent melodious Quincey has a deft comedy touch to his work which is at once recognized, and few men are capable of switching from the grave to the gay with such grace as he.

An offering original in conception, novel in theme and most ably presented.

OPERA HOUSE

All Love May Be a Bit Dangerous But in Order to Know the Genuine See the Play

"Dangerous Love," a play of today in three acts, by Charles E. Blaney and Norman Houston, which is to be the coming week's presentation by the new Lowell Players at the Opera House, is one of the most absorbing dramatic plays of years, the kind that appeals to all women, and is filled with love, mystery and thrills. It's the kind of a play you will want to see a second time. It's local production will be under the personal guidance of John Ravold, who supervised the original production at the Republic theatre, N. Y., a few seasons back. Mr. Ravold promises a finished presentation here and his word should carry assurance with it that it will be genuinely satisfying. Ladies' special two seats for one price tickets will be placed for Monday night's performance only.

Once in a great while comes a play of extraordinary theme. Daring in its delineation of character and in baring the hidden secrets that all women keep locked up within their hearts. Such a play is "Dangerous Love," and in presenting it the coming week, Owner Schenke is offering a brand new production, which has enjoyed unusual success in the larger cities of the east, particularly New York, Boston and Chicago. The plot is novel, highly entertaining and is bound to satisfy the most discriminating theatregoers. Miss Graydon Scott will be seen in an unusual dramatic role, while Mr. Howard will be cast as a man who loses his memory as the result of a shrapnel wound received in the recent great war. To reveal the story, even in part, would spoil the pleasure for audiences during the week's run. But if you were a woman you might find yourself in Fern Armstrong's place, and called upon by the hospital authorities to play the part of John Delee's first wife, to bring the belief of the physicians that your consent might result in restoring your sweetheart's memory. Such a problem was placed before the young woman and she reached her decision after careful and long-drawn-out thought. See what she does. It will move you, and you'll have to admit that it's dangerous.

Miss Scott should have ample opportunity to indicate the dramatic ability credit to her, while Wm. D. Howard will surely demonstrate his exceptional skill in a role that demands a big, careful and clever characterization. The others of the cast will be pleasingly assigned.

Tickets for the coming week's performance are selling fast. To be on the safe side you should make your reservations at once and avoid possible disappointment. Tel. 261, or call at the Prince-Walter Bungalow Shop. The way to do is place your name on the subscription list.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING PLANTS

With the special election on the municipal gas petition but a couple of weeks away, very little interest is manifested in the proposition. Nevertheless, the friends of the change will go to the polls in force and those who are opposed to granting the petition will have to get out in numbers if they expect to bury the proposition and thus save the city from additional trouble and expense.

The Merchants' Association of New York in 1919 published a list of 277 cities and towns which after a trial of municipal ownership and operation of electric lighting plants had ceased in whole or in part to operate the plants. In practically all of these cases municipal operation was undertaken so that the community might obtain electric service at a lower cost than it could obtain it from private companies.

Experience has demonstrated that in this they were mistaken. The Sun a few days ago gave a list of a dozen municipalities which undertook to manufacture gas for local consumers. Their experiences were equally expensive and the enterprises for that reason were abandoned.

Some people may wonder why this should be so. But it is an ineradicable difference between the methods of conducting a city's business and that of a private concern. The principles that govern political action and those that govern economic action are fundamentally different and cannot be reconciled. The private corporation is controlled by an executive who has large authority, whereas in a municipality the power of the executive is limited and politics thwarts the course of business. That is practically the explanation of the numerous failures of municipal ownership of public utilities.

It applies equally to gas plants, electric lighting plants and street railway service.

HARRISON IS RIGHT

We also to remark that Senator Harrison was fully justified in criticizing the republicans of congress for delay in the transaction of business when he found but a handful of members present on the date of reassembling last Wednesday. He voiced some solid and sensible advice which, if followed by the republicans, will help them overcome the present business depression. "More work and less talk, more deeds and fewer empty promises" was the plan of action laid down by Senator Harrison. Of course it wasn't pleasant to the republicans to hear their failures exposed in a manner that was all the more severe because unanswerable as to the facts.

It is certainly true that the republicans have wasted a great deal of time and accomplished very little in dealing with the great questions of reconstruction.

Senator Harrison is right; it is time for the republicans to get down to business and settle the vital questions on which hangs the return of better times.

Nero fiddled while Rome burned; and while we do not want to be ultra critical, yet it must be said that the republican party seems to have lost its old-time capacity for business. It has wrangled while the country idly waited.

Every good citizen, of course, wants to give President Harding a chance to study out the great questions before him; but he is woefully slow in reaching conclusions, and as a result his executive ability is below par.

The president has recently spoken in favor of the Penrose bill to give Secretary Mellon arbitrary power in dealing as he pleases with the refunding of the $100,000,000 of foreign loans, of which the interest has long since been defaulted. He has also praised the "War Finance Corporation," a measure intended to help revive business but which disappointed the farmers and threw $50,000,000 to the railroads. This and the budget bill practically sums up the work accomplished by the administration in the first six months of its effort. Is it any wonder that Senator Harrison let go his pent-up wrath?

CIVIL WAR VETERANS

The Grand Army of the Republic holds its annual reunion in Indianapolis, Sept. 25 to 29.

Later, in October, the United Confederate Veterans gather at Chattanooga.

It is tragic that these people will be the last remnants of the Boys in Blue and Boys in Gray. Old age is sounding bells.

The average age of the soldiers of the northern army during the Civil war was 23. In the south it was lower. Fifty-six years have passed since Lee surrendered at Appomattox. So the age of Civil war veterans must average 50 years.

The G.A.R. was organized in 1866 with all the vigor and enthusiasm of the American Legion. In 1899 it reached its peak membership of 414,459. In 1917 only 135,531 members remained alive. Now they have dwindled to less than 83,000.

The Boys in Blue are passing on their march into eternity, at so rapid a pace that nine years hence the last one may be gone. That will be a sorry sight for a military army that had 2,572,000 enlistments and re-enlistments.

The United Confederate Veterans have dwindled to a membership of only 45,000—all that is left of the Confederate army of 4,500,000, an army so valorous and efficient that it outnumbered superior forces only after four years of conflict and suffering. As the nation honors the Boys in Blue and the Boys in Gray, it must be a comforting satisfaction for the old soldiers to look about at the powerful

The Human Press

Mr. Featherly weighs over 200 pounds and is sensitive about it. He was calling on a friend the other evening when she said naively: "O, Mr. Featherly, would you just as soon sit in this easy chair as in that rocker?" "Certainly," replied Featherly, as he changed from one chair to the other, with your head, eh?"

"O, thanks," she murmured, "you are very kind. I have a book full of fern leaves under the cushion of that easy chair, and you—" "Good night!" said Featherly stiffly as he walked away, never to return.

His "Week-End"

"The late Champ Clark," said a Chicagoan, "was an out-and-out American. He hated all kinds of affectations and airs. He wouldn't let you call a sitting room a living room, or a silk hat a topper, or a shoe store a boot shop. Got what I mean? I ran across Champ Clark one Sunday afternoon on the boardwalk at Atlantic City. 'Hello, boy, what you doing down here?' he asked me in his heavy way. 'I'm down here for my week-end,' said I. Champ gave a snort. 'O, he said, 'something wrong with your head, eh?'"

Lawyer Squeezed

A railway employee was in the witness box, and was being cross-examined by a very self-important young lawyer about a case which had resulted in a damage suit as the consequence of an accident on the railroad. "You say that you saw this man fall from the train?" said the lawyer. "I saw him fall, yes," replied the railway man. "Yet it was night time," insisted the lawyer. "And you were at the end of the train and the man was at the other, you expect an intelligent jury to believe such a yarn? How far can you see at night?" "About a million miles, I think," replied the railway man. "I can see the moon. How far is that?" The lawyer retired.

When to Breathe

The modern ideas on education are all very well so far as they go, but there is an old and well-remembered proverb which says that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. Perhaps that is why Johnny Jones' essay on air ran like this: "Breath is made of air. We breathe always with our lungs, except at night, when our breath keeps life going through our noses while we are asleep. It isn't for our breath that we should die whenever we sleep. Boys that stay in a room all day should not breathe. They should wait until they get outdoors. A lot of boys staying in room make carbonic oxide, and carbonic oxide is more poisonous than mud dogs, though not just in the same way. It does not bite, but that's no matter so long as it kills you."

AN ATTRACTIVE DISPLAY

Admirably Depict Spirit of Autumn

One of the prettiest displays of the many prepared by Lowell merchants to mark the coming of the fall season is that on exhibition in the windows of the J. L. Chalifoux Co. at the corner of Merrimack and State streets. The spirit of autumn is admirably depicted in the artistic blending of color and the pleasing arrangement of accessories at this well known department store. During the past few days it has proved a treat for the eyes of hundreds of passers-by, all of whom have been lavish in their expressions of admiration and praise.

The Halloween colors, orange and black, have been used to excellent advantage by Joseph H. Martin, display manager, and Alphon Johnson, his assistant, in the decoration of the many windows which go to make up the Chalifoux store front. These two colors alone form the background for an excellently and tastefully arranged display of gowns, suits, waists and hats, all suitable for fall wear. Black predominates in the color scheme with touches of orange lending a lighter touch at regular intervals. Black curtains with thin stripes of yellow, make up the door covering.

The decorators have made no attempt to vary the general appearance of the several windows which go to make up the store front. The same general theme runs through them all with a large cut-out figure in the center of the Merrimack display the only distinctive deviation of the entire exhibition. Fall foliage is used to good advantage.

The windows in Merrimack street present a picture of a garden of flowers, together with miscellaneous articles. The orange and black scheme has not been continued on this side of the building but the lighter background here is pleasingly artistic.

Ad in all the Chalifoux fall opening display and with any in Lowell or in Boston for that matter. The store management is to be congratulated on the excellent showing made by its artists.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

I overheard a couple of men talking yesterday. One was a newcomer to the city. He said he thought it was a shame that streets were not properly marked with good clean signs. This may interest merchants, the street department and the chamber of commerce. This man said, "The indicators on the streets here are a disgrace to any city of Lowell's size. I have to stop and yelp all around looking for the streets. And then I generally wind up by asking a policeman or passerby. The few signs there are are dirty and improperly located. Take any other city and you will find markers at each intersection of streets. It's bad enough to walk up from the station and stomach the sight of a poor entrance to the city without being compelled to grope around the streets after you reach the business section."

Among the hardest workers for the Mardi Gras being held at the Kaslo in aid of St. Anthony's church are the Bettencourt sisters, Misses Margaret and Jennie. These two young ladies are always active in affairs of the parish and deserve much credit for the success of many social events undertaken by the church.

Lowell automobilists who may be contemplating week-end trips out of this city to other places, principally Boston and points east, will be interested in the bulletin issued yesterday by the state department of public works.

About the Lowell-Boston route the bulletin says: "Woburn-Winchester: Construction three miles. One mile in Winchester open to travel, being built one-half at a time. Remainder of road closed to through travel, with good detour."

Concerning the route Lexington-Lowell it has to say: "Bedford North road: Construction a half mile, open to travel."

For the trip Boston to Bedford, to Nashua, the bulletin says: "Chelmsford-North and Boston road: Construction about one mile. Two short detours, each one-quarter mile in length, in good condition."

Judging by what I hear from some local newspaper writers I think the following news item published in a Boston paper yesterday will interest some people in Lowell:

"Lynn, Sept. 23.—Today Mayor Creamer ordered Chief of Police Burkes, in the future, to require the policemen to make a report of all accidents as soon as they occur."

The mayor said that he had been brought to his attention that frequently policemen had attempted to withhold records of such accidents from the police reporters, and for this reason he was ordering that all such reports be made immediately in order that they might be available to the newspaper men."

At the present time there is opening an opportunity in Lowell which very few of our young people who are daily employed should overlook. I refer to the registration sessions for admittance to the evening high school now going on. Here is a chance for any Lowell boy or girl who has not had the benefit of a high school education to improve himself vastly. Discussing the matter the other day, Henry H. Harris, who is principal of both the day and evening high schools, said that there was no reason for young people in Lowell spending all their evenings around movie theatres, pool rooms and the like. The evening high school will give them any kind of instruction they wish. The same high caliber of teachers who instruct those who attend the day school are at the evening high school so that the best possible sort of instruction is obtainable. Mr. Harris has enlarged the scope of the high school curriculum this year so that even those who have not had the advantage of a grammar school education may take up a preparatory course which will enable them to pursue the regular courses later on.

Quarter Century Ago

From the old Sun I take the following article relative to visits of presidents of the United States and presidential candidates to this city: "The probable visit of Mr. Bryan, the presidential candidate for Lowell next week, recalls to mind the visits of presidents and presidential candidates who have done this city the honor of having visited it and inspected its far famed mills, its wonderful water power and remarkable business achievements."

Andrew Jackson

"The first president who visited Lowell was Andrew Jackson, on June 25 and 27, 1823. Lowell was then a bustling mill town, with healthily looking mill girls, neat little buildings and endowed with a surprising capacity for business. The presidential party came over the road from Andover, as railroads then were far and few between. The distinguished guests entered the city on horses, and were met on North street by a large cavalcade of citizens and companies of militia on foot. These were followed by children from the public schools who turned out in great numbers. But the mill girls, nearly 3000 in number all robed out in attractive white dresses, took President Jackson's eye at once."

"The imposing procession proceeded down into the city amid the cries of crowds of people along the route and cannons boomed from Chapel hill at intervals during the march. During his stay here the president was shown the sights of the town, including the mills in operation and the great water power that ran them. An account of the president's visit said that during his short stay here Old Hickory walked through 3000 mill girls all in white."

Henry Clay

"The next president, or defeated candidate for the presidency, who might call him, to visit Lowell, was Henry Clay, the renowned American statesman, who in 1832 ran for president and was beaten by General Jackson. He received a great reception during his visit here and those who had upheld his policies in the election the previous year, turned out to do him homage."

President Tyler

"This city was in gala attire when President Tyler visited it on June 19, 1842. He arrived at the North street depot, which had been completed but a few years before, and was met by an imposing array of citizens. "The streets around the depot were packed with humanity, all anxious to get a view of the head of this country. A platform was erected not far from the depot on which was the committee of arrangements, headed by Dr. Huntington, one of Lowell's most famous mayors, who delivered a speech of welcome."

"The president responded and the immense crowd enthusiastically applauded. Two of Lowell's old-time military organizations were present, together with a company from Manchester. After the speech making the presidential party was drawn in a procession by six black horses, accompanied by the militia, the school children, and a cavalcade of citizens, and the line of march was taken through the principal streets of the city. The mills and places of interest were visited."

President Polk

"The next presidential visit was that of President Polk, President Tyler's successor, who came to Lowell on June 10, 1847. He was met on his arrival by the mayor and a committee of prominent citizens, who were all proud in welcoming him to the Spindle city. The mills were closed in honor of the distinguished visitor and the operatives filled the streets during the president's tour of the city. The militia companies from Lowell and Westford turned out in large numbers. There was also a large number of mounted citizens who did escort duty to the presidential party. A public supper was served at Mechanics hall in the evening in honor of the guests."

"The president and his party visited the mills the next day and inspected the chief places of interest in and around the city. After their visit here they left for Concord, N. H."

General Grant

"On December 4, 1865, General Grant visited Lowell. The distinguished military president was stopping at Boston at the time, and recognizing this fact and thinking the people of Lowell were anxious to see him, our city government sent a special invitation to the general to visit this city. General Grant heeded the request and a committee was sent to Boston to escort him to Lowell. The general, at that time, seemed desirous of avoiding any display on his account, and mainly for that reason only three car-

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

UNDOMESTICATED ANIMALS

THEY cost a lot, they're a heap of bother,
They're mostly hungry and hard to fill;
They trouble mother and worry father,
They're rough and noisy enough, but still—

THEY leave disorder the whole house over
and oh how frowny and grimed they get;
They're always bringing some canine rover
and wanting to keep the cur. And yet—

THEY wear out clothes in a frightful fashion
They haven't a bit of respect for dress;
For gathering junk they're an inborn passion,
They clutter the house; but, nevertheless—

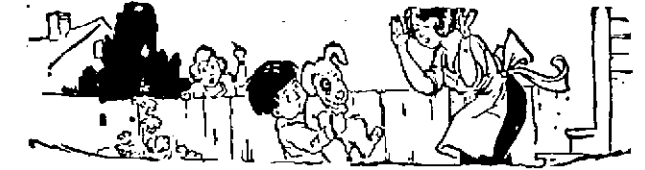

OF order and duty they've little notion,
The walk's unswept and the grass uncut;
For books or school they show scant devotion,
They're always getting in trouble, but—

THE neighbors' windows they're always breaking
In clubs and gangs they are always banding,
Their wild stunts keep us forever quaking,
They're tough to handle; yet, notwithstanding—

BOYS are a nuisance, there's no denying—
They're mostly lawless and rarely tame,
Their ways are savage, their manners trying,
They're restless creatures; but, just the same

WE wouldn't care for the house without them,
Dear God, how empty and bleak 't would be;
So, though we constantly groan about them

(Copyright, 1921, The Lowell Sun.)

places were provided for the accommodations of himself and his party when he arrived in this city at the North street depot. There were big crowds on the streets, but it seemed the people wished to adhere to General Grant's desire, for general enthusiasm was quite lacking. The flags were flown from the public buildings and some of the people carried small flags on the streets, but these were the only manifestations of patriotism that greeted the general's eyes.

"The only other president who stopped at Lowell was President Harrison, who stepped on the rear platform of his train a few years ago to bow pleasantly to a big crowd of people who were packed around the depot to catch a glimpse of him."

Mr. Bryan did not come to Lowell as was expected. He visited Boston and was invited to Lowell but was unable to come owing to other engagements.

Taft and Roosevelt

In 1912, the year of the Bull Moose break, Roosevelt came to Lowell and spoke on the South common, coming directly from the depot. It was on that occasion he complimented the police arrangements for controlling the crowd. Some time later, President Taft, then seeking a re-election, visited Lowell and spoke in the Opera House. His voice was in bad shape and he was so hoarse his speech could scarcely be heard. Even then he realized that he was a beaten man.

COBB AND HEILMAN TIED FOOTBALL GAMES TODAY

Detroit Pair Batting for .394
—Hornsby Leading Nat.
League With .405

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Ty Cobb, pilot of the Detroit Tigers, has clinched a tie with his teammate, Harry Heilmann, for the batting honors of the American league. The Georgia peach who has been hitting with due regularity since entering the home stretch, is batting .394, a mark which he held a week ago, while Heilmann, who has been hitting top place honors, hit a slight batting slump during the last week and dropped from .395 to .394. Cobb also is trailing the two Detroit stars for the batting honors with a mark of .375. Just four points in front of Geo. Sinker of St. Louis, who is hitting .374. Cobb is far in front of his rivals as a run-getter, having registered 185 runs for the Yankees.

Sinker has taken the lead in the stolen base department by pilfering three bases during the past week and bringing his total to 27. Sinker's runner, Hughson, who was leading a week ago, failed to add to his leading of 26.

Other leading batters: Speaker, Cleveland, .366; Tobin, St. Louis, .359; Williams, St. Louis, .355; Jacobson, St. Louis, .342; E. Collins, Chicago, .339; Strunk, Chicago, .338.

Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis has been hitting with telling effect, and has brought his average up to .405 for the leadership in the National league. He is batting .384, and has increased his lead as a run-getter. He scored 177 times. Jack Pomeroy, a teammate of Hornsby's, retained his position as runner-up with a mark of .370. McHenry, another member of the Cardinals, is pushing the big Frenchman with an average of .367. George Kelly of the Giants brought his season's home run record up to 23 by cracking out another home run. Frank Frisch also of New York failed to add to his customary base stealing wares during the week and his total of 47 thefts remained unchanged. Other leading batters: Cusick, Pittsburgh, .347; Hooten, Cincinnati, .340; Cruise, Boston, .335; Frisch, New York, .330; J. Smith, St. Louis, .325; Messel, New York, .325; Groh, Cincinnati, .325.

Annual Debut of Eastern Colleges—Harvard Plays a Double Header

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Eastern college football makes its annual debut today with almost a score of games in which some of the larger institutions eleven first rivals of minor strength. Harvard and Yale are the only teams of the so-called "big three" to appear in the season today. While Yale is lumbering up at New Haven against Bates the crimson will uncover something of a grudge rivalry in the double-header in which the teams of Middlebury college and Boston university will be played.

1920 scores:
Middlebury college at Harvard university—did not meet.
Boston university at Harvard university—did not meet.
Rhode Island State at Brown university—10 to 25.
Norwich university at Dartmouth college—0 to 31.
Delaware college at Pennsylvania university—0 to 26.
Geneva college at Pittsburgh university—0 to 47.
Ursinus college at Rutgers college—7 to 14.
Amherst college at Springfield college—did not meet.
Lebanon Valley college at Penn State college—19 to 13.
Maine university at Fordham university—did not meet.
Trinity college at Holy Cross college—did not meet.

BUFF HOLDS TWO TITLES

Last Night's Victory Over
Herman Gives Him
Union of Two Crowns

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Johnny Buff of the City American flyweight champion, won the world's bantamweight title last night when he received the judges' decision over Pete Herman of New Orleans at the end of their 15-round bout. Buff weighed 112½ pounds and Herman 117½ pounds.

Buff brought the crowd to its feet twice and again by his lightning-like work and aggressiveness. He had the better of 10 rounds, while Herman had one and a half.

The New Orleans boy appeared unable to use his right effectively, and while Buff missed punches, his gloves were heavy and hard and worried Herman.

Herman showed best in the fourth round when he got a right to the jaw, upsetting him. Buff was up immediately, however.

Herman, who won the bantamweight championship from Kid Williams of Baltimore in a 20-round fight at New Orleans in 1917, lost it on a technicality in a 15-round fight at a contest of the City American of New York, but won it back again when he received the judges' decision over Buff in a 15-round bout in Brooklyn a few weeks ago.

Holds Two Titles

LAWRENCE TEAM

WILL PLAY HERE

Tomorrow afternoon the Oakleaves of Lawrence will come to Lowell to play the O.M.I. Cadets' football team on the North common. The Oakleaves have one of the strongest teams of its age in the downriver city and for the past two years has held the Lawrence championship.

The Cadets need no introduction to local football fans as their previous records show their calibre. Tomorrow's game will start promptly at 3 o'clock and the players are requested to report on the common at 2. The Cadet lineup follows: Payton, Neary, Holden, Crowe, Newton, Gorman, Nelson, Cassidy, Taylor, McGlinchey, O'Connell, Curran, O'Brien, Egan, J. O'Connell and D. O'Connell.

"I'll make the place kick," piped the youth.

"You hold it as I said!"

He came a running, raised his foot, and kicked the bean instead.

BY ROY CHOW.

Pinch hitters have been called upon 63 times in World Series games dating back as far as 1903, the first being of the Interleague postseason clashes.

And only 12 times have the men thus jammed into the breach put over the old wallop, in most of which they were introduced into the lineup.

Will pinch hitters in the series? Will coming up be able to better this record?

Abolition of treat pitching and introduction of a live ball, which turned baseball into a game of free and heavy hitting, ought to turn out in the 1921 World Series a crop of pinch hitters that will shatter all precedent for ability to pull games out of the fire.

Pinch hitters once decided a World Series. They were Engle and Olaf Henriksen, pinching for the Red Sox in 1912, in the last game of the series with the New York Giants. The teams had each won three games.

The great Mathewson was in the box and the Giants were leading by one run when Boston came up in the seventh inning, there were two out and one on base. Red Sox pitcher, was next up.

Manager Carrigan jerked Redfield and sent in a young Danahy, a fielder. Olaf Henriksen, to pinch-hit. Henriksen struck at one ball. The next was a called strike. The Giants were getting all set for the game when that caught the third ball on the nose for a double, scoring Stank with the tying run.

In the tenth inning New York scored again. A second Red Sox pinch hitter, with the aid of Mr. Snodgrass' well-remembered muff, made it possible for Boston to win.

Engle batted for Wood and after the high one that Snodgrass let trickle through his fingers, Speaker then scored Engle with the tying run, and the winning run came in on Gardner's sacrifice fly.

Substitutes played an important role in the second game of the 1916 Red Sox-Brooklyn series at Boston. Boston opened up Brooklyn's one-run lead in the third inning and the game dragged on with neither team scoring until the 14th. Dick Hoblitzel then drew a pass, and Louis Slaughter, Manager Carrigan sent McNally to second to run for the big first baseman, pulled Gardner out of the lineup and sent in Del Gardner to bat for him. Gardner connected with a vicious line drive that went for a single and McNally, the other substitute, brought home the run that won the game.

Ten times 1903 pinch hitters have worked the pitchers for passes, thus bridging the danger gap successfully for their teams. Murphy of the White Sox got a life in the 112 series with the Reds when he went in to pinch hit and got one of Hod Eller's offerings in the middle of the back.

THINKS SANTOS HAD

MONEY IN BANK

Undertaker J. F. O'Donnell today received a letter from Leopoldo Conte, New York, relative of Jose Santos, singer of Chief Engineer M. F. Rothman of the Lowell Gas company.

Two weeks ago, in answer to two telegrams sent him asking if he would take charge of the funeral in this city. The letter states that Conte has no money and cannot pay for the funeral. He stated that Santos had two sisters in Portugal and in his belief, the dead man had money deposited in some American bank. He advised Mr. O'Donnell to try to find this money with which to pay the burial expenses. Santos was buried last Monday. Nobody claimed his body.

When George Washington Lee Fights, All Chop Sueys Close

By N.E.A. Service.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 24.—George Washington Lee has never chopped down any cherry trees, but he has battered down a lot of promising bantamweights.

He claims the Chinese bantamweight championship of the world, and if there's any slant-eyed scowling smith who thinks he can wrestle it away from him, let him speak up now.

Lee was born in San Francisco 21 years ago and shortly afterwards the family moved to Sacramento, into a quarter of the city where George had to learn to use his fists in order to get an even break with the kids in the neighborhood.

Good Start

How well he succeeded was illustrated on the night he walked up to Asch Hoffman's light arena and asked permission to get into the ring with somebody. Hoffman gave him a chance and George cleaned him up as speedily and handily as his counterymen close up your shirt. Faster stuff than a kick—kicked and went the same way.

Hoffman then took Lee to New Orleans, where he knocked out a tough egg named Rafferty in one round. He returned to the Queen City later and fought a draw with Red Watson. The only training he had for this fight was during stopovers en route from the coast.

Meets Herman

In August, 1920, Lee again met Watson and beat him. On Sept. he fought Pete Herman, a tough night. Later he beat Artie Simons, lost a 15-round decision to Johnny Buff, beat Young Dempsey in Memphis and lost to Aliget Smith at Rickard's Madison Square Garden.

When Lee fights in most towns, all the chop suey restaurants close for the evening.

Indians Must Win Three Straight To Wrest First Place From Yanks

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Defeated in the opening game of the "little world's series" the Cleveland Americans now face the task of taking three straight from New York in order to wrest first place from the Yankees. Today's battle is an important one. A victory for the Yankees would mean that even if they lost four of their final eight games, the Indians would have to win all their six in order to finish first. A victory today for the Indians would bring about a virtual tie, with New York leading by less than two points. Waite Hoyt's splendid pitching against the Indians yesterday increased the confidence of the New York followers as he will be available again in the final game, Monday. The young twirler struck out seven men and was steady except in the fourth inning when two runs were scored. In the first inning he fanned Jameson, Wood and Smith. Babe Ruth, whose three two-base hits figured prominently in the victory scored three of the four New York runs. First baseman Johnston of Cleveland had only four putouts while Centerfielder Wood of the same club made five, three of them in one inning. Manager Speaker of the visitors still is troubled with his leg, recently injured. He batted for Coveleski in the ninth inning, and raised a pop fly to Peckinpaugh. Speaker limped in running to first. Gardner and Sewell were the only Indians to get more than one hit, the former making two singles and the latter a triple and a single.

Pittsburgh Still Has A Chance

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Pittsburgh still retains a mathematical possibility of overtaking New York for leadership in the National League, although 23 points behind the pacemakers. Pitcher Hamilton of the Pirates kept his team in the running by splendid pitching against Philadelphia yesterday, blanking them and allowing only four hits, which were evenly divided between two outfielders, Lee and King. The Chicago Cubs with a team made up of several recruits, including a pitcher, defeated the Boston Braves in a game marked by each Chicago man making one or more hits. Heimack, another recruit pitcher helped the Philadelphia Athletics win a double header from the Chicago White Sox, after he had won nine straight games. Pitcher Bush of the Boston Red Sox was stopped by St. Louis in the first game of a double header. Shocker was the winning pitcher. In the second contest won by Boston, Centerfielder Leibold of the winners hit safely in four times at bat. Yesterday's victory for the Yankees over Cleveland was the 12th the world's champions have lost to the New Yorkers this year.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Young Emeralds defeated the Wilgins A.C. 5 to 4, Thursday. A week from Sunday the Emeralds will play the Young Americans for two 50-cent balls. Before the end of the season they would like games with the Monmouths, St. Joseph's, Navy Yard A.C., Mohawks or any other amateur nine in the city. For games, call 522-2 or write to 15 Wilgins street.

SOCCER GAME TODAY

AT SHEDD PARK

The soccer season got under way in Lowell this afternoon at Shedd park when the Abbot Worsted Co. team of Graniteville played its first game in the newly organized Merrimack Valley League with the first Waterbury A.C. as its opponents. Both teams presented strong lineups. John Gallagher was line man and there was a large crowd of fans on hand to watch the fun.

NO INDICTMENT IN FIGHT FILM CASE

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Teddy Hayes, Jack Dempsey's trainer, will not be prosecuted in the federal courts for his technical violation of law in transporting films of the Carpenter-Dempsey championship fight for exhibition on Aug. 9 last before a wounded man in Parker Hall hospital. The federal grand jury returned no bill against Hayes for violation of the interstate commerce laws in transporting the pictures.

A startling increase in the normal number of persons indicted by the federal grand jury was in the United States district court, yesterday, when 11 persons were named as indicted for various violations of the narcotic laws. The number exceeds by two to one any previous similar return.

Most of the indictments alleged either possession or sale of cocaine or morphine. In several instances both possession and sale were charged.

One of those indicted, Abraham Eapany, who pleaded guilty to both possession and sale is an addict himself, according to the statement of Asst. United States Atty. Kelly. He was given a 30-days sentence in Plymouth jail.

I'd like to be a box-fighter. I would, if I could lose it. They say they make a lotta jack. And don't work hard to win it.

Every time the ball flew down. From pitcher's box to plate. He swung with all his might, might. Too soon or else too late.

He was a famous quarterback. His fame lay in his head. He never used to try his brains. He bucked the line instead.

Real Estate Transactions—Building Notes and Permits Issued

Serve to Keep You Close to Nature

No steps to climb in this model home plan, furnished The Sun by the Curtis Service Bureau of Clifton, N. J., in an interior and exterior woodwork.

The American passion for porches is exemplified in this pretty cottage, for it has four—two front porches, a rear porch and a sleeping porch. The porch roofs have a pergola-effect, which is carried out in exposed rafters and around the main roof. Balmy trellises screen the front porches, and half hide the cottage itself.

The type of house of which this one is an example has been called southern, because spread out on one story, close to the ground, with porches, overhanging eaves to shade the walls, many openings for sun and breeze, trellises for vines, and a fuel-room in the house instead of a full basement.

Can Have Basement
These all suggest the great outdoors of the sunny south land. Of course, a basement can be provided without losing the desirable low-lying effect. By the use of cellar rash in excavated areaways.

The floor plan of this charming house is a perfect rectangle, 35 feet deep by 61 feet wide, though the interesting exterior is very unlike the usual rectangular house. The six rooms are well arranged, and the sleeping quarters are effectively isolated from the living portion of the house.
The living room, extending out between the front porches, has French doors opening to both of them. Opposite the windows is the hearth, the centre of the home circle.

The wing of the house on the left of the living room is taken up by the dining room and the service portion of the house. There is a built-in cupboard in the dining room for china.
The kitchen is only 10 feet square, but its fixtures are so compactly arranged that it is efficient.

Fuel Room Handy
The little rear porch is a handy place to have stationary tubs, or the refrigerator. Adjoining it is the fuel room that supplies the fireplace without necessitating going out of the house.
The bedrooms are to the right and rear of the living room. They are con-noted with the bathroom by a hall.

One of the bedrooms opens directly into the kitchen, and might be used as a maid's room. All three bedrooms have ample closets, and are well lighted and ventilated. The main bedroom opens into the sleeping porch, through a little passageway formed by the chimney and a built-in case of trays that admirably serves as a chiffonier. Provision is made for a linen case in the hall, which will also gladden the homemaker's heart.

The main hip roof of this cottage ends in a gable, which permits the use of a louver to ventilate the attic, making the rooms cooler. One of the porches might be glazed for use on chilly days.

Needs 60-Foot Front
The layout of the plan is such that this house may be built on a lot facing in any direction and still have bright rooms, so advantage may be taken of local conditions and of providing breezes. A 60-foot frontage is necessary.

With white-painted woodwork of colonial design, this little southern cottage will be a joy for all time.

CUBA'S FATE HANGS IN THE BALANCE

By N.E.A. Service
HAVANA, Sept. 21.—Upon the success of the Cuban mission now in Washington to obtain a loan of $50,000,000 nullification of the duty of two cents a pound on sugar going to America and modification of the proposed increased tariff on tobacco depends the return of normalcy for the island.
The commission will attempt to show that unless there is a continuance of unhindered trade between the United States and the island republic, American investments of over $700,000,000 will be jeopardized, the industrial life of Cuba blighted, and the country thrown into bankruptcy.
Cuba, like many other countries, is suffering from the aftermath of the world war.
The United States exports to Cuba increased under the reciprocity treaty from about $25,000,000 before the war to over $62,000,000 in 1920.
Cuba not only exports the money she receives from her sugar sales in the United States markets, but she spends in the United States her entire income from all of her foreign trade.

There are 16,000 fewer postoffices in the United States today than there

Amusement Notes

tractions will be Eugene O'Brien in "Life Worth Living," and Gladys Walton in "Short Skirts." The usual comedy and weekly will also help make the semi-weekly program more enjoyable. Can you afford to miss them? Not if you are a motion picture patron.

The special added attraction for the first three days of the contest, already in connection with the regular program, will be the famous Shevlin-Kloby pictures of their championship battle held in Salem some weeks ago. This is the first showing of these films and should attract more than ordinary attention, not alone to the men folk, but the women as well. During the past year or three years "demonstrations of the manly art" such as this one, have been witnessed by large numbers of the women folk. Don't miss seeing these pictures. They give a wonderfully interesting demonstration.

"Going Some" is a picture of real action and up to the usual beach standard of film offering in any way. The cast chosen for it is of the all-star variety. Wagering a big battle upon the outcome of a foot race is one of the exciting producing elements. Most of the action centers around the two runners and the owners of the ranches. The runners hold the destiny of many people in their power to win or lose the eventual race. Before the time arrives for the athletes to try out their physical capabilities, oil is discovered in one of the wagers ranches thereby enhancing its value a great deal. The possibility of such a discovery was not taken into consideration when the wager was made; hence arises the question of whether or not it would be fair to carry out the original terms of the bet was based. Obviating the necessity of legal assistance, nature affords things to take their normal course. The solving of this puzzle makes a most absorbing interest. "Going Some" gives all the thrills and excitement to be derived from a picture.

Two beautiful women support Harry Carey in the noted western star's most recent picture success, "Desperate Trails." Irene Rich and Barbara Lamar, both well and favorably known as being in interesting characterizations that help make the offering complete. It's the amazing story of a man who goes to prison for another and then finds that his has made the victim of an unjust woman. Nature plays a most important atmospheric role throughout the production and establishes the picture as one of the most artistic stories of recent years. Marvelously beautiful snow scenes, fantastic shots of an overland train thundering through a rain-felled night, graphic views of the prison of prison and studies of modern western life that ring true, give the story added appeal. The cast includes George Stone and Helen Field, two gifted children who appear to advantage.

Eugene O'Brien in a new Selznick Picture, "Life Worth Living" is one of the feature pictures for the week-end. In it the star appears as a chap who has barely avoided going to prison on a false charge of theft and feels that, although he has been acquitted in court, a damning stigma has been left on his name, and that many of the avenues of his honest living have been forever closed to him. The result of his efforts to establish himself in the social and business world are so discouraging that, in desperation, he plots a big destruction. What the ultimate result is, may better be told by the picture. See it and know.

Not the least interesting feature of "Short Skirts" with fascinating Gladys Walton in the stellar role, is the artistic prologue which precedes the main story. "Short Skirts" is a picture with a message. It is a story told for the sake of a moral, nor does it drag in a lesson by the heels; but in a subtle way it points to the tendency of the modern youngster to make the transition from childhood to maturity with a single bound. This, the story points out, is due to the examples set by the elders and to the lack of restraint in the average American child. It's all very cleverly and artistically, as well as effectively done. Don't miss seeing it. The usual high-class program of vaudeville and an entire change of pictures is assured for the Sunday concert.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Thomas Melghan in "Cappy Ricks" and "The Golem" Big Features for Next Week

You're always sure of the best obtainable in photoplays at the Merrimack Square theatre. Manager Nelson has that faculty of selecting the most desirable productions in making up his program and as a result his patrons have rarely found the motto of the Merrimack Square, "It's Always a Good Show," a mere empty phrase. Mary Anderson in "Hubbles," a poignant story of present day life, and "Cappy Ricks," a story of a boy's life, are the leading attractions for the Sunday program. The usual excellent supporting bill will also be presented. Topping off a big program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be Thomas Melghan in "Cappy Ricks," Peter B. Kyne's noted sea story, and "The Golem," a special super-production of rare merit.

Mr. Melghan, known far and wide as "the good luck star," seldom, if ever, disappoints his audience. In "Cappy Ricks" he adds another delightful morsel to his long list of photoplays successes. The story of his latest production is unusually interesting. Mr. Melghan is excellent as Matt Peasley, a seaman's mate, who falls in love with and wins Florrie Ricks, daughter of a wealthy merchant. He proves his mettle as a man in two of three capitalistic encounters which take place in the development of the story. Altogether, his portrayal is one of the best enjoyed by everyone. Agnes Ayres is charming as Florrie, while Charles Abbe is wholly artistic in his portrayal of Cappy. The support generally is of the highest standard.

"Cappy Ricks" directed by Tom Forman, is one of the most enjoyable pictures seen here in a long while. It is an excellent story, well acted and the photography by Harry Perry leaves little to be desired.

A mystical story of medieval Europe is given in "The Golem," the other big feature for the first half of the week. Paul Wegener, a distinguished continental actor, directed the production and plays the arduous role of the clay monster called the Golem. Out of legendary material Mr. Wegener has constructed a fascinating story laid in Prague, Bohemia, during the 13th century, when Emperor Rudolph had nothing to do but induce in pagans. In order to avert the menace of a huge monster over his city, the chief rabbi creates a huge figure called the "Golem" instilling life and loyalty into it by putting on its breast a star inscribed with a magic word.

After the golem has saved the emperor and his court from death, and so won a reprieve for the Jews, the rabbi decides to send the clay giant back into oblivion. But the huge clay object, whether it is because the rabbi has violated the commandment against making any graven image or because the rabbi's daughter has fallen in love with a noble, the golem becomes an avenging instrument and nearly turns the town upside down in his rage. A Fox comedy, "The Chaffers" and an International News will complete the bill.

THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

International Textile Exposition in Boston Will Have Many Exhibitors

Three hundred and eighty-seven exhibitors have taken space in the International textile exposition to be held in Mechanics building, Boston, October 31st to November 6th.

This, the seventh exhibition conducted by the textile industry, will be for the greatest show of its kind ever held in this country. All the available 125,000 sq. ft. of floor space of the two floors and balconies in exhibition and grand hall is sold—and it has been found necessary to use Paul Revere hall.

The coming exposition, with twice the number of exhibitors, will be more complete in every detail than any previous show. The unprecedented number of machines to be exhibited in actual operation will be of great value to manufacturers and very attractive to the general public.

Starting with the picker room equipment, there will be hardly any machine of importance—used in a cotton mill—that cannot be seen in actual operation—including dyes, finishing, and cloth room equipment.

Another feature of importance will be the power department which will occupy department D, and will include exhibits of everything that is new and important in the transmission of power in a textile mill.

There will be in addition, the usual exhibits of products allied to the textile trade and for the first time, the finished product will be exhibited by many of the largest mills in the country.

During the week there will be two big national conventions held in connection with the exposition, at which the vital questions of the industry will be discussed.

The most important will be that of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, to which delegates from every mill center in the United States, Canada, and in a number of instances, England, will journey to Boston, and the New England Association of Commercial Engineers, who have devoted their energies to promoting the power show will convene in Boston during the exposition.

Among the hundred of exhibits

A. F. RABOUR, the contractor at 354 Bridge street, is the local agent for Bird's Art-Craft roof tile design, and he states that an Art-Craft roof is a money and time saver in the first cost of material as compared with other good roofs. It is also a big saver in the secondary cost of application. The Art-Craft is put right over the old wooden shingles, which means a double roof for your building. The Art-Craft is sparkproof, so your building is in no danger of catching fire from falling sparks from your own chimney or your neighbor's. The simplicity of Art-Craft application is emphasized by the fact that there is no dust, dirt or litter of pulling off the old wooden shingles, as would be the case if you selected some other kind of a roof to put on. Bird's Art-Craft roof is an immensely practical roof, because it can be used on new buildings right over the old boards, just as well as over the old wooden shingles on the old building. Art-Craft is durable and in all respects is an unusually rich appearance and is a money saver.

JOHN S. MOIR
The mental and physical comfort of your family depends upon its eyes. The eye—the most delicate organ of the body, will, if it is not normal, give rise to baffling mental unrest which sometimes approaches and even surpasses acute physical disorder. This is not only often the case with adults, but very frequently the children suffer, not knowing the source of the entire trouble comes from some defect in vision which may readily be relieved through proper examination and the providing of proper glasses.

Experience and scientific research have been our educators in this line and we are well equipped to render best of service. John S. Moir, optometrist, 311 Wyman's Exchange.

A. U. CONSTANTINEAU

Do you know that at the present time the painting costs are about 20 per cent lower than last year, and if any further change takes place it will be upward?

In having your job done, hire a first class man to do it. A. U. Constantineau of 55 Second avenue, Phone 3052-R is a painting contractor of 20 years' experience, and his prices are as low as first class work will warrant.

there will be many machines and devices incorporating many new improvements made since the last exposition.

RUSSIA DRAFTS REPLY TO POLISH ULTIMATUM

MOSCOW, Sept. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Russia's reply to the Polish ultimatum of Monday last was agreed upon today and will be forwarded immediately. In it the Soviet government states that while Poland insists upon compliance by Russia with the first three points of the ultimatum, Russia is unable to accept them. The ultimatum demands that Poland guarantee to respect the sovereignty of each other and agree not to interfere with domestic affairs by supporting organizations fighting against the respective governments.

This article refers especially to General Petura, the Ukrainian, anti-Bolshevik leader and General Boris Savinkoff, the anti-Bolshevik leader whose expulsion from Poland the Soviet government recently demanded.

The reply says that failure to reach an agreement before Oct. 1, which Poland fixed as the date when it will break off diplomatic relations if Russia fails to comply with the ultimatum, will also be regarded by the Soviet government as cause for the recall from Warsaw of M. Karakhan, the Soviet representative in Poland.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. Thomas Ross, formerly vice-president of the Ladies' Aid society of the Westminster Presbyterian church, was elected president of that organization at the meeting Wednesday evening at the purpose of electing officers for the coming year.

Mrs. J. L. McKillip, had been accepted. Mrs. L. A. Ashley was chosen vice-president and Mrs. Charles Wallace was elected treasurer. The meeting voted to hold a supper at Post 122 hall, Merrimack street, Saturday evening, October 1, and a committee was appointed to make arrangements.

Miss Doris A. Fraser, an active member of the V. M. Henry Missionary Circle left this week for Philadelphia where she is to enter the University of Pennsylvania. This announcement was made at the meeting of the organization at the home of Rev. J. M. Speer, 70 Warwick street, Thursday evening. Several communications were read and the usual routine business was acted on. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

commissioner of corporations and taxation and formerly private secretary to Calvin Coolidge when the latter was governor, seems to be in full accord with his former chief in respect to the financial end of governmental administration.

It is related of Coolidge that during his first term as governor, a prominent republican legislator, member of the ways and means committee, went to his office one day with cheerful tidings. "Governor," he said, "we have succeeded in fixing it so the state tax will be just the same as last year. What do you think of that?"

Because of expenditures incidental to the war and other extraordinary causes it had been expected that the state tax would jump at least two millions of dollars, and this legislator fully expected that the efforts of his committee would be rewarded with a "well done, good and faithful servant." His surprise may well be imagined when Coolidge replied, so it is said: "Don't care, nothing about the state tax. How much have we spent? That's the real test of an administration."

He was told that the appropriations authorized were approximately three million dollars more than in the preceding year. "That's what the use of talking about the state tax is for," he demanded; "the people have got to pay that three million, haven't they?"

Commissioner Lutz has taken occasion recently in two public appearances to sound the same idea. Tax rates, he points out, merely represent the huge tax which the state levies on the money needed to meet municipal expenditures. They are not punitive, he says, because they indicate merely the ratio of valuations to expenditures and by maintaining valuations, the tax rate may be lowered to suit the fancy of those responsible for municipal government. The constant factor, incapable of manipulation, is the aggregate of expenditures and Commissioner Long makes it plain that citizens who are anxious to reduce their tax bills should care more for the maintenance of the property which money is extracted from their municipal treasury.

Providence Man Waylaid Woman on Way to Work and Attempted to Kill Her

Then Turned Gun on Himself and Died Almost Instantly

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 24.—Antone Rodriguez waylaid Mrs. Mary Souza on her way to work this morning and attempted to kill her. Then he turned the gun on himself and inflicted wounds from which he died almost instantly.

Mrs. Souza with one bullet wound in her right breast, is at the Rhode Island hospital. She is expected to recover.

DUELISTS EMPTY GUNS, FIGHT WITH SWORDS

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Count de Poret and Camille La Farge, dueling in the Parc des Princes, using both pistols and swords. The count is said to have sustained a sword wound through his right arm which forced him, in tears, to give up the combat.

The duel was started with the men using pistols. Four shots were fired by each man at a distance of 20 metres. All the bullets went wild.

Then the combatants faced each other with dueling swords. La Farge twice was touched on the right shoulder by the count's sword, but he continued the fray and three punctured de Poret's right arm.

In the final passage at arms La Farge's sword passed through the count's arm, causing paralysis and forcing de Poret to retire. The duel lasted an hour and a half.

Both men admitted their guilt just before the execution. More than 10,000 people were present for the execution, the crowd for the wife and two children of Ponsell and the wife and one child of Martin, who are destitute.

COURT WARNED NOT TO SENTENCE UNION MEN

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 24.—A second threatening letter was received yesterday by Linwood F. Crockett, clerk of the courts for Cumberland county. In it court officers were warned to "see that no union man is sent to prison at this term of court."

The first letter, received on July 5, a few days after a bullet was fired through a window in Crockett's office, commented on the "injustice" inflicted on seven seamen sent to prison for manslaughter in connection with the killing of a sailor here during the marine strike in May.

SAILING REGULATIONS

Rules of the Road at Sea to Govern Race to Select Defender Off Gloucester

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 24.—The rules of the road at sea will be the only sailing regulations in the race for this port Oct. 12 to select a defender for the international fishing vessel championship trophy, won last fall at Halifax, N. S., by the Esperanza. The committee in charge announced this decision today stipulating at the same time, that competing craft shall carry only workaday sails and that only men regularly engaged in the fisheries shall steer the vessels or shift their sails.

The usual rule of eight sails carried by fishermen, including the fisherman's fisherman, will be allowed and only a minor portion of the sail area may be new. Crews will be limited to 25 men each. Ballast may not be shifted after the start of the race.

Although only one race is planned, the committee decided to hold further competition, if necessary, to determine the best boat. The course will be approximately 10 miles in length, starting from the whistling buoy off Eastern Point, N. B., will be windward and leeward, or triangular, dependent on weather conditions. The start will be made at 9 a. m. Vessels must finish within nine hours. Entries will close at noon on Oct. 10.

The committee received today the entry of the Boston schooner Mayflower, which, after being selected originally as the American defender, was disbarred by the Canadian trustees of the championship trophy on the ground that she was an extreme type of vessel and as such was ineligible to compete. The application will be considered by the committee next week.

The committee chose as its chairman Captain George Peoples, president of the Master Mariners' association.

HUNGARY ASKS LEAGUE TO SUSPEND ACTION

GENEVA, Sept. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Hungary has asked the Assembly of the League of Nations to suspend action on her application for admission to the league until next year.

Count Albert Apponyi, the Hungarian delegate here, today wrote to President Van Karnebeck of the Assembly that on account of the trouble in Burgenland, awarded to Austria by the League of Nations, Hungary prefers to wait.

(The council of ambassadors in Paris notified Hungary Friday that she must completely withdraw from Burgenland or West Hungary, in the near future or be forcibly expelled by the allies.)

$30,000 LOSS

Building and Stock of Leather Burned at Eastport

EASTPORT, Me., Sept. 24.—A three-story wooden building, occupied by Dennett & Prince Co. of Boston, manufacturers of leather belt lifts, was burned today together with $30,000 worth of stock ready for shipment, all raw material, tools and machinery.

The total loss of $30,000 was partially insured. Seventy-five per cent of the loss was covered by insurance. The building, owned by an association of businessmen, probably will not be rebuilt.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

J. Bernard Russell, of 51 Warner street, Hudson, reported to the police today that after this afternoon while operating his automobile at the junction of Powell and Hazen streets, he struck a five-year old boy named Benjamin. The boy was lying on the ground and was badly hurt.

cents, we want smoking, not moonshine here."

"You want to have much to sell in the line of drink, the package has been here too long," came back the purchaser of the well-stuffed suitcase. The auctioneer opened shortly after a clock and the package was fairly truck. The auctioneer did not seem to be prolonging the affair and quick sales were the order of the hour. It was a blind package auction sale in every sense of the word and the articles were sold from the police station rather than the collection of years.

One bid feature of the auction was the fact that the auctioneer was in a corner back of the police station, while his audience stood on much higher ground. It would have been better for the police and the crowd, too, had the situation been reversed. But the thing went along all right and, according to the auctioneer, was a success.

STOCK MARKET

The following is a complete report, giving high, low and closing quotations:

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Popular stocks, especially rails, were inclined to make further upward progress today, but the usual closing of the week's accounts together with heaviness of foreign oils exerted a restraining influence.

Local Dutch declined almost 5 points. Mexican Petroleum 3 1/2, and General Asphalt 1 1/2. Sumatra Tobacco continued to weaken on its unfavorable financial showing. Rails were one to three points higher at their best but yielded practically all their gains in the final hour. The cheaper domestic oils and obscure specialties made irregular gains. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 250,000 shares.

Clearing House Banks

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shown that they held $2,558,920 in reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $21,566,310 from last week.

Adventures of the Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Away went the twins toward the waves toward the bay where Mr. Fisherman had his big net spread out to catch as many of the whiggle people as he could. Nancy hadn't a trouble at all unhooking two of the corners and Nick shouldered the other two and swam away as easily through the water as though he were lifting the mosquito netting off a baby's bed.

"Hey, there!" called out a voice, sharply. "What are you doing? Where are you taking us? You are not the fisherman, are you?"

The twins looked back and were surprised to find that they had ever so many creatures prisoners in their net, shrimps, prawns, crabs and fish of all kinds.

The person talking was the queerest ever, a big fat fellow with a whiplike tail and two funny eyes on top of his head. Nancy he was so odd looking that really and Nick quite lost their voices with astonishment and did not answer at once. How would you feel, my dear, if the door mat should suddenly address you, a sort of three-cornered kite-shaped door mat with one long raveling of a tail?

"I say," repeated the creature sharply, "you are not Mr. Fisherman, are you? And why are you taking us here?"

"We—we are helping Capt. Penny-winkle," stammered Nancy, for the creature looked so fierce, she was frightened. "He wants the net."

"So do I!" snapped the creature. "And you are taking my dinner with you. I eat a dozen shrimps and a dozen crabs and a dozen prawns for my lunch and you are preventing me from having them. I'm Mr. Flatfish FloUNDER."

He said it as importantly as though he were announcing that he were the president.

LOWELL CALEDONIAN CLUB

Four candidates were initiated by the Caledonian club Thursday evening at its meeting in the church, Middlesex street, and four new applicants were received and tabled for investigation. An address by Rev. James M. Craig was a feature of the meeting, which was largely attended. It was voted to hold a Halloween party at the next meeting, and arrangements were made for a social gathering on Monday night. The meeting was closed with plans suggested by Eleanor Ross and Grace Russell.

EVENING HIGH REGISTRATION

The first two nights of registration at the evening high school have brought forth a record number of students. On the first two nights last year, the total number is now 308. Last evening's registration totaled 151. Registration will be open to both old and new students on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings next week.
